Cambodian Government Leaves Three Provinces

SAIGON (AP) — The Cambodian government virtually abandoned three northeastern provinces to the enemy Saturday, withdrawing on an emergency basis 8,000 Cambodian civilians and troops to South Vietnam's central highlands.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said in Saigon the evacuation was carried out at the request of Gen. Lon Nol, Cambodia's premier.

Diplomatic informants in Phnom Penh said two weeks ago the Cambodian government felt it had no alterantive but to concede nearly half the country to the enemy in order to keep control of the nation's capital and the rice belt to its northwest.

The civilians and a battalion or so of Cambodian troops were pulled out of the towns of Bo Kheo and Labansiek about 30 miles west of the South Vietnamese town of Pleiku in the central highlands.

With the withdrawals, the provinces of Ratanakiri, Mondulkiri and Stung Treng became almost fully under the control of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

The Ho Chi Minh trail from North Vietnam runs through these provinces.

Cambodian military spokesmen previously had said that Bo Kheo and Labansiek would be held "at all costs."

The United States is understood to have urged the Cambodians to attempt to hold the two towns in hopes the presence of troops would help U.S. aerial interdiction raids against enemy supply and troop trails in that area.

The evacuation operation began last Wednesday with a 5,000-man South Vietnamese thrust into Cambodia from the highlands.

The move originally was announced as a drive to evacuate ethnic Vietnamese from the two towns.

The majority of those evacuated were civilian refugees. Several hundred Cambodian troops, who according to the South Vietnamese lacked weapons, were brought with the civilians to Pleiku and a nearby former U.S. base, Camp Enari.

In addition to holding the capitals of the three northeastern provinces, Communist command forces also control five other provincial capitals and are fighting to gain control of two more—Kompong Thom in central Cambodia and Kompong Speu, 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

As the developments in the northeast unfolded, President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam told his nation on television that South Vietnamese troops would neither stay in Cambodia indefinitely nor fight the war for Cambodia.

"I do not lead this country toward a bogging down in the war," he said. But he pledged to help defend Cambodia and asserted that "many other allied nations" must join in the effort.

His speech was made shortly after the U.S. Command said elements of the 1st Air Cavalry Division and the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment had completed operations inside Cambodia and returned to South Vietnam.

The announcement came with just four days remaining for the complete withdrawal of all U.S. ground forces from Cambodia, where since May 1 they have been raiding enemy border base camps and supply caches.

A total of 339 Americans have been killed and 1,501 wounded in all Cambodian military operations, the command said, with the allies claiming to have killed over 14,000 enemy there since late March.

Although the command reported only light ground action involving U.S. troops in Cambodia on Saturday, battlefield action heated up the northern sector of South Vietnam, where eight Americans were killed and 47 wounded in four clashes that left seven enemy soldiers dead.

Twenty-three of the wounded were hurt in one action in which heavy North Vietnamese ground fire downed two helciopters lifting them on a combat assault

Prepares For Assault

A Cambodian trooper is shown pouring some Chinese brandy into his canteen at the airport at Phnom Penh Saturday before boarding a helicopter to go on a combat assault. The Cambodian government ordered a general mobilization into the defense forces of all citizens between 18 and 60, and air force sources said a big American arms shipment was flown into Phnom Penh to aid the nation's defense against the Communists. Belfast Rioting Erupts

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Three men were shot dead Saturday as rioting erupted in the streets of Belfast. Fires broke out in the city and troops tear-gassed stone-throwing mobs.

A spokesman for the Royal Victoria Hospital said three civilians were killed by gunfire and four patients were treated for bullet wounds.

The shots came from somewhere in the battling crowds.

Nearly 100 civilians, troops and policemen were treated for riot injuries, the spokesman added.

It was the second wave of street violence in Northern Ireland since Bernadette Devlin, 23, a Roman Catholic civil rights leader and youngest member of Parliament, was jailed Friday night to serve a six-month's sentence for rioting and inciting rioting last summer.

Tension was at its highest level since prolonged rioting last year between Northern Ire-

Sedalia Litter

About 20 persons gathered the trash shown above after going less than one mile along Sedalia streets Saturday in the ecological pick-up sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension office and the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association. Organizers and participants of the pickpup were disappointed by the small turn-out of interested persons.

Ecologists Are Disappointed

By LARRY E. SCHUPP
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Disappointment, along with enthusiasm, were the feelings of those taking part in the ecological pick-up which began at 9 a.m. Saturday at State Fair Shopping Center.

Mrs. Charlotte Garrett, director of the ecological project, which is only the first step in a planned summer-long program of environmental improvement, expressed disappointment in the evident lack of interest by Sedalia citizenry in the trash pick-up.

Sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Office and the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association, the pick-up was planned to clean up the areas around the main city thoroughfares.

One of the volunteers, Bill Young, 28, an environmental health specialist, stated that "a pick-up designed primarily to call attention to the problem facing the general public. At best it is only a medication of the symptoms of the problem."

"The real problem," he continued , "is creating enough response in the general public that a demand will be made for products that will recycle easily as well as conserve the very limited natural resources that we have. The squandering of aluminum and paper products from our limited pulp forests is ridiculous in light of the demands that our exploding population is going to make for these resources in the next few years."

While those present at the pick-up expressed much enthusiasm for their purpose and the program's objectives, they also expressed a feeling of enthusiasm for the project on the part of the general public.

One of the participants, Sarah Spence, 17, said, "We wouldn't be here if people were more considerate of their environment." She was seconded by Lucy Tompkin, 16, who said, "People should realize that this is such a problem."

Expressing some of the disappointment felt was Dick Huffman, 19, who stated that he was "not really too surprised that more people didn't show up...Sedalia is an apathetic town."

Along the same lines, another concerned young person, Lois DeMottt, 20, stated. "I'm disappointed that more older people didn't come today, I think the young people are more conscious of the problem and older people aren't aware that a little bit of effort on their part could help."

Her mother, Mrs. Edith DeMott, another volunteer, had a word for other parents when she said, "The concern and efforts of my four children brought a realization of the problem to me and helped to change my attitudes. If you really listen to them, you may often learn something."

However, the group felt that they were successful in that "it accomplished what we had set out to do, that is, to actually do something about pollution—in this case litter. Also, it made the highways and streets we cleaned up look 100 per cent better. We found more trash than we expected. Furthermore, it made us more aware of litter and pollution. Finally, we believe that it has made others more aware of this ever-increasing problem."

Later in the summer the group plans to begin an environmental survery of Sedalia and would like anyone knowing of pollution in Sedalia to contact them. Regular meetings of the group are in the process of being set up and will be released at a later date.

Says War Is Enlarged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, challenging the administration's view of the Cambodian operation, said Saturday it has expanded the war and enlarged the Communist sanctuary it was intended to eliminate.

When U.S. troops leave Cambodia next week, the Montanan said, what was once a Vietnamese war will have become an Idochina war and, if Thailand goes to Cambodia's aid, a Southeast Asian war.

"And with North Vietnam controlling half the country it has a greater geographical sanctuary than it had before," Mansfield told a news conference.

"Militarily it was successful, but politically it raises more questions than it answers.

"How you can extend and expand a war and speed up American withdrawal is something I can't see. I devoutly hope the President is right and I am wrong, but that's the way I see it."

Mansfield said he was not surprised at Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's disclosure that the United States will continue its involvement in the Cambodian fighting through air strikes after ground forces are withdrawn.

Laird said that although the primary purpose of such strikes would be to attack enemy supply lines, they might also serve to support Cambodian and South Vietnamese ground troops.

"Once you start in," Mansfield said, "you are going to find it extremely difficult to get out —as Vietnam should have proved."

Mansfield said if Congress passes without further change the Church-Cooper amendment designed to curb U.S. activities in Cambodia after July 1, it would appear to prohibit air strikes deep into Cambodia. The Defense Department recently has acknowledged such strikes and indicated it plans to continue them.

While the amendment would permit air strikes in hot pursuit of the enemy or to repel attacks against U.S. forces, he said, deep bombing in Cambodia go far beyond what the sponsors of the amendment have in mind.

Mansfield said he is confident the President will keep his promise, but with the South Vietnamese remaining and Thai troops poised to enter Cambodia, the U.S. presence will not be withdrawn, he said.

"They will have their American advisors, American logistical support and American air cover," he said. "The U.S. bodies will still be involved."

Israelis Attack Jordan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli planes swept into Jordan three times Saturday to pound Arab guerrilla targets across from the Beisan Valley, the military command in Tel Aviv announced.

An Israeli spokesman said the planes all returned safely after attacking an area from which Arab gunners had lobbed rocket at the Beisan Valley town of Beit Shean and shelled the settlement of Yardena in the Jordan Valley.

The Palestine Armed Struggle Command in Amman claimed that Al Fatah guerrillas mounted the rocket attacks against Beit Shean. The Command said the commandos also lobbed mortars and rockets against Israeli army positions in the Jordan Valley inflicting damage and casualties.

The statement said Al Fatah gunners lobbed rockets at an Israeli army camp in Upper Galilee.

The Israelis said they suffered no casualties or damage from the Arab attacks.

A spokesman in Amman said the Israeli planes wounded four Jordanian soldiers and two civilians during their strike into Jordan.

The Jordanian spokesman said Israeli jets strafed areas near the town of Irbid and the main road through the northern Jordan Valley.

On another front, Cairo said 18 Israeli Skyhawks swooped across the Suez Canal to hit Egyptian positions in the middle sector of the waterway, but were driven off by groundfire. An Egyptian spokesman said the raids caused no casualties or damage.

An announcement from Tel Aviv said the Israeli planes hammered Egyptian artillery batteries, bunkers and infantry emplacements along the northern sector of the 103-mile waterway. It said all the Israeli planes made it home.

Fate Of Men Is At Stake In Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government is staging a nationwide lottery Wednesday with the fate of some 2 million young men at stake.

The outcome will determine who, among men turning 19 this year, will be drafted in 1971.

By the drawing of capsules from two rotating drums, the birthday of each man born in 1951 will be matched with a number from one to 365.

When the armed forces need draftees, available men with the lowest numbers will be the first to go.

For those who have not received deferments or decided to enlist anyway, the drawing will be a nerve-wracking 90 minutes, even more tense than the lottery held last December for the draftees of 1970.

In December, men then between 19 and 26 received their permanent lottery numbers, drawn in simple one-two-three order; the suspense eased as the drawing progressed into the higher numbers, less likely to be called for the draft.

This Wednesday, however, both dates and numbers will be scrambled so any number can pop up any time. Number one

Fiscal Year To End With State In Black

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri will end this fiscal year Tuesday midnight still in the black but gray will be showing.

There may be no more than a million dollars left over in a budget that this year totaled $638 million in general revenue. Budget Director John C. Vaughn said Friday, that makes the outlook for the coming fiscal year just that much more bleak.

As of Friday total general revenue receipts for this year came to $606,997,963. For the full year Vaughn had estimated collections of $613,376,618. So with two days of collections left the state general revenue fund is $6,378,655, short of estimate.

Vaughn said he thinks that amount will be received—or almost that much. Even if the last two days of collections do produce more than $6 million that still will only leave a carryover of around $1.5 million.

He expects state agencies and institutions to turn back about $15 million from this year's budget but the amount won't be known until around Aug. 1, after such expectable June bills as utility costs and incidental purchases have been cleared. Last year the so-called lapse of unused funds came to around $18 million but Vaughn said he did not expect that much this time.

With all but some income tax estimate payments in, the total income tax collections during the fiscal year came to $170,815,415, or $2,600,415 more than Vaughn anticipated.

That small margin above anticipated income tax revenues lost all its gleam because of an overshadowing $9.25 million drop in sales tax receipts under the anticipated level.

The totals for income tax and sales tax can be considered final for this fiscal year, Vaughn said. He looked for a little help, about $1 million, from liquor and beer licenses and taxes, perhaps half a million from interest on invested funds and a bit here and there from other taxes or fees.

"I hope we'll be fairly close," was the best Vaughn would say when asked Friday about closing out at the level he had predicted almost a year ago.

The cigarette tax of 9 cents a package, all earmarked for school purposes, produced $46,511,458 through Friday. Vaughn said he thought the last two days would come close to, but not reach, the $49 million that had been used as a top estimate by the administration. Some others had predicted the year's cigarette tax receipts up to $58 million.

Friday, $914,458 came in from the cigarette tax but Vaughn said he didn't expect that much for either Monday or Tuesday —the last two days of the fiscal year.

If this year's revenues do reach $613 million-plus as was predicted, leaving a carryover of $1.5 million. . .

If state agencies lapse as much as $15 million in unspent funds. . .

If next year's general revenue prediction holds up in a shaky economy and produces the anticipated $609,705,000. . .

Then they all add up to a little over $626 million and the Legislature enacted appropriations of $624,194,746 earlier this month.

That's why Vaughn calls the coming year's financial outlook bleak.

Flat Creek Basin Project Postponed By Army Corps

Completion of an Army Corps of Engineers study of flood control in the Flat Creek basin has been set back to March 1972 due to new Corps provisions requiring consideration of environmental and ecological aspects of the project, The Democrat has learned. The study was originally to have been completed next year.

Ward Shurtz, a civil engineer with the project formulation section of the Corps' Kansas City district office, said Friday that phase one of the study, including a preliminary investigation of the feasibility of the project, has been completed, and that phase two of the study should begin next month.

Phase two will involve a more detailed study, Shurtz said, including a close look at the "cost-benefit" ratio of such a project.

Phase three, the final phase, will include a complete report on the Flat Creek project, upon which Congress would presumably rely before voting funds for the reservoir.

The proposed Flat Creek reservoir would be designed to control flooding, and would provide Sedalia with a source of water and recreation as well. It would impound 72,000 acre-feet of water.

Originally a site about five miles southwest of Sedalia was considered as a potential location for the dam, but Shurtz said Friday that a point five miles upstream from there is also being considered for planning purposes.

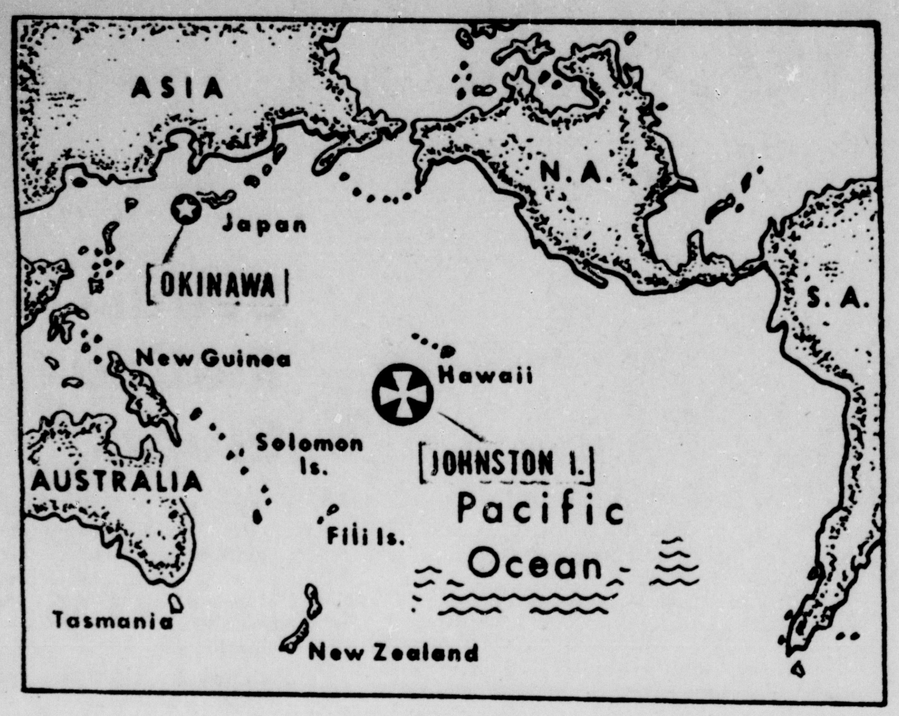
The Flat Creek study was originally authorized by Congress in 1965, but the actual study by the Corps of Engineers did not begin until August, 1968.

The House recently approved $18,000 for fiscal year 1971 to continue the study, which would make a total of $53,000, if approved by the Senate, authorized so far for the study.

Shurtz said that no field work has been accomplished yet, and that none could be expected for several more months.

The new requirement for study of ecological and environmental aspects of all Corps of Engineers projects will involve consideration of what effects a flood control reservoir would have on animal and plant life in the Flat Creek basin area, Shurtz said. He said the Corps would be responsible for the studies, although other agencies might also assist.

Sites of archaeological interest that would be disturbed by the reservoir would also be considered, he said.



Nerve Gas Site?

Remote Johnson Island in the Pacific is under consideration as a site for the storage of nerve gas now on Okinawa, the military said recently. A team of experts is on its way to the tiny coral atoll, 760 miles southwest of Honolulu, to survey whether it would be adequate as a storage site. (UPI)

Panther Probe Ordered

CHICAGO (AP) — A new investigation into the police raid in which two leaders of the Black Panther party were shot to death has been ordered by a Circuit Court judge.

Judge Joseph A. Power appointed Chicago attorney Barnabas F. Sears as a special prosecutor Friday and ordered him to prepare papers needed to empanel a special grand jury.

Sears, a former president of the Illinois State Bar Association, said he would seek access to the transcript of a federal grand jury investigation into the raid Dec. 4 by a special detachment of Chicago police assigned to the Cook County (Chicago) state's attorney office.

Chief Judge Edwin A. Robson of U.S. District Court has ruled that the transcript must remain secret. However, Judge Robson allowed Judge Power to go to the federal courthouse and read the document before deciding whether to order a special prosecutor and grand jury.

The federal jury, directed by Jerris Leonard, head of the civil rights division of the Justice Department, concluded its investigation by issuing a report and returning no indictments.

The federal report was sharply critical of several branches of the police department, the state's attorneys office and the Cook County coroner's office for sloppy procedures in planning, executing and investigating the raid. It also criticized seven Panther survivors of the incident for refusing to testify.

Bobby Rush, head of the Illinois branch of the Panthers, later said the party would cooperate with a new grand jury if it was fair and impartial.

Killed in the raid on a second-story flat on the West Side a block from Panther headquarters, were Fred Hampton, 21, deputy chairman in charge of the party's Illinois branch, and Mark Clark, 22, of Peoria.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The faction-torn radical left, claiming it is moving from dissent to resistance, is considering a three-pronged march on Washington in a new bid to force an end to the Indochina war.

The proposal to send streams of dissenters converging on the capital from three directions after extended marches is being considered at a New Left strategy action conference that opens today.

Marchers would start from three points—Lexington-Concord, Mass.; Kent, Ohio; and Jackson, Miss. are being mentioned as possibilities—and would encamp in Washington for what David Dellinger described as "a prolonged period of pressure."

The device would seek to unite such disparate groups as welfare mothers, laid-off factory workers, high school and college students, antiwar moderates and the various feuding factions that comprise the New Left.

An attempt would also be made to link the march with a call for a nationwide student strike.

Dellinger and Rennie Davis, who were defendants in the Chicago 7 riot trial, are believed to favor the plan, said to be the idea of Washington radical Arthur Waskow.

All three are attending the three-day Milwaukee conference organized by the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

The New Mobe was the sponsor of last November's antiwar marches in Washington and San Francisco.

Dellinger said the proposal for the "long march" was one of several ideas that would be presented today to the conference, not for decision but for clarification at a series of workshop sessions.

"It will go into the hopper and be analyzed and discussed, and we'll find out how practical people think it is," Dellinger said.

Not all delegates were enthralled by the idea.

"They are looking for a gimmick, and gimmicks aren't going to end this war," said one movement figure who declined to be identified.

AN INTRODUCTION TO WILLARD B. BUNCH, CANDIDATE FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE 116th DIST.

Willard B. Bunch was born on a farm in St. Clair County and graduated from grade and high schools in that area. After working his way through three years of college at Bradley University, he entered the Armed Service in 1956 and served with the United States Army in Europe for two years. Following his honorable discharge, he married Nancy Sandifar, of Osceola, Mo.

Thereafter, Mr. Bunch resumed college at night and received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in History and a Juris Doctor Degree in Law from the University of Missouri at Kansas City. While in college, he was a full time employee of the Bendix Corporation in Kansas City where he was Supervisor of Employee Relations in the Industrial Relations Division.

In 1968, Mr. & Mrs. Bunch and their daughters, Kelly and Shelly, returned to St. Clair County and presently live in Osceola. Presently, Mr. Bunch is the Chief Defender of the Criminal Division of the Legal Aid and Defender Society of Greater Kansas City. As a practicing attorney, Mr. Bunch and his staff of eight lawyers represent defendants by court appointment in both the state and federal courts. The division headed by Mr. Bunch is a public service institution maintained by local funds.

Prior experience includes: Farming, employment during which he was a member of three separate labor unions, a member of management of the Bendix Corp., and Director of Education of Midstate College of Commerce.

At age 36, Mr. Bunch seeks his first public office. Because of his background and experience, he is uniquely qualified to represent the people of the 116th District.

'Slow' Learner Wants to Enlist

Dear Ann Landers: Can you help me help my son? He was always a slow learner and his reading ability at age 17 was at the second grade level. We had him tested and he is not retarded, just "slow."

The boy has always wanted to do something for his country. He tried four times to get into the Armed Forces and failed. The fifth time they took him. He is now at Fort Dix taking more tests. In the meantime he calls on the telephone and tells me his buddies are reading the notices on the bulletin board to him because he can't make them out.

Is it my duty to inform the authorities? If anything happens to my son I would never forgive myself. — N.Y. Mother

Dear Mother: Stay out of it. You'll feel guilty either way. Chances are good that he'll be sent home. If you deprive him of this opportunity to serve and he learns of it, you'll have a serious problem on your hands. And when he does come home, for heaven's sake see to it that the boy learns to read. Call the principal of any high school for information on where adult reading classes are being held in your city.

Dear Ann Landers: The advice you gave Poker Player's Wife was lousy. What are you trying to do anyway. Bust up a great poker game?

So what if five wives have to make a few sandwiches and pour a little beer every five weeks. Big deal. The other four guys who don't invite the fellows over probably have good reasons which are not hard to figure out if you'd use your head.

I know about such things because I'm in a poker club and we have the same deal. One of the players is my brother-in-law. His wife is such a terrible housekeeper he CAN'T have anybody over. Another guy's wife has her 90-year-old parents living with her and the old folks insist on playing in the game. It's murder. We played there once and that was enough.

So tell these five fillies to calm down. They should be happy their husbands have a nice, respectable hobby like playing poker. Some guys are out every night chasing broads. — Aces Full

Dear Aces: I know when I'm holding a losing hand. Take the pot, Dad.

Dear Ann Landers: I am having a disagreement with my daughter-in-law. Please settle it. We both read your column and agree that you would be an objective moderator.

My 11-year-old grandson is a very bright lad. He enjoys writing letters to Gram and Gramps. Some of the letters are essays expressing his ideas on a variety of subjects. He hands his letter to his mother in an unsealed envelope. She then stamps it and mails it to me. Unbeknownst to the boy, his mother goes over the letter and corrects his mistakes in grammar and spelling.

I do not object to the mistakes. In fact I find them delightful. An 11-year-old boy is not expected to write perfect letters. I asked my daughter-in-law to please leave his letters alone. She says he doesn't know about the corrections and she wants to make them more "readable." I suspect she has a compulsion about mistakes because she was an English teacher. What is your opinion, Ann? — Lakeview, Wash.

Dear Lake: Of course she has a compulsion! The best solution would be for the boy to have his own stamps and mail the letters himself. Send him a sheet for the Fourth of July — sort of a Declaration of Independence gift.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Future Is Dim For Whalers

LONDON (AP) — The future is dismal for the whaling industry, faced with declining sales and shrinking herds.

Fifteen members of the International Whaling Commission met in London this week for its 22nd annual conference to discuss the drastic shrinkage of the markets.

Ronald G. Wall of the British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries said that since 1952 the Antarctic quota—the number of whales the commission allows whalers to kill—has dropped from 16,000 to 2,700 The number of Antarctic whaling expeditions shrank from 20 to six.

Norway, once king of the whaling fleets, sent out only one expedition last season and none the year before—the first time in 50 years they did not sail the Antarctic whale seas.

Whale carcasses are towed to a factory ship where they are processed into meat for pet food, oil, bone and meal—the main products.

Whale oil 100 years ago was the main source of light. Now the sources are gas and electricity. The decline of the whalebone corset worn by women early in the century also hit the industry.

Whale oil is still used in margarine, cosmetics, linoleum and printing ink.

The loss of markets is not the only reason for the industry's decline. In the past, whale herds have been subjected to uncontrolled slaughter.

Now with helicopters and sounding devices to locate the herds, the whaling fleets come under the commission's regulations governing time of year, number and size of the catch.

Nearly 2 million whales have been slaughtered since 1900.

Many species are near extinction. The blue whale, the largest of all creatures, was the worst sufferer. From 1948 to 1965, the catch dropped from 6,908 to a single one. It is doubtful whether more than 1,000 survive.

One problem of the whale population is that the whale fields cover vast stretches of the ocean thus the whales mate only at two or three-year intervals.

Dr. Colin Holloway, an international conservancy expert, noted that the quota set for last year had not been reached by the whaling fleets.

"If we can keep it that way there are good chances of a recovery," he said.

Road Collision Fatal to Four Near Licking

LICKING, Mo. (AP)—A two-vehicle crash killed four persons and injured five others Friday afternoon on U.S. 63 three miles north of Licking.

Dead were Clifford Combs, 46; his wife, Helen, 43; his mother, Mrs. Rosa E. Combs, about 60, all of Couch, Mo., and Alvin Ray Collins, 38, of Houston, Mo.

Collins and three companions, all from Houston, were riding in a southbound panel truck driven by Raymond Johanson, 56, of Houston. All were injured.

Injured in the Combs car was the couple's daughter, Susan Combs, 13.

The highway patrol said Johnson swerved to avoid a pickup truck parked in the road, and his vehicle was hit broadside by the Combs car.

Licking is 30 miles south of Rolla.

Rogers To Talk With Allies On Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Saturday session with an Asian peace-seeking diplomatic team prefaced Secretary of State William P. Rogers's start on a Far Eastern trip to discuss Indochina with U.S. allies.

The U.S. intent to increase aid for the Communist-beleaguered Cambodian government after the June 30 American troop withdrawal was on the agenda for discussion with the traveling Asian foreign ministers.

However, U.S. officials said precise plans for assistance to the Lon Nol government have not been worked out so the talks with the visiting officials could deal with this matter only in general terms.

Programs for helping Cambodia are uncertain because of the fluid military situation there, because policy and legislation in Washington still are incomplete, and because interested allies such as Thailand have not yet decided their courses.

Rogers is to leave Washington Sunday morning on a two-week trip.

After a San Francisco stop including a side trip to see President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., he is scheduled to reach Manila July 1 for the annual ministerial meeting of the seven-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Cambodia has not been invited to and has not asked to attend the Manila meeting on grounds her participation would impair her neutral status.

Rogers will be in Saigon July 4-7, to discuss strategy with the foreign ministers of the six nations contributing troops to South Vietnam's cause.

The secretary of state plans to spend July 7-9 in Tokyo attending a meeting of U.S. mission chiefs and talking with Japanese officials.

Rolla Roadway Will Use Glass

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — Crushed glass, first conceived of as a road surface by a University of Missouri-Rolla engineering class will be installed July 10 on a well-used road near the campus, the school reported Friday.

The glass, combined with asphalt, is known as glasphalt.

Students of UMR were asked to solve the problem of how to dispose of throw-away glass bottles and came up with the paving idea.

Research has been conducted for more than a year under a grant from the U.S. Public Health Service.

The university and Owens-Illinois, Inc. recently installed a test strip of glasphalt as part of the Owens-Illinois Technical Center in Toledo, Ohio.

Program Explained By Byrum

What the Sedalia Boys' club is trying to do in the area of Neighbor Facilities was explained by Morris Byrum, president of that organization, in a talk before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Byrum, who is also vice-principal of Smith-Cotton High school, informed the group that three of the local Optimist clubs had taken over supervision of the Boys' club and are currently sponsoring a program to obtain a federal grant for a Neighbor Facility Recreation Center. Indoor and outdoor activities are provided for 300 members.

The program was arranged by Cecil B. Stephenson. Monty McQuitty introduced the speaker.

Invocation was by Henry Keeler. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Robert H. Woolery accompanist. Birthday greetings were extended to George H. Scruton.

President Herbert Taylor introduced Aaron Haller who spoke on behalf of a Lions' club project of local distribution of lapel American flags.

Wendell Smith, a member of the Sedalia Notables, reported on the experiences of that group at the Kiwanis International convention in Detroit, the trip for which was sponsored by the local club.

President Taylor recognized Bill Dugan as Kiwanian of the Week in the club bulletin.

Rioting

land's Roman Catholic and Protestant communities.

Violence developed in this capital after 10,000 Protestants marched through the city, rehearsing for traditional July 12 Orange Day parades. The end of the parade turned into a stone-throwing battle between Protestants and Catholics, with troops in the middle.

In Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city, Roman Catholic youths attacked soldiers with stones and gasoline bombs.

Several shops were set ablaze, and a shopping block in the center of the city went up in flames.

British troops with riot shields, steel helmets, face visors and clubs were used to stop the fighting. Armored cars were driven into the riot area but were not used.

Rioters in Londonderry earlier looted and ignited a paint shop, erected a barricade of flaming paint drums and stoned firemen who tried to fight the blaze.

Britain's new prime minister, Edward Heath kept in touch with Northern Ireland developments by radio telephone on his yacht, Morning Cloud. Heath was racing at the Isle of Wight in England but told newsmen he was receiving reports from Belfast.

The battles flared as police and troops were still adding up the toll of Friday night's clashes in three cities: 104 soldiers and at least 50 civilians and 10 policemen hurt, more than 500 tear gas shells fired, more than 140 gasoline bombs thrown and 24 arrests.

The fighting was the fiercest in the predominantly Protestant province since widespread riots last year in which more than a dozen persons were killed and hundreds injured. The 1969 riots developed when Roman Catholic extremists, pressing for civil rights reforms in jobs, housing and voting, took to the streets against hard-line Protestant opponents.

The Londonderry fighting occurred on the edge of the tense Roman Catholic Bogside area. Most of the youths were Catholics.

All Smiles

Accidents

One person was taken to Bothwell Hospital Friday afternoon following a one-car accident at the intersection of Brown and Boonville.

Taken to the hospital was William Alfred Paxton, 402 South Engineer. Hospital records indicate that there were no apparent injuries, but he is still in the hospital for observation.

According to police, Mr. Paxton's 1966 Ford struck the entrance pole at the Crown Hill cemetery.

Police Report

Kenny Schilb, owner of Kenny's Laundry Mat, 910 South Thompson Boulevard, reported to police at 6:45 p.m. Saturday that someone opened the coin box of a dryer and took an undetermined amount of money.

The coin box was apparently opened with a key.

Dale Bersano, manager of the Bing's store at the State Fair Shopping Center, reported to police at 1:27 a.m. Thursday that two girls got out of a blue compact car, also occupied by two boys, took a watermelon from the store and left.

R. E. Bishop, Jr., 650 East 14th, reported Saturday that the radiator on his 1958 Dodge truck had been stolen when it was parked in front of his house. The radiator was taken sometime Friday night.

Sedalia police investigated two break-ins and an attempted break-in which occurred early Saturday morning at three local taverns.

Police on routine patrol discovered a break-in at Webb's Michelob Inn, 16th and Ohio. Entrance was gained through the front door, by either a pipe wrench or a pair of vice grips, according to police. The tavern's safe was found outside in the driveway.

Robert L. Woodall, owner of the Missouri Bowl, 105 South Missouri, reported that he was driving past his tavern at 1 p.m. Saturday, when he noticed that the front door was partially open. Upon investigation he found that the juke box and the cigarette machines had been pried open. An undetermined amount of money was taken from the cigarette machine.

Mary Jo Crouch, owner of Crouch's Bar, 724 West 16th, reported at 8 a.m. Saturday an attempted break-in. A storm door was damaged, although entrance was not gained.

Marriage License

Lary Dean Oehrke, Stover, and Geraldine Marie Grupe, Florence.

William Thomas Bodine, Jr., 1619 West 14th, and Roberta Ellen Shull, 222 South Grand.

Philip Charles Brown, Boynton Beach, Fla., and Dolores Gail Sims, 612½ South Ohio.

William Martin Kostopolus, 1520 South Kentucky, and Wanda Faye Cornine, 1718 South Harrison.

Fires In The City

At 1:48 p.m. Saturday, Sedalia firemen were called to 1700 South Warren to put out a grass fire. Neaby burning brush was listed as the cause. No damage was reported.

Sedalia firemen were called at 4:46 p.m. Friday to extinguish a grass fire at 1900 Clarendon Road.

Burning trash was listed as the cause.

Halts Bus Service

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — The Intercity Bus Co. had stopped bus service indefinitely in Joplin and between Joplin, Webb City and Carthage.

Duane Goodhope, company owner, said operating costs were exceeding revenues.

Also, the Missouri Public Service Commission notified the company a month ago that its charter would be revoked unless the bus firm met net insurance requirements. That deadline was reached Thursday.

Old Fashioned Celebration Set For Fourth At Lincoln

LINCOLN — An old fashioned Independence Day celebration featuring games, contests, square dancing, shows, fireworks and a genuine pit barbecue will be held this coming Friday and Saturday at Lincoln. The two-day affair, which is expected to attract hundreds of persons from the surrounding area, is sponsored by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and will be held in the Community Park.

Heading the committee as chairman is the Rev. Rolland Nothwehr, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, who is also chairman of the Lincoln Community Betterment committee. Assisting in arrangements will be Clarence Frisch, Lincoln Chamber of Commerce president, and Truman Eaker, mayor.

One of the top attractions will be the two Grand Ole Opry shows on Friday night at 7 and 9 p.m. at the Lincoln School auditorium which will bring top stars from the Grand Ole Opry and Hollywood. Featured will be Justin Tubbs, Marion Worth, Gary Van, LaVonne Lear and the Western Caravan, as well as other acts.

The two-day program follows:

Friday, July 3rd
9-12 - 4-H and FFA Show
1-4:30 - Tractor pulling contest
7 and 9 - Two Grand Ole Opry shows

Saturday, July 4th
9:30 - Children's parade
9:40 - Decorated bicycle contest
10:10 - Pet parade
10:30 - Frog and turtle races
10:50 - Sack, potato, egg races and nail driving
11:20 - Casting
11:40-1 Pie Eating, Watermelon eating, and barbecue dinner
1-4 - Horse Show
4:30 - Horse Show tournament
6:30 - Old Fiddler's contest
7 to 7:45 Greased pig contest, hog calling, husband calling contests
7:45 - Shriner's motorbike parade
8:00 - Baseball game
9:30 - Fireworks followed by a square dance.

may be called first, last, or anywhere in between.

Only when all 365 dates and numbers have been drawn will they become official. If anything should go seriously wrong during the drawing, it might have to be done all over again, draft Director Curtis W. Tarr has admitted.

Barring such an unlikely mishap, each draw should give 5,000 to 6,000 men a very rough idea of their chances to be drafted next year.

There are, as yet, no official estimates how large the draft pool will be or how many men must be drafted in 1971; and without those estimates, figuring the chances can be only a guessing game.

Past experience offers some evidence that up to 80 percent of draft-age men may either enlist voluntarily or be deferred or exempt from drafting.

About 58 per cent are rejected.

Those who remain—the real draft pool—may number no more than about 12 per cent of the 2 million men who reach age 19 this year. It remains to be seen whether this guess is correct.

into rugged hill country southwest of Da Nang.

The two helicopters were destroyed. Two other American helicopters, both of them Cobra gunships, also were shot down and destroyed, one in Cambodia, the other about 100 miles north-northwest of Saigon.

Two fliers were wounded in the crash in Cambodia, while the two men in the other helicopter were killed. The loss of the four choppers raised to 3,400 the unofficial total of helicopters lost to all causes in the war since Jan. 1, 1961.

Hoskins Elected President

Robert Hoskins

Robert Hoskins, State Farm Insurance Companies, was elected president of the Central Missouri Association of Life Underwriters at the annual installation meeting of the organization held at the Holiday Inn Friday night.

Serving with Hoskins during the 1970-71 year will be Charles D. Williams, Jr., CLU, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, first vice president; Dennis Stephens, Kentucky Central Life Insurance Company, Warrensburg, second vice president; and Wayne Insgrigg, Western & Southern Life Insurance, secretary-treasurer.

Board members elected were David Curry, Old American Life Insurance; Kenneth K. Roeland, American Family Insurance, Stover; and John Podagrosi, Fidelity Union Life, Warrensburg.

Roy Maddux, Stover, secretary of the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters, installed the officers.

Featured speaker was Dennis Hensley, in charge of the life insurance section for the Missouri Insurance Division. Hensley reported on the complexities of the insurance department in endeavoring to operate under a $710,000 annual budget when there are over 110,000 licenses and 80,000 insurance agents licensed in the state of Missouri.

Hensley pointed out that the tax premiums and license fees bring into the state treasuary over $25,000,000, which ranks Missouri 13th in the United States. On the other hand, he added, the Missouri Insurance Division is allowed about two per cent of the Missouri total revenue, ranking it 44th in the country in the amount of money allowed towards its operation.

WE TRY NOT TO KEEP YOU WAITING LONG

Usually, your prescription can be ready quickly. We will first record it, then check the ingredients, dosage, directions, locate the medicine, package and label it and finally recheck those steps before giving it to you. All this is important for your protection. If it is necessary to compound a combination of medicines for your prescription, we will always tell you in advance that it will take a little longer than usual.

On this type of prescription, if you need a refill you can call in the number in advance. In this way we can most often have it ready for you. Our aim is to give the fastest service that caution permits.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Question

My sister was killed in a tragic automobile accident as the result of the negligence of an uninsured driver. Are we responsible for her funeral bills?

Answer

Your sister's estate and those in your family who were financially responsible for her care must pay these costs. Your family attorney should be consulted concerning the possibility of recovering these expenditures.

If your sister was either fully or currently insured under Social Security a funeral benefit ranging from $165 to $255 may be payable.

Under certain circumstances you may also be entitled to a reimbursement from either or both of two types of insurance coverage that may be owned either by your sister or her family. These are, "Medical Payments Coverage" or "Uninsured Automobile Coverage".

Topless Grandma 'Shocker'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — It is safe to say Margie Grant is a somewhat improbable grandma.

A divorcee, Mrs. Grant was married for the second time recently in a topless wedding at a nightspot where she works as a bar bare-bosomed waitress.

A 37-year-old of statuesque proportions, red hair and sparkling green eyes, she carries around a wallet bearing the inscription "Something to Brag About."

Inside are pictures of her five children, her son-in-law, and her first grandchild, born June 8.

"People who come in the place think its a blast to be waited on by a topless waitress she said. "And then when I tell them its grandmom Margie—that really blows their minds."

Mrs. Grant, whose 16-year first marriage ended in divorce, is remarkably well-preserved for a grandmother with children ranging in age up to 19.

She says her measurements are 42-24-36 and at the slightest provocation will produce a tape measure to prove it.

Her second husband, a 27-year-old security guard at an amusement park, was a customer who used to drop in once a week.

He expressed qualms when Margie breached the idea of taking her marriage vows in working garb, but she talked him around.

She appeared for an interview wearing heavy makeup, rhinestoned bikini panties, high heels and dark hose. Later she donned a see-through blouse.

Mrs. Grant has been a topless waitress four years.

"The customers are such nice people," she said.

"Sometimes the young men will ask me out to breakfast. I tell them, sorry, but I've got a kid you should be dating. I'm a grandmother. They are so cute when they sit there blinking."

LAW CONFUSES THE LAW

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Present confusion over the Sunday-closing laws in Kentucky could probably be summed up by a statement in a 1914 state Court of Appeals decision on the problem.

"The law regards that as necessary which the common sense of the country, in its ordinary mode of doing business, regards as being necessary."

Contemplates Big Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Shirley MacLaine credits the New York Telephone Company with forging the vital link in a chain which she hopes will soon transform her from movie queen to television star.

"The telephone in my New York apartment was broken; nobody came to fix it, and I had to run down to the drug store to make calls," the actress recalled.

"And those pay phones were always busy. My daughter had just entered boarding school in England and there were some people in London I wanted to talk to. So I finally said the hell with that, got in a plane and flew to London."

Sir Lew Grade, a British television and film tycoon, heard she was in town, invited her to lunch and before the week was out, she and Grade were partners in a multimillion-dollar deal that includes 24 episodes of a TV series for ABC plus motion pictures, if and when the right scripts turn up.

It is part of a growing exodus among movie stars to the small screen.

The whirlwind shift in her career direction seems typical of the impetuous uninhibited Miss MacLaine. But she is far from the creature of impulse and whim that make up her public image.

Item: Shirley MacLaine has been in show business as a professional for 20 years, a film star since Alfred Hitchcock's 1955 "The Trouble with Harry"—and has made just one television appearance, as a presenter of awards in this year's Tony award broadcast.

"I've kept away deliberately," she admits.

Item: Theatrical motion pictures of the star-studded, multimillion-dollar budget class are in trouble with competition from television, from low-budget and avant-garde films, tight money and a paucity of movie material to pull the family away from their TV sets into the local Bijou.

"I've done some research and I know that while a film may reach 15 million people, it is possible that a television show can reach 350 million," said the actress. "What I really want to do is use television's potential to try to get audiences back into the theaters."

Miss MacLaine's roundhouse TV statistics may be debatable.

It is also doubtful that the ABC executives who, sight unseen, have contracted to broadcast the future MacLaine series, are really worried about her proposed Trojan horse tactic. But it makes better copy and has more class than a down-to-earth confession that, with good movie parts getting as rare as the golden condor, an actor who wants to work and keep his name alive is wise to get involved with television.

Making the Big Move

Actress Shirley MacLaine displays the smile which will soon move from the movie to the television screen. She's only made one television appearance in her 20-year career but that will change when she begins a series of her own soon. (AP)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House-passed bill to raise the national debt ceiling to $395 billion has been cleared by the Senate Finance Committee without amendment.

A temporary ceiling of $377 billion is set to expire next Tuesday. The ceiling then would revert to a permanent level of $365 billion.

The Senate committee's action Friday came after a 9-8 vote to drop an amendment by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., which would have limited federal spending next fiscal year to $205.6 billion.

A few hours earlier, it was announced that Williams' amendment would carry the committee by one vote. Despite the reversal, the amendment likely will be reoffered on the floor. The administration opposes the move, saying it would introduce unwarranted rigidity into government operations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it will let "Nader's Raiders" into its antitrust division, if only so far.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren announced Friday he had instructed all government antitrust lawyers to talk freely with the summertime study group of attorneys and students.

The group is operating under the aegis of consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who says the project is designed to assess the economic impact of antitrust laws and their enforcement.

McLaren cautioned, however, that the division will not, and cannot by law, reveal most of the law enforcement information contained in division files.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has expelled a Soviet correspondent for Pravda from the United States for what it termed "nonjournalistic activity hostile to the interests of the United States."

In making the brief announcement Friday, the department charged that Boris M. Orekhov, in New York, had "engaged in activities incompatible with his status as a journalist."

The expulsion was seen as an answer to the recent Soviet ouster of Time-Life correspondent Stanley Cloud, but the department spokesman, Carl Bartch, did not link the two cases.

Some Call Arrow Rock Living Historical Monument

ARROW ROCK, Mo. (AP) — "This is where the Santa Fe Trail began. French mapmakers called it "Pierre a Fleche" because the Indians used the flint from its Missouri River bluffs for their arrows.

Historian David D. Thompson Jr., in dedicating a National Historic Landmark plaque at Arrow Rock said, "The places where history was made are doorways to the past." This village is "a living historical monument."

The village of Arrow Rock is 13 miles north of Interstate 70 on Missouri highway 41 west of Boonville. Its population reached a peak of just over 1,000 in 1860 when the ferry crossing from Boone's Lick to Arrow Rock was a major east-west route across the state into Indian Territory and Santa Fe.

Today the village is inhabited by about 130 permanent residents.

Main street is paved but as you step across the gutters, made of cut stone standing on end 18 to 20 inches in the ground, you step through "doorways to the past."

Some of the homes and a few of the business buildings are original structures, erected by frontier pioneers of the early and mid-1800s. The Old Tavern, built in 1834, provided for overnight guests until the 1940s and its dining room has never been closed.

Most of these buildings have been restored and furnished with priceless relics and antiques—The Old Tavern, The Old Courthouse, the John P. Sites Gun Shop, the United Church of Christ and Federated Church, and the homes of Dr. Charles M. Bradford, Dr. Matthew Hall, and George Caleb Bingham, the internationally famous frontier and political artist.

The Santa Fe spring used by the traders and western travelers of more than 150 years ago still flows; steps leading from the old ferry landing and the steamboat wharf are still in use.

Built in the 1830s, the old Seminary Building now serves as the residence for Arrow Rock Park superintendent Robert Stith and his family.

The 42-acre park adjoins the southern edge of the village and extends to the limestone bluffs. It has excellent facilities for picnicking and tent and trailer camping.

Other prominent residents of its past included three Missouri governors, M. M. Marmaduke, his son John S. Marmaduke, and Claiborne F. Jackson, all of whom died in office.

Arrow Rock also was the home of Dr. John Sappington who pioneered in the use of quinine and is credited with conquering malaria in the Mississippi Basin area.

The French mapmakers noted "Pierre a Fleche" in 1723 but it wasn't until Lewis and Clark began their westward journeys in 1804 that Arrow Rock found real favor.

George Sibley established a trading post at Arrow Rock in 1812 and in 1817 the ferry crossing from Boone's Lick became a permanent operation. The last of a long succession of ferry boats, the Santa Fe, with a capacity of 7 to 10 cars, made its last crossing of the Missouri here in 1927.

How do you keep the "doorways to the past" open?

First, the permanent residents helped themselves and then in 1912 the Missouri Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, furnished The Old Tavern with some period furniture and historical objects "as a means of teaching Missouri history to passersby."

The DAR then appealed to the Missouri Legislature and in 1923 the state purchased the Old Tavern. The DAR was named custodian to preserve and restore it.

In 1926 Arrow Rock State Park was created and in 1959 a group of interested parties from throughout the state organized Friends of Arrow Rock and began helping or encouraging restoration of the many other historical sites and buildings.

During the 1850s Arrow Rock had its own literary and debating club called "The Philomatheans" which also presented plays.

To Expose Hawaiian Taboos

HONOLULU (AP) — Some old and new taboos will be imposed when Kaneaki, largest of Oahu's ancient Hawaiian temples, is opened to the public this summer.

Women's liberation aside, ladies will be banned from the temple's upper platform—lest Lono, the god of peace, be upset.

"We didn't want to offend Hawaiians who revere the traditions of their ancestors," says Russell Apple, a historian for the National Park Service.

Smoking will be forbidden, too, because of the dry pili grass," Apple said.

Honolulu's Bishop Museum and the National Park Service are restoring the four-century-old temple, in which Hawaii's most powerful king is believed to have sought blessing for his fleet of long boats.

Apple said all the work is being done by hand, using only the ancient Hawaiian house-building arts and materials.

"There isn't a single nail," he said.

The restored temple features two prayer towers, an altar, two grass houses and five hand-carved images, including one of the god Lono.

The site was dedicated with a hoomanalo, "a sweetening ceremony to remove any bitterness or bad influences left from the old days," Apple said.

Dutch Elm Disease Blights City Foliage

Tree Plague

An elm that stood for many years at the northwest corner of the Sedalia Public library has been killed by Dutch Elm disease, which has reached epidemic proportions in the city. The Park department had to subcontract another firm to cut the tree. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

On June 3 a tall, old Maple tree that grew along the sidewalk in front of 510 West Sixth gave out a groan and crashed onto the roof of the house. Mrs. John Bohon, who lives at 510, was not surprised. In fact, she was expecting it.

"I had tried for a year to get something done about it. I was afraid it would fall on the children that play here or on a passerby" she explained.

In June, 1969, the tree cracked during a violent thunderstorm and was partially uprooted. Since that time, though it didn't die, it leaned perilously to one side.

Complaints from her neighbors and her own fears led Mrs. Bohon to alert the Park Board to the potential danger. When no action was taken she called the Mayor Ralph Walker and the superintendent of parks, Jack Couts.

"They told me they would cut it down, but there just wasn't any money," sighed Mrs. Bohon.

Mrs. Bohon's experience is an example of the problems that have been plaguing the Sedalia Park Department. Working with limited funds and faced with an epidemic of Dutch elm disease that is destroying city trees almost as fast as they can be cut, the department has fallen behind in its removal of dead and dangerous trees on city property.

"I remember that tree in front of Mrs. Bohon's house. When we inspected it it didn't appear as bad as it really was. We thought we could wait until we got more funds. We were just lucky no one was hurt when it fell," commented Couts.

Since the Park Department has neither the men or equipment to take out large trees in residential areas, the work must be subcontracted, which adds to the expense.

The problem can be traced back to 1967, when the severity of Dutch elm disease here really became noticeable. By the next year, 350 trees had to be cut down. Then in 1969 the disease reached epidemic proportions. Approximately 1,050 trees were removed that year.

During this time the Park Department received $5,000 annually for tree removal. It wound up spending about $15,000 annually, however. Finally the money just ran out.

"In this new fiscal year we will be authorized to cut between 60 and 65 trees a month," Couts said. Also, the department will not be bound again by a definite budget.

Trees removed from city parks are being replaced, but along the roadways there are only spaces where trees had been. Most of the cutting has been along West Sixth and West Seventh Streets, Couts reported.

Broadway, once Sedalia's most beautiful tree-lined boulevard, has not been spared. The majority of large trees there are elms, and Dutch elm disease is incurable. The epidemic will continue until all the elms in Sedalia are dead.

"This is a continuous process," says Couts, "We still have 600 trees to cut, and we know more will die. You can have the biggest, prettiest elm around and in two weeks it will be dead, the branches falling off. That's how devastating this disease is."

McSurely's To Continue Efforts for Coal Miners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alan and Margaret McSurely, convicted of contempt for defying a congressional subpoena, say they will keep fighting their case until the government "gets sick of hearing us."

The activist couple, who worked in Eastern Kentucky in 1967 to organize the poor against strip miners, said their contempt of Congress conviction came because the jury failed to get the whole story and they will appeal.

"The government has tried to hide the facts in this case and they succeeded," McSurely said Friday just after a U.S. district court jury returned a two-count guilty verdict against him and his wife.

The McSurelys said they wanted to tell the jury the story that led up to their act of defiance—a story that involved a raid on their home by Pike County, Ky., authorities, a sedition charge that was invalidated, dynamiting of their house, and a subpoena they said was invalid.

Judge John Lewis Smith Jr. delayed sentencing until a presentence investigation is completed—expected in about a month—but conviction on the charge carries a maximum penalty of a year in prison.

On two occasions in March 1969, the McSurelys refused to produce documents sought by Sen. John McClellan's permanent investigations subcommittee in its probe of riots at Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville police charged in congressional testimony the couple attended meetings of the Southern Conference Educational Fund—SCEF—in Nashville just prior to the riots. The defense denied the McSurelys were involved in the disturbances.

The jury deliberated about two hours, taking time out for lunch, before rendering the verdict. The McSurelys took it calmly. Both smiled.

The judge had restricted the scope of the trial to the question of whether the McSurelys had deliberately disobeyed the subpoena.

The McSurelys said in testimony during the five-day trial they defied McClellan's panel because they feared harassment of their friends and because they resented a probe into their private affairs.

They said all that McClellan really wanted were copies of personal correspondence between Margaret McSurely and the late columnist Drew Pearson in 1964. At the time, Mrs. McSurely, then single, was Pearson's secretary. The defense said Pearson and McClellan were bitter enemies.

The prosecution said the documents seized from the McSurelys' home contained "militant literature" germane to the committee's investigation.

Defense attorney Morton Stavis said McClellan and subcommittee investigator John Brick acted like a "couple of adolescent peeping toms" in looking at Mrs. McSurely's personal letters.

Prosecutor David G. Bress said it was the defense, not him, that injected the letters controversy into the trial.

LBJ Remains Silent in Affairs of Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texans who expected former President Lyndon B. Johnson to make a big splash in the state's affairs when he returned home are still wondering what happened.

Or rather, why nothing happened.

"The book"—his memoirs—is the reason most frequently given to explain a year-and-a-half of mysterious shyness of one who had been Texas' unchallenged champion hand shaker and back slapper.

Since crossing the Potomac River Jan. 20, 1969, Johnson has for most practical purposes disappeared behind the neatly painted front gate of LBJ Ranch, 65 miles west of Austin.

There were local expectations that Johnson, 61 and apparently healthy despite a recent spell of chest pains, would become a financial giant in his home state adding to radio-TV, ranch and bank stock holdings already estimated as high as $20 million.

There were predictions he would step immediately into Texas politics, exercising his famous "come let us reason together" philosophy that kept him in Washington for more than 30 years.

There were some signs he would strike out as an educator using his White House and congressional experience as a background for extensive lectures and teaching on public and political affairs. And there were hopes of a new social era in the state's capital city that would rival the Pedernales River bank barbecues and circus tent champagne parties staged when the vacation White House was the LBJ ranch house.

But what happened?

Johnson's already proven money-making abilities apparently went into bothballs.

His political appearances since leaving the presidency have been few.

"I went to the ranch to talk politics and all he talked about was 'the book' and his cattle," said one bewildered Texas politician.

Johnson at one time or another said he had teaching and lecture dates at the University of Texas, Rice University, University of North Carolina and Yale. All have been postponed until "the book" is finished. The Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs opens Sept. 3 for an initial class of 20, but the dean, former Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, is not counting on Johnson as lecturer.

Since returning to Texas, the Johnsons occasionally show up at private social gatherings in the ranch area or Austin. Often Mrs. Johnson arrives alone. He frequently plays golf with close friends at Lady Bird City Park in nearby Fredericksburg and the Johnsons sometimes show movies to neighbors in their carpeted airplane hangar at the ranch.

But Johnson has been conspiciously absent at the big, splashy social affairs.

"The book" is Johnson's big interest.

"Currently I'm working on a book about my five years as president. When that's done, I hope to teach—if they'll still have me," Johnson told a collegiate reporter several months ago.

The title of the book, unless changed later, is "Lyndon B. Johnson: The White House Years." He also plans perhaps two more volumes of memoirs going into his service as Senate majority leader and congressman.

The release date of the book remains indefinite although it was first announced for some time early in 1971.

Big boxes of manuscripts and papers accompanied Johnson on a brief vacation trip to Acapulco, Mexico. Mrs. Johnson said he began work on the manuscript soon after he got out of the oxygen tent while recovering from chest pains that first were feared to be a heart attack.

Actually, Johnson's written memoirs are being put together by a team, but, as an aide puts it, "It's President Johnson first, foremost and last" in making any decisions.

No. 2 man on the memoirs team is Walt W. Rostow, former lecturer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and special adviser to Presidents Johnson and John F. Kennedy. He is a member of the University of Texas faculty now.

The job of putting words on paper goes mostly to Tom Johnson, former assistant White House press secretary who is now Johnson's administrative aide, and Harry Middleton, former White House speech writer.

Tom Johnson is on the federal government payroll heading a staff authorized for all former presidents by Congress. Middleton also is on a federal salary as director of the Lyndon B. Johnson Memorial Library. The library is being built by the University of Texas but will be operated by the General Services Administration as a presidential archives.

Materials for the book—estimated at something like 31 million documents, papers and photographs—are stored in the basement of the Austin Federal Building and in a former Austin post office building that is being remodeled by the university.

Johnson does his work either in his pine-panelled den-study at the ranch or at his more modernistic teak-panelled office in the ninth floor suite of offices furnished the former president in the Austin Federal Building.

Soon Johnson will be able to use a third office, an eighth floor office in the Lyndon B. Johnson Library that is a reproduction of the oval office he used at the White House.

Under a special "transition act" passed by Congress, $375,000 was set aside to pay for additional clerical help, office equipment, printing, telecommunications and other expenses for the immediate period after he left office.

The transition act expires June 30 and at that time, according to the LBJ office, he will begin drawing the $80,000 a year that another congressional measure, the Former Presidents Act, gives ex-presidents to pay for office expenses and a permanent office staff.

In addition to his personal wealth, Johnson is entitled to a pension of $25,000 a year as ex-president, plus another $22,000 annually earned by his service in the Senate and House.

Johnson has said that the money he makes from "the book" and from the CBS broadcast memoirs, expected to be in the millions of dollars, will go the LBJ School of Public Affairs.

There are many other benefits available to the former president.

In the March attack of chest pains, Johnson was rushed to a special suite in Brooke Army General Hospital in San Antonio. The suite originally was prepared for high ranking military officers and is used for them at other times.

Johnson does not own a private helicopter or jet plane but military aircraft have been made available to him frequently since he returned to Texas.

The Secret Service avoids all questions of Johnson's security but did tell a congressional committee recently that 15 men are assigned to the "Johnson protective division."

In the Background

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson stands back as President Richard M. Nixon takes the front position while posing for pictures with retiring House Speaker John W. McCormack in Washington last month. Johnson's Washington trip and a "political" journey to Chicago have been exceptions rather than the rule since he left office and returned to Texas. (AP)

Take Course

Sees Pets As Vital Possession

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A psychologist says welfare families should get extra money so they can have pets, which he called important to the mental health of children and the elderly.

The very young and the very old need dogs and cats to relate to when it is difficult to relate to humans, Dr. Boris M. Levinson told the American Veterinary Medical Association convention Friday.

"Pets are a crucially important mental hygiene, helping the disturbed child get rid of his pent-up emotions," he said.

"They provide someone who still loves you when you get home, even if you got a bad report card or if you're a lousy baseball player."

Levinson, professor at New York's Yeshiva University, urged the 2,500 veterinarians to ask their state and local agencies to give welfare recipient money for pets.

He also urged outlawing regulations prohibiting pets in rental units.

Levinson said he reached his conclusion after many years of treating disturbed children.

He stressed in an interview that many children who need attention from pets come from families who cannot afford to take pet money out of food allowances.

Ten million children in the United States "have some aberrations in their behavior," Levinson said. "Pets could prevent many of the conditions leading to emotional disorders."

Americans Rotund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are fatter than almost anybody, a government survey shows.

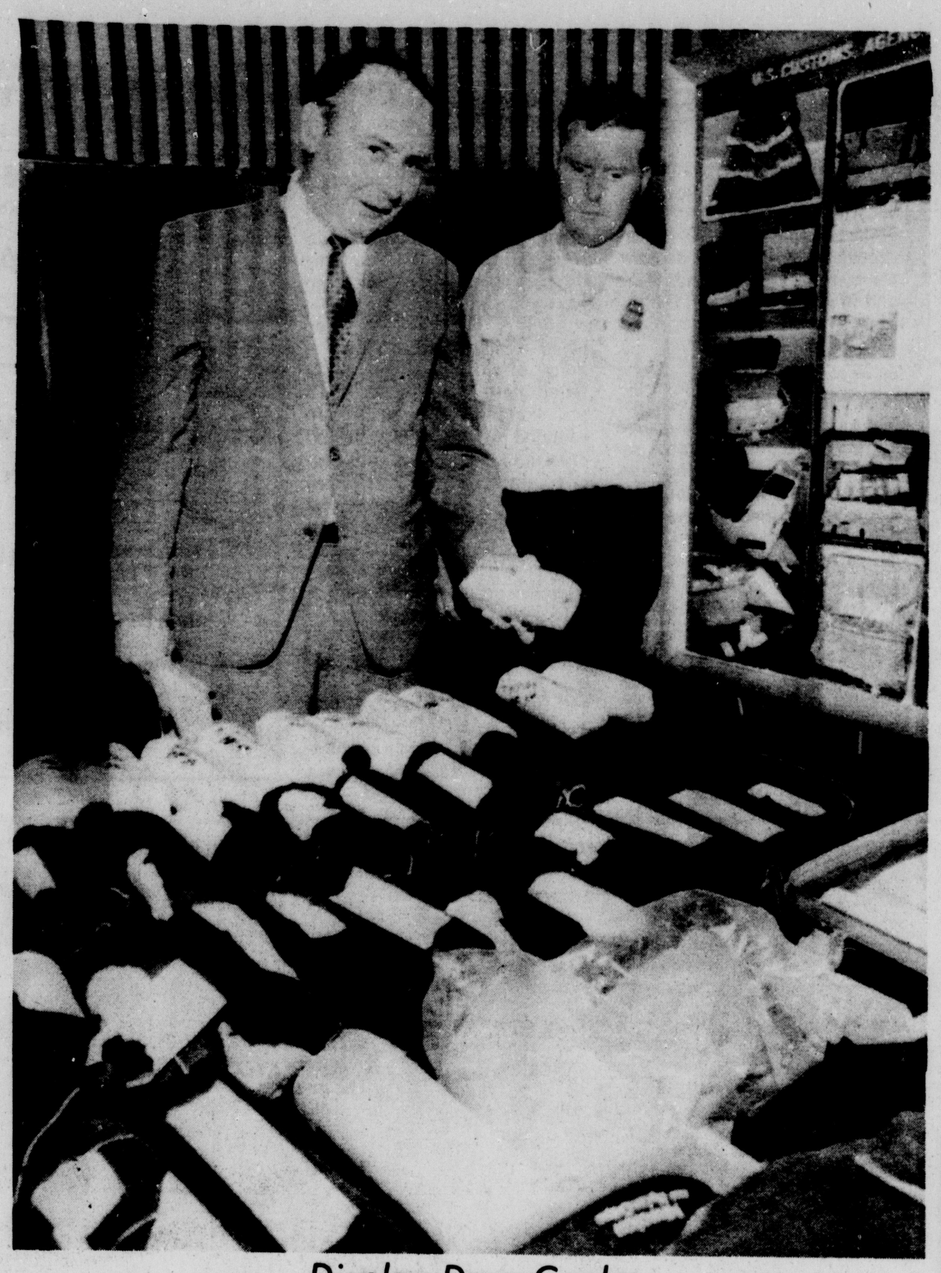
The U.S. Public Health Service released Thursday a report saying that Italian men living in Rome were the only ones that compared with American male chubbies. U.S. women were found to be fatter than Canadian women, but figures for other national groups were not available.

The survey was based mainly on measurements of arms.

Foolproof Meter

DETROIT (AP) — The city is installing a device on parking meters which will reject any kind of slug, including tiddlywinks, beer-can rings, washers and token coins.

Earl Ploof, a member of the treasurer's staff in charge of parking-meter revenues, says the city has been losing $10 to $12 a week because of the bogus coins.



Display Drug Cache

Bureau of Customs agent Edward Coyne examines and discusses $23 million worth of heroin put on display Friday during the second day of hearings on the importation and sale of heroin. The hearings, held in the U. S. Customs courthouse in New York City, are being conducted by a Congressional committee. (UPI)

Orton To Testify Monday

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Defense attorney James E. Reeves says he expects to call Sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot County to the witness stand Monday to testify in his defense against a state ouster proceeding.

Reeves, who called 25 witnesses Friday to testify that Orton has a good reputation as a sheriff and his county a good reputation as a law-abiding place, said there may be one or two more witnesses before Orton takes the stand.

Orton is accused of looking the other way while state gambling and liquor laws are violated in his southeast Missouri county.

The state also alleged in its ouster suit that Orton conspired to contract the slaying of a Caruthersville hay dealer, Kyle Cook, and participated in vote fraud.

Three sheriffs, two ministers, a barber, a bank president, farmers and a grocer were among the defense witnesses called Friday.

Special Commissioner Ray Weightman, who is hearing the case for the Missouri Supreme Court, said when testimony is concluded, attorneys for both sides will have until July 30 to submit briefs and he hopes to have his recommendations ready for the supreme court by Sept. 1.

New School Exclusively For Blacks

EAST PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Gertrude Wilks, a plump Negro housewife, decided children in this mainly black community were being shortchanged by public school education.

So she founded an all-black private school, featuring courses she bluntly describes as "niggerology."

To drive the point home, she named it Nairobi School, after the capital of the black-dominated African republic of Kenya.

Nairobi's curriculum centers on courses in African history and the black man's role in the development of the United States.

"We call it niggerology," Mrs. Wilks said in an interview

"Our goal is to produce black problem solvers and young black community scholars who recognize our slave condition and the necessity of breaking these chains on our minds."

Nairobi has an enrollment of 60 and runs from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Mrs. Wilks hopes to expand the enrollment to 100 for the next academic year.

Mrs. Wilks, who is in her 40s, says she wants to make education "the top thing for blacks."

"There was a time to blow and a time to burn," she says, "but now is the time to build."

Antique 'Deceit' Is Booming French Business

Little Old Workshop

Craftsmen busy themselves at production of eighteenth-century furniture for customers who want their living rooms to look like they're filled with real antiques. Old worm-eaten wood, rusty nails and dabs of acid are among the things which go in to the making of a really first-rate fake antique. (AP)

By ALISON LERRICK

ORLEANS, France (AP) — Just an hour from Paris, a little atelier is still making 18th century furniture. It looks antique, it feels antique and—once off the premises—it may pass for antique.

But it's not.

With a list of clients as confidential as a Swiss bank's, Mailfert-Amos sells its reproductions to Arab oil magnates, private collectors and antique dealers who would rather relax than scour the countryside. Would-be aristocrats show off Mailfert models as treasures from their ancestral chateau.

"We don't fool people; they fool each other," says Jean Heraud, decorator of the 60-year-old atelier.

Each with his own box of obsolete tools, the 200 artisans turn out 1,000 pieces a month down to the tell-tale details of inkstains inside the drawers and spider webs stuck in the crevices. They cost as little as one-twentieth of the price of the real thing.

Specialties are sets of 12 dining chairs, seven styles of ivory and mother-of-pearl gaming tables, bronze barometers and whole libraries of carved panelling. A rose and violet wood dressing table, the most expensive, is tagged at $3,000 and demands 500 hours or three months of work.

You can even choose the age of your furniture, which comes in gradations from spanking new—just as it looked 200 years ago—to the brink of disintegration. This final degree, informally known as "antique dealer" in honor of the professional customers from New York to Berlin, is for things that must deceive an expert eye.

"It takes more nerve to wreck something than to create it," Heraud says with pride. "We overdid on this one," he added, pointing at a delicate directoire desk with its mahogany chipped away on protruding edges and repaired twice and dried brass polish encrusted around the locks, an obvious trace of centuries of upkeep.

To make a fake, the formula begins, take some old worm-eaten boards from floors or attics. Today the supply of attics is running out, so new wood is soaked in acid until reaching the proper effect.

Baptised after famous figures of the appropriate period, including a mirror named d'Artagnan, the pieces are copied line-for-line from antiques bought at auction or ceremoniously lodged in museums. ("We had to make three trips to the Louvre to check on a quarter-inch variation.")

All by hand, they are painstakingly chiseled, planed, carved, assembled and painted. Infinitesimal gold leaves a ridiculous millimeter thick are applied to picture frames on a marten brush.

Hammers, iron combs, metal-tipped whips, buttons, hooks and keys, artfully manipulated, replaced the "ravages of time." The damage is then patched up with hand-forged rusty nails and a traditional blend of glue.

Dabs of nitric acid eat away at the veneer to stimulate craters left by flies. Cracks appear in a leather seat if it is freshly varnished and passed under a radiator. For the finishing touch, the furniture is massaged with a coat of dust which, at the request of a connoisseur, was once excavated under the Byzantine arches of 10th-century abbey.

Andre Mailfert, the painter who fathered the science of forgery in 1908 and sold the business to M. Amos, whose son now runs it, amassed enough from pre-Depression Americans to return to his palette 25 years later. Americans are still the biggest foreign buyers, even though most have the deplorable taste of "liking things clean and in good condition," Heraud says.

"Au Pays des Antiquaires," Mailfert's only book, subtitled "Confidences of a Professional Make-Up Artist," was published in 1929. This forger's bible reveals trade secrets, techniques and miscellaneous statistics. For example, over a two-decade period, Mailfert produced 50,000 gilt mirrors and estimated that only one mirror out of 1,000 on the market was an authentic antique.

He was also not above stamping his pieces with the signature of master wood-workers of the belle epoque—a mark that skyrockets the price—provided one of his employees happened to have the same name.

On occasion, Mailfert says he conspired with the "bandits." An infallible sceheme involved planting an item in a certain shop and bribing the chauffeur of the potential customer to have a breakdown on the spot.

Another was the "impoverished old lady caper." In the house of a high society hostell fallen upon hard times, a Mailfert commode would be surrounded by family portraits and objects of sentimental, but never commercial, value. Yellowed lace, a stray ostrich plume and a Third Empire calling card were moldering in its drawers. When the piece was sold, the accomplice got her kickback.

By now, the first Mailfert work, which, "ages well like wine," has grown indistinguishable from the genuine, as Heraud found after complimenting a woman on a table brought in for restoration. "It was a humiliating experience. The table was ours."

Bluebird Is No Longer Happy Species

By JIM CROSSLEY

Song writers have been enamored of the bluebird of happiness. What happiness? The bluebird is a threatened species. In fact, nature fans are mobilizing a rescue attempt.

First there was the purple martin. Valued as an air-borne, living pesticide, this bird has been lured by increasing numbers of families and even whole communities erecting the apartment-house types of nest houses the bird likes.

Now it's the eastern bluebird, having trouble because it competes with two feathered scrappers, the starling and house sparrow, for decreasing numbers of natural nesting sites, holes in old trees.

Richard Pough's Audubon Bird Guide says most purple martins now nest in artificial sites. This same situation will have to come about to save the bluebird.

In attracting and protecting the purple martin, it's amusing to note, the modern family is continuing a custom tracing back to American Indians before America was settled. Pioneers found the Indians' gourds on poles to keep the martins nearby and copied them.

Most people living today have never seen a bluebird. The scarcity, the bird's friends say, is because of man's tampering, not excluding the introduction of the starling and house sparrow.

Helping the bird can be rewarding. Floyd King in upstate New York spotted a bluebird on an old farm in 1965. His very first efforts to help were successful and in the spring of '69, eight pairs raised some 50 fledglings. His secret was erecting 30 to 40 houses of varied design and letting the birds pick the ones they liked.

There are recommended designs for bluebird houses, of course. One friend of this bird, Larry Zeleny, 4312 Van Buren St., Hyattsville, Md. 20782, offers to answer any questions sent him accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Those who want house plans can send 15 cents to the Grand Rapids Audubon Club, 54 Grand Ave. SE, Grand Rapids, Mich. 49502.

What are called "bluebird trails" are the popular new approach. A string of boxes are erected in rural territory, located along roads so they can be watched and protected during the nesting season.

As to the purple martin, there are great events transpiring in its behalf among the far-flung membership of the Griggsville Wild Bird Society, Griggsville, Ill.

This bird, you know, is the only one which has its own newspaper, the "Purple Martin Capitol News," put out by the society, a masterpiece which all those interested in birds should be familiar with.

This winter, the society has been lending a magnificent $250,000 collection of nature pictures to art museums for exhibit. The works of Mark Catesby, the first American bird artist (1683-1749), Alexander Wilson, (1766-1813) and John James Audubon(1785-1851) are included.

Another great nature painter represented is Richard Sloan who has done a number of bird pictures for the Griggsville Society.

One of the 10 pictures in Sloan's "life history" of the purple martin series is a study he went to South America to get. It shows the martin in its far-away winter habitat along the Amazon.

Pat's Peruvian Mission Is Paying Big Dividends

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon's earthquake relief mission to Peru is gaining momentum with new appeals for funds and the loading of tons of supplies today.

A C135 Air Force cargo plane has been added and will fly behind the First Lady's presidential jet plane with an extra seven tons of relief goods.

The two planes were ready to be loaded this afternoon at El Toro Marine Air Station near the Western White House.

A 7:30 a.m. departure from there Sunday is set for Mrs. Nixon on 4,180-mile nonstop flight to Lima on Peru's Pacific Coast.

The 20,000-pound cargo of "priority needs" will include tents, blankets and warm clothing. A special donation of 350 blankets came from members of the President's official family, including his Cabinet. They were collected during the past two days since Mrs. Nixon's mission was announced.

The Western White House issued a last-minute appeal for funds for the 800,000 homeless and 100,000 injured victims of the earthquake disaster.

Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch, coordinator of U.S. relief aid to Peru, sent telegrams Friday asking mayors of six U.S. cities which have Sister City programs with Peru to raise money to be delivered by Mrs. Nixon.

"In this time of national need you may want to contribute to the relief and rehabilitation to those who are closest to you in that country," Finch wired the mayors of Pensacola, Fla.; Sioux City, Iowa; Santa Barbara, Calif.; Flint, Mich.; Charlotte, N. C.; and Vancouver, Wash. They are part of the Sister City projects launched with Latin-American cities during president Eisenhower's administration to promote inter-American relations. They are linked respectively, with the Peruvian cities of Chimbote, Callo, Cusco, Trujillo and Arequipa. Vancouver and Charlotte work jointly with Arequipa.

Chimbote is an industrial port city of 80,000 near Huaylas Canyon, where the main force of the earthquake was concentrated in the Andes Mountains. It is one spot Mrs. Nixon has announced she will visit on her three-day trip.

The earthquake, which struck May 31, took a toll estimated at 60,000 lives.

The White House said Friday, "In human cost, the disaster is greater than any recorded in recent times in the Western Hemisphere." It was compared to a 1936 disaster in India where 60,000 lives were lost.

Lowest temperature yet experienced on earth is minus 127 degrees in Antarctica, near the South Pole.

Q — Wouldn't the census get a more accurate count if only questions about family size were asked rather than many questions that have little to do with population? — H.R.

A — U.S. Census Bureau spokesman explained that population figures by themselves are of little value. In order for the federal government to determine programs best suited to people's needs in certain areas, questions about income, housing and occupation are vital.

Q — Why does the Pettis County Welfare department threaten loss of welfare checks unless individuals cash in their life insurance? Also what happens to a person on welfare, who dies and has no survivors to handle the burial arrangements? — B.J.M.

A — Herman Wallace, director of the Pettis County Welfare Office, told Hotline that welfare recipients are allowed a $1000 life insurance or burial policy. There is always someone who takes responsibility for a welfare recipient who dies without survivors, if not a person, then a church or organization, Wallace said. If it happened that no one would handle burial arrangements the county would probably take responsibility, he reported.

Q — Why hasn't the swimming pool in Hubbard Park been prepared for opening? Are necessary repairs going to be made? Are the baseball diamonds going to be improved? — R.B.

A — Parks superintendent Jack Couts said the pool was in proper shape when it opened last Monday. Opening was delayed because the Park Board was considering closing the pool because it has operated at a loss ever since it opened. Couts said they try to make the park facilities self-supporting. A spokesman for the Little League agreed that the "C" diamond at Hubbard is in bad shape. Because managers have to care for five ball parks themselves without much outside help, it is difficult to keep all the parks in top condition, he said.

World News Capsules

ALGIERS (AP) — The 10-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries—OPEC—met today to ratify a controversial proposal for a world petroleum agreement to limit production in order to achieve market stability.

The resolution, offered by Venezuelan Petroleum Minister Hugo Perez-La Salvia, was opposed by Saudi Arabia, Iran and the Persian Gulf sheikdoms. Iran's oil minister, Jamshid Amouzegar, said national oil production quotas should be based not only on past production records but on each country's population and development needs.

The conference also agreed to back Algeria in a dispute with France over oil prices, urged member nations to take action protecting their oil reserves, and called on them to insist on greater national participation in all steps of the oil business, including marketing.

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Albania is trading with 80 countries but has no trade relations with the Soviet Union, according to the Austrian newspaper Die Presse.

As Peking's only ally in Communist Eastern Europe, Albania has become increasingly dependent on the economy of Communist China.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The governor of southern Kerala dissolved the Communist-dominated state legislature Friday, paving the way for new statewide elections.

V. Viswanathan, acting on the recommendation of Communist Chief Minister Achutha Menon, announced the move in a communique.

MANILA (AP) — An American Air Force sergeant died and another was hospitalized in serious condition after they treated themselves for venereal disease with outdated antibiotics, a spokesman at Clark Air Force Base said Friday.

The victims' names were not available.

Aldermen Vote To Authorize Special Ballot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Board of Aldermen went over Mayor A.J. Cervantes' head Friday to authorize a special election on firemen's pay.

The board voted 21-5 to override the mayor's veto of a bill scheduling a Sept. 15 election on a proposed charter amendment to give firemen party with police in salary.

The executive committee of Firefighters Local 73, which represents most of the city's 1,100 firemen, voted Thursday night to strike immediately if the board did not reject the veto.

The firemen obtained more than 75,000 signatures on a petition to put the parity pay issue to a referendum vote.

Cervantes vetoed the bill on grounds the city cannot afford the $125,000 cost of holding an election, let alone pay increased wages.

Firemen's starting pay is $7,463 a year compared with $7,800 for police.

This Week in Business

NEW YORK (AP) — The plight of the nation's railroads came into sharp focus in the past week when Penn Central filed a bankruptcy petition for reorganization of its railroad subsidiary.

The subsidiary, the Penn Central Transportation Co., said "a severe cash squeeze" was behind its decision to seek court assistance.

During the first three months this year, the company reported a $62.7 million net loss.

The railroad's long-standing financial problems have been attributed by federal and company officials to the drag of maintaining unprofitable passenger services.

Congress began open hearings this week on a Nixon Administration bill to provide $750 million in federally guaranteed loans to hard-pressed railroads, including the Penn Central.

In testimony before the House Commerce Subcommittee, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said several other railroads were experiencing financial difficulties.

He said 21 of the nation's 74 major railroads operated in the red last year.

There are "at least three or four on the doorstep" that would need federal guarantee of their credit to avoid following the Penn Central into reorganization proceedings under bankruptcy laws, he warned.

Volpe said a takeover of the railroads by the federal government was an alternative to federal loan guarantees.

The Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, called for a nationalization of the nation's railroad system. The 135,000-member union contended that such action was required for long-term solution of the rail industry's problems.

Penn Central Transportation Co. operates the country's largest railroad system. Penn Central Co., the parent company, has a variety of nonrailroad subsidiaries with total assets of about $7 billion.

The railroad filed the bankruptcy action after a proposed federal guarantee of up to $200 million in bank loans under the Defense Production Act of 1950 fell through.

Under the bankruptcy laws for railroads, a federal court judge will establish a trusteeship to run the railroad as its agent and try to adjust the railroad's debts.

In congressional testimony this week, however, Volpe raised the question of whether the railroad could continue to meet future payrolls.

Repercussions of the Penn Central action were felt in Wall Street where prices took a beating during the week.

Analysts attributed the market decline to investor worries over the cash position of other companies in light of the Penn Central development.

At least one economist, though, called the reaction "excessive." Economist Pierre Rinfret said Wall Street is "emotional, excitable and lacking in financial perspective."

In another development this week, the Navy announced it was awarding a $2.1 billion contract to Litton Industries to build 30 destroyers over the next eight years.

The Navy said this was the largest single peacetime award for shipbuilding in its history.

Another important development on the business scene the past week involved the collapse of negotiations for "voluntary" restrictions by Japan of textile exports to this country.

Following this, the Nixon Administration reluctantly dropped its opposition to textile import quota legislation currently before the House.

Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, who set the leg of John Wilkes Booth, Abraham Lincoln's assassin, was sentenced to life imprisonment but was later pardoned.

People In The News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reginald N. Whitman has resigned as administrator of the Federal Railroad Administration to become a president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, effective July 10.

Whitman, 60, said Friday his decision to leave federal service was "strictly personal."

Before joining the U.S. Department of Transportation in February 1969, Whitman was general manager of the Great Northern Railroad, now part of Burlington Northern..

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Hugh Hefner, publisher of Playboy magazine, says he plans to build a resort with a casino somewhere in Nevada by 1973.

He said he has options on land in the Lake Tahoe area, but also is considering Las Vegas.

"Frankly," he said Friday, "the only thing that kept us out of Nevada in the past was the undesirable element." He added that recent investments by national corporations and by multimillionaire Howard Hughes "influenced our decision."

Hefner was here for a magazine sales convention.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A spokesman for Frank Sinatra says the singer-actor is recuperating at his desert home here after surgery on his right hand. His condition was reported as excellent.

Sinatra's spokesman said the 54-year-old entertainer underwent the operation during a 24-hour stay at California Hospital and Medical Center in Los Angeles. He was released Friday night.

His ailment was described as a contracture — a muscular spasm that causes the hand to be drawn into a tight fist.

(Lehmer Studio)

Mrs. Paul Langewisch

Miss Claycomb Weds Paul Langewisch

Miss Linda Ruth Claycomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cecil Claycomb, Hughesvillle, was united in marriage June 20 to Paul Frederick Langewisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Langewisch, Blackburn. Dr. Thomas Hall performed the evening double ring ceremony at the Wesley United Methodist Church.

White gladioli, yellow fuji mums and majestic daisies adorned the altar and the sides of the chancel steps, along with Woodwardia palm. Seven branch candelabra entwined with foliage held white tapers, and white satin bows reserved the family pews. A white carpet covered the bridal aisle.

Organist, Mrs. Robert Woolery, accompanied Miss Melodee Herndon as she sang "Because" and "O, Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length Camelot sleeved gown of organza in an empire bouffant A-line, trimmed with venise lace daisies at the bodice and cuff. A removable watteau chapel train of organza trimmed with venise lace daisies fell from the shoulders, and her imported French illusion veil was secured with a Camelot head piece of daisies accented with tiny seed peals. She carried a Victorian bouquet of Marguerite daisies, yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath and long streamers of lace edged satin.

Maid of honor, Miss Lynn Ann Summers and bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Gault and Miss Ruth Langewisch, wore full-length gowns of empire silhouette organza in maize yellow over satin and long bouffant sleeves. Each carried a nosegay of tangerine daisies, roses and baby's breath, with mint green streamers.

Flower girl, Miss Koni Raines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Raines, wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of rose petals.

Candlelighters were Miss Sharon Gault and Miss Ruth Langewisch.

Best man was Larry Knehans, and groomsmen were Fred Utlaut and Denny Shryock. Ushers were Robert Cook, Bill Claycomb and Robert Stanley. Serving as ringbearer was Richard Kiehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kiehl. He carried the rings in a velvet lined jewel chest.

The mother of the bride chose a coat and dress ensemble of aqua silk with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and baby's breath.

The mother of the groom wore a princess dress of mint green shantung with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Wesley Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table was covered with floor-length tiered lace over yellow satin. Centering the table was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with white Marguerite daisies and yellow sweetheart roses. Silver candelabra with yellow tapers were entwined by fern and daisies.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Hardy Menees, Mrs. Bob Swanson, Mrs. John Logan, Mrs. Raymond Pahlow and Mrs. Gary Raines.

For a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, the bride chose a peach coat dress with orange and yellow scarf at the neckline, and black accessories. She wore a corsage of daisies.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Missouri with a B.S. degree in elementary education.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Missouri with a B.S. degree in Agricultural Economics. He is now serving with the U.S. Army at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

The couple will reside at El Paso, Tex.

Miss Mosby Becomes Bride of Steve Cline

Miss Linda Kay Mosby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mosby, 1500 South Summit and Steven Charles Cline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin G. Cline, 1716 South Beacon, exchanged wedding vows at the United Church of Christ, the afternoon of June 20. The Rev. Marvin Albright performed the double ring ceremony before an altar arranged with white stock and blue carnations and flanked by a pair of brass candelabra with blue trim.

Miss Janice Boehm, organist, played "Theme from Romeo and Juliet" as the attendants walked down the aisle, and the traditional wedding march was played for the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an empire, floor-length gown of white whipped cream, with long lace sleeves. Her elbow length veil was secured by a cluster of pearls and white whipped cream. She wore a silver leaf necklace with a pearl in the center, a gift from the groom, and her colonial bouquet was of white roses and miniature carnations. The gown was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lester Mosby.

Maid of honor, Miss Carol Mosby, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids, Misses Janet and Janice Mosby, twin sisters of the bride, wore empire, floor-length gowns of blue whipped cream with blue accessories. Their headpieces were of blue bows. Each carried a nosegay of blue miniature carnations trimmed with white lace.

Flower girl, Miss Becky Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Moore, wore a street-length blue dress of whipped cream and carried a basket of assorted flowers, trimmed in blue.

Serving as best man was Jay Cline, brother of the groom. Ushers were Douge Cline, brother of the groom, Mike Moore and Roger Lytle. Ringbearer was Master Mike Oxborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lytle.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mosby chose a pink knit dress with beige accessories and wore a corsage of white miniature carnations.

Mother of the groom, Mrs. Cline, chose a pink knit dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white miniature carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and white lace overlay. A pair of candles trimmed with greenery flanked the four-tiered cake which was accented with blue roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Dean Yancey, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Dick Stevens, aunt of the groom. Mrs. Roger Lytle attended the guest book and Cathy Slocum and Debbie Walker assisted with the gift table.

For a wedding trip to the Ozarks, the bride chose a pink linen dress with white accessories, and wore a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and is employed at Missouri State Bank.

The groom is a 1969 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, attended State Fair Community College and is employed at the Sedalia Democrat.

The couple will reside at 1100½ East 15th Street.

A reception in the church parlor immediately followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was draped in skirts of shiffli embroidery, and silver candelabra with matching fountain punch bowl, highlighted the table. The wedding cake of four tiers was decorated with roses, bells and silver leaves.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Robert Billington, Mrs. Bart Bemusdaffer, Miss Betty Blackburn and Miss Melinda Billington.

For a wedding trip to Scranton, Penn., and Cove Haven Resort at Lakeville, Penn., the bride chose a navy blue, three piece ensemble with white accessories.

The bride recently graduated from Putnam City High School, Oklahoma City, and will be a freshman at the University of Oklahoma this fall.

The groom will be a junior at the University of Oklahoma in the fall.

The couple will reside at 901 24th Avenue Southwest, Norman, Okla.

Simple Care for Silver

The only way to keep your silver in good condition is to give it sterling care. The care is simple—either machine washing or hot suds and rinses with an occasional polishing. When washed by hand, be sure to dry thoroughly. All metals, including stainless steel, spot if left to drain dry. If necessary, use a soft, well-lathered brush to clean ornate silver. For an occasional shine-up, use a liquid or cream polish made specifically for silver and follow directions.

Quotable Women

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I think good integration can be achieved if you have the right kind of administrators, and white parents who don't tell their kids to hate."—Miss Arthur Mae Cohen, Negro student, before the Senate Select Committee on Equal Education Opportunity in Washington.

"We were blindfolded—tightly—and led off the truck, stopping to descend the plank. I was kicked once on the way, but for the most part the villagers did not touch us. My sense was that we might be close to being killed in this period."—Elizabeth Pond, one of three journalists released after five weeks in captivity in Cambodia, in a copyright story for the Christian Science Monitor.

"I got my raincoat on, slowly, because I didn't want her to smell the blood. After I had talked to her for about half an hour, she seemed a little more passive. I backed off and she came forward, smelled the blood and then just lay down . . . But she kept her eyes on me all the time."—Daphne Smith, clawed by a cougar in Canada, but talked the big cat out of renewing the attack.

"I'm happy because I'm with people I love and because I'm committed."—Jane Fonda, in an interview.

"Some day, I won't be described as 'smiling' or 'pert.' People are forever reproaching me for not smiling. Well, there are lots of times when I don't feel like smiling. I feel very serious about some things that are no smiling matters."—Actress and TV talk show hostess Betsy Palmer, in an interview.

Summer Romance

This floor-length sleeveless gown in leopard-printed silk chiffon (left) will bring out the feline femininity of every woman. A jewel belt captures the waistline. The elegance of the East is captured in the giant paisley silk pajama (right). The look of a shirtwaist with open neckline and long sleeves flows into a pajama with relaxed ease. Gold-sequined embroidery lends a shimmering accent.

Mrs. Thomas Bodine

(Classic Studio)

Miss Roberta Shull Marries Tom Bodine

Before an altar arrangement of white gladioli and yellow majestic daisies, Miss Roberta Ellen Shull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shull, 222 South Grand, became the bride of Thomas Bodine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bodine, 1619 West 14th, at a double-ring ceremony yesterday at Sacred Heart Church, with the Rev. Ron Hoenninger officiating.

Escorted by her father, the former Miss Shull approached the altar in a gown of silk organza, with a high empire bodice of hand-clipped Provence lace. Styled with a small standing collar and long bishop sleeves, the Slender A-line skirt was appliqued with flower garlands of lace. A chapel length train was attached to the gown with a flat fabric bow. Silk petal clusters centered with pearl trimmed lace, formed a miniature plateau headdress which held her triple illusion veil.

Maid of honor Miss Jennifer Taylor wore a floor length gown of mint green chiffon, with a band of schiffli embroidery marking the lifted waist. Bridesmaids, Misses Debbie Shull and Shelly Bodine, sisters respectively of the bride and groom, wore gowns identical to that of Miss Taylor. All wore bow bandeaux of matching green silk to hold short circle veils.

Lindie Ridgeway, the bride's cousin, wore a costume matching those of the attendants. Ringbearer was the groom's brother, Christopher Bodine.

The bride's bouquet was of white marguerite daisies, baby's breath, and yellow sweetheart roses, and her attendants carried cluster bouquets of daisies with yellow streamers. The flower girl's basket was decorated with daisies, and held yellow rose petals.

Miss Mary Ellen Fisher played the love theme from "Romeo and Juliet", and traditional wedding processional and recessional music, also accompanying Richard Esser and Steve Esser as they sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother", "Ave Maria", and "Mother, At Your Feet I'm Kneeling."

Rick Hunt served as best man to the groom. Groomsman were Leroy Shull, brother of the bride, and Jack Rouchka. Seating guests were Jerry Shull and Mike Herrick.

The bride's mother wore an A-line dress of mint green and white, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom wore pale pink crepe, trimmed in white, with pink accessories, and a pink corsage.

A three-tiered cake centered the serving table at a reception following the ceremony in Sacred Heart School cafeteria. A white-lace cloth over mint green satin covered the table, which was garlanded with smilax and bows. Serving were Mrs. John Wolf, Miss Cathy Ford, Mrs. Peggy Renno, Mrs. Karen Long, Mrs. Betty Vodicka, Mrs. Jean Almquist and Mrs. Susan Taylor.

In charge of the guest book for the reception was Miss Debbie Myers.

For her wedding trip the new Mrs. Bodine wore lime green, with white accessories, and she wore a corsage of yellow roses.

She and Mr. Bodine will reside at 1416½ South Ohio.

The bride attended Central Missouri State College, and is employed at Bothwell Hospital laboratory. The groom also attended CMSC, and is an employe of A and P Food Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bodine, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday night at Flat Creek Inn.

Mrs. James Mayfield

Miss Willenbring Is Bride of J. Mayfield

PILOT GROVE — A double ring ceremony united Miss Margaret Ann Willenbring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Willenbring, and James Dean Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Mayfield, Bunceton, in marriage June 13. The Rev. Father Robert Chenoweth officiated at the afternoon ceremony in St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Tom Thomason, the bride's uncle, served as lecturn, and Mrs. Karen Zander, organist, played traditional wedding selections.

Baskets of roses, white lillies, fern and camrack highlighted the main and side altars. The flowers were grown and arranged by Mrs. Ben Vonderahe, grandmother of the bride. Hurricane lanterns were secured to the pews with greenery, and large satin pink bows marked the bride's side, and blue satin bows marked the groom's pews.

The bride ascended down the aisle on her mother and father's arm, placing a kiss on them both at the altar. The groom also walked with his mother and father down the aisle and kissed his mother at the altar.

The bride's full-length gown was of silk organza over taffeta with lace rosettes. The empire waist was accented with small bows which were attached to the lace encircled mantilla train. The round necked bodice was of Alencon lace and organza with pearls and rosettes along the full-length sleeves. A shoulder length peau-de-soie veil was secured by chiffon covered pearl leaves. Her only jewelry were cultured pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a cascade of white catelayan orchid, pink roses, white fuji mums, white mums, pom pons, and pearls accented the plumosus fern which surrounded a pink orchid. White streamers and lover's knots secured pink sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor, Pat Willenbring, twin sister of the bride, wore a floor length pink chiffon over taffeta gown with empire waist accented with white embroidery and pink chiffon ribbon, and elbow length sleeves. A floor length chiffon train fell from the shoulders. Her headpiece was of pink satin roses and pink chiffon streamers. She had pink accessories.

Maid of honor, Miss Jerry Ann Mayfield, sister of the groom, and bridesmaids, Miss Terry Thomason, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Lea Willenbring, sister-in-law of the bride, wore dresses identical to the matron of honor. They carried fan-shaped bouquets of pink roses and white pom pon mums accented with pearls and pink streamers. Each wore a necklace and bracelet which was a gift from the bride.

Best man, Donald Ray Nichols, was attired in a black Edwardian tuxedo with blue accessories, identical to the groom's.

Groomemen, Harold Wessing, Bruce Owens, cousin of the groom, Jerry Willenbring, brother of the bride, were also dressed in tuxedos.

Ushers were Larry Marcum, Jay A. Watring and Frank Oswald.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Willenbring chose a sleeveless shantung dress with lace rosette trimming and matching lace coat, and her accessories were pink. Her corsage was a lavender catelayan orchid.

Mother of the groom, Mrs. Mayfield, wore a pink lace dress highlighted by pearls. She wore a matching headpiece with jewel pin, and her accessories were silver. Her corsage was also a lavender catelayan orchid.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ben Vonderahe also attended the wedding.

A reception in the church basement followed the ceremony.

White netting with pink satin covered the bride's table, and two crystal candleholders with double-lighted tapers flanked the five-tier cake trimmed with pink icing, rosettes and silver leaves. It was topped with miniature bride and groom, encircled in pearls and pink ribbons from the first corsage the groom had given her.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Tom Thomason and Mrs. John Vonderahe, aunts of the bride.

The groom's table was decorated with white netting over blue satin and a crystal candle and bud vase combination held three lighted candles and pink rose buds. At one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and the other end was highlighted with a three-tier silver fountain bubbling with pink champagne.

Serving at the groom's table were Mrs. Earlene Holman, aunt of the groom and Miss Vicki Thacker. Miss Elizabeth Lyle Thomas and Miss Margie Long attended the gift table. Others assisting were Mrs. Herman Reuter and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reuter.

A wedding dance was held that evening at the Rod and Gun Club, Boonville, with music furnished by the InSinuations.

For a wedding trip to Tan-Tar-A and Lodge of the Four Seasons at the Lake of the Ozarks, the bride chose a yellow shantung lace, long sleeve dress with scoop neck and puffed sleeves gathered at the wrists, and yellow accessories. She wore a white catelayan orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mayfield, parents of the groom, were hosts to a rehearsal dinner of 35 guests at their country home on the evening of June 12.

Mrs. Franklin Merl Craig

Yellow-White Setting For Jacobs-Craig Vows

KANSAS CITY — Marriage vows were exchanged the evening of June 12, in Centropolis Baptist Church between Miss LeFern Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Jacobs, and Franklin Merl Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Craig, former Sedalians.

The Rev. Ralph Nite officiated at the double-ring ceremony in a setting of arched ivy, flanked by baskets of yellow and white carnations, gladioli, and nine-branch candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace over white satin with lace sleeves extending from a bodice topped with a scalloped neckline. The empire waistline was accented with a white velvet bow. A detachable train of lace over satin completed her gown. Her chapel-length veil was held in place by a pillbox of white lace over satin. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, and carried a cascade of miniature white carnations with white streamers, centered with a white orchid.

She was attended by Mrs. Dennis Shannon, matron of honor; bridesmaids were Miss Dee Bodiford, and Mrs. Thomas Mahin. They wore floor length gowns of lime green dotted voile with long full sleeves. Small yellow flower clusters held shoulder-length green illusion veils.

Sp. Thomas Mahin, Green Ridge, was best man. Groomsmen were Richard Motter and Willis Barnett.

The candlelighters, Misses Debra Chitwood and Delora Shannon wore matching gowns of yellow dotted swiss.

David Chitwood was also a candlelighter, and Douglas Shannon was ringbearer. The flower girl, Sonia Hinkle, wore a floor length lime dotted swiss gown, carried a satin and lace lined basket filled with yellow rose petals.

Mrs. Fred Biggs, sang, "Always", accompanied by Mrs. Max Ollenberger, who sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Seating the guests were Fred Biggs and Stephen Durrill.

Mothers of the bride and groom wore identical dresses of white-linen with rose and green embroidery, rose veil hats, white accessories, and white orchid corsages.

At the reception in the church dining hall, Miss JaVene Clay attended the guest book. Serving were Miss Merrie Barnett, and Miss Diane Durrill, Mrs. Jacob C. Regier, Mrs. George Clay, Mrs. Marvin Durrill, and Mrs. Howard Durrill.

For a wedding trip through southern Missouri, the bride wore a rose dress with scooped neckline, and an overlay of matching silk organza.

The couple will live in Kansas City.

Pre-nuptial celebrations included a rehearsal dinner for the wedding party by the groom's parents at their home on June 11, and a brunch June 12 given by Mrs. Max Ollenberger.

The Jaycee Wives will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Missouri State Bank Building.

Look for Durability

When buying a baby quilt, look for lasting quality. Look for close stitching so padding can't shift, smoothly attached binding and decorative accents. Both sides should be equally well-finished. Keep it new-looking by proper laundering techniques; wash on gentle cycle; fluff in dryer. Don't iron or put through wringer or you'll squeeze out the insulating properties.

Even in warm weather we treat our family to pies, but we do it the easy way. This is one of our favorites. A baked graham cracker crumb shell filled with canned cling peach slices and strawberries combined with a bit of whipped cream. Delicious!

Mrs. Gregory Richardson (Classic Studio)

Wedding Vows Spoken By Kelley-Richardson

GREEN RIDGE — Miss Eileen Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelley, Green Ridge was united in marriage June 20 with Gregory Eugene Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson, Jr., Green Ridge. The Rev. James Williams performed the evening, double ring ceremony at the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church.

Alter vases filled with pink and white carnations enhanced the altar and candelabra with seven pink tapers in each were decorated with pink bows.

Soloist, Karen Carter, sang "Till There Was You" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an empire gown of white silk organza with Victorian neckline and long full sleeves. Narrow panels of Val lace enhanced the bodice and A-line skirt and banded her train length mantilla. A cameo belonging to the bride's great-grandmother, accented the neck. She carried a colonial style bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and trimmed with white velvet and lace.

Maid of honor, Miss Julia Harvey, and bridesmaids, Miss Donna Ray and Miss Susan Kelley, sister of the bride wore identical full-length dresses of pink pique with daisies accenting the empire gathered waists, and all had stand-up collars and short puffed sleeves. Their headpieces were of pink velvet cord with daisies descending from the ends of the bows' strings. Nosegays of pink roses and daisies were carried by the attendants.

The soloist and candlelighters wore street-length dresses styled in the same manner. The candlelighters wore wrist corsages of pink carnations.

Best man was Rudy Brown, and groomsmen were Edward Ream and Steve Brown. Mike Carter, and Stanley Garner served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kelley chose a navy blue double knit dress with red, white and blue scarf accenting the neck, and she wore a red carnation corsage. Mrs. Richardson, mother of the groom, wore a light blue dress with lace sleeves, and wore a light blue tipped carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church with 200 guests attending.

Lace over a pink cloth covered the bride's table, and candelabra contained pink candles. The three-tier wedding cake was decorated with pink roses clustered on each layer and a miniature bride and groom on top.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Jesse White, Jr. and Mrs. Robert Needy.

Attending the gift table were Miss Carrie Purchase and Miss Cathy Berry. Miss Terry Walz was in charge of the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Springfield, Mo., the bride chose a navy blue, sleeveless linen dress with stand-up collar and mock belt with a wide white buckle. Her corsage was of red carnations.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Green Ridge High School.

The groom is a 1969 graduate of Green Ridge High School.

The couple will reside in Green Ridge.

Mrs. Don Woodward (Fine Art Studio)

Miss Palmer Weds Don E. Woodward

An evening ceremony June 18, united in marriage, Miss Joyce Ann Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Palmer, Cole Camp, and Don E. Woodward, son of S. E. Woodward, 4200 South Kentucky, and the late Mrs. Woodward.

The Rev. Thomas V. Heather, CH, Capt., USAF, officiated at the double ring ceremony at the Whiteman Air Force Base Chapel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length A-line gown of candlelight satin. The empire bodice, rounded neckline and long tapered sleeves of alencon lace, were edged in matching satin. A lace headdress was crowned with pearls and secured a silk English illusion veil. She carried a classic cascade of white mums, white miniature carnations, red sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Ilene Webb, Sedalia, wore a beige and white two-piece, street-length dress with matching accessories. Her headpiece of white was topped with pearls, and she carried a long-stem red rose.

Serving as best man was Leslie Webb.

Mother of the bride wore a yellow knit street-length dress accented with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For a trip to the Ozarks, the bride chose a salmon and white knit ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white orchids and stephanotis.

Neale-Parlapiano Are United In Marriage

Mrs. Michael Parlapiano, Jr.

Miss Cynthia Kay Neale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ewing Neale, El Paso, Tex., former Sedalians, and Lt. Michael Parlapiano, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Parlapiano, Sr., Penns Grove, New Jersey, exchanged wedding vows in an afternoon double ring ceremony, June 13. The Rev. Luke Sullivan performed the ceremony at the St. Michael's Chapel in Ft. Bliss, Tex.

The chapel altar was decorated with baskets of white gladiola and candelabra. Mrs. Ralph Jones, violinist and Donald Kopecky, organist, played traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length gown of silk organza fashioned with long bishop sleeves, fitted bodice, wedding ring neckline and skimmer skirt ending in a detachable chapel length train.

White Venice lace embellished with seed pearls accented the collar, bodice, and edges of the sheer train. Her veil was secured to a headpiece of matching Venice lace, and she carried a cascade of white elegance carnations centered with an alba orchid.

Miss Peggy Ann Neale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stephen Long, the former Sedalian, Barbara Blaine; Mrs. Richard Weaver, Mrs. Robert Valdez and Miss Jane Hays. All wore floor length gowns of yellow chiffon fashioned with long bishop sleeves and scoop neckline. Embroidered flowers accented the Empire waist and cuffs, and their headpieces were of matching tailored bows with three-tiered short veils. They carried bouquets of yellow jack straw pom pons.

Serving as best man was John Parlapiano, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Lt. Timothy Hicklin, Lt. William Biedieger, Lt. Gregory Neuner and Lt. Michael Sills.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Neale chose a turquoise silk coat dress with matching accessories.

The mother of the groom wore a lime green silk ensemble with matching accessories. Both mothers wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Bigg's Officer's Club. Mrs. Russell Kendrick, Knob Noster, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Merrell B. Clark, Mrs. Jesse L. Loe and Mrs. Richard Lambrecht, assisted with the reception.

For her wedding trip to California, the bride wore a bone dacron dress trimmed in pink, with matching accessories.

The couple will reside at 2515 Morehead Street, El Paso.

Bake a Nectarine Ambrosia Pudding

Fold fresh nectarine slices into orange coconut or regular tapioca pudding. Turn into heat-proof serving dish. Top with meringue and flaked coconut; bake in 375-degree oven until flecked with brown.

The club voted to donate a sum of money toward the Masonic Lodge for use of the building throughout the year. Plans for a smorgasbord to be held July 22 at Flat Creek Inn were made.

Gifts were won by Mrs. Charles Goode and Mrs. E. H. Fowler.

Committee chairmen for the coming year were announced at the final meeting of the present year of the Beta Alpha chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, Tuesday at State Fair Restaurant.

Chairmen introduced by Mrs. John Bronson, club president were: Mrs. Gary Johnson, program; Mrs. O. D. Raines, membership, Mrs. Maxine Bottcher, Ways and Means; Mrs. Don Franklin, altruistic; Mrs. Barbara Freund, courtesy; Mrs. Clarence Leiter, by-laws; and telephone, Mrs. Bronson.

Nutty Nectarine-Banana Salad

Roll fresh nectarine wedges in roasted diced almonds and arrange with lemon-coated, diagonally sliced bananas on salad greens.

Chicken with Nectarine Sauce

Rub chicken pieces with butter or margarine; crumble tarragon over. Place in shallow pan without rack and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour, basting twice. Add wedges of juicy fresh nectarines to drippings in pan to bake for the last ten minutes. Just before serving, stir some dairy sour cream into pan drippings and serve as sauce for chicken.

Sauted Peppers and Fruit

Saute green pepper rings and sliced fresh nectarines in hot salad oil until peppers are tender-crisp; season with salt and pepper and serve with fried or grilled fish.

Nectarine Rice

Toss hot, cooked white rice (or one of the other new spiced rices) with toasted sesame seeds and cubed fresh nectarines. Serve with duck, Cornish hens or roast chicken.

Visit With Governor

Republican Club Entertained By Essay Recital

Brenda Jonson was the featured entertainer at the regular noon meeting of the Republicans for Improvement Club at State Fair Restaurant, Friday. Miss Jonson recited an essay, which she used during the recent Miss Sedalia Pagent, stressing what America meant to her.

Following the program, president Ron Jones called for reports from secretary Duane Slagel and treasurer Vaughn Hart, as well as from state Senator John Ryan.

The meeting was adjourned, with the next scheduled for July 10, with this Friday being skipped, due to the July 4th weekend.

At the next meeting, city council members are expected to discuss the newly proposed city budget from the different city departments.

The Eat-'em Books

Because babies and tots often taste as well as look at picture books, it is a wise precaution to buy cloth or plastic-impregnated books which can be kept sanitary with a quick swish of sudsy water.

Compact Powder Room

An old pantry, closet or space under a stairwell going to waste can be easily converted into a compact powder room. You can install a powder room in a space as small as 4x5 feet. For unusual-shape rooms, there are fixtures for corner installation.

The Damaging Drip

Water from a leaky pipe can cause a great deal of damage in just a few minutes. That's why ever adult and teen-ager in the family should know where to turn off the water. Also, keep the name of your plumber in a place known to all members of the family.

Robbs Commemorate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Robb, Route 1 Sedalia, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 21. The surprise open house was held from 2 to 5 p.m. at the couple's home by relatives.

The reception table was covered with a cutwork linen tablecloth and a gold vase of gladiola and spider mums and gold candles fanned the five-tier anniversary cake which was decorated with gold roses, gold hearts and sprays of lily of the valley. The cake was baked and given to Mr. and Mrs. Robb as a gift by a niece, Mrs. D. J. Hobelman, Fredonia, Kans.

Assisting with the table were Mrs. Alfred Kreutzer, Mrs. Harry Sommer, and Mrs. D. J. Hobelman, nieces of the couple. Mrs. Charles Snyder, niece, was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Robb was attired in a brown voile dress with gold accessories. Her corsage was of gold carnations and was the gift of her original maid of honor, her sister, Mrs. Nick (Josephine Meyer) Brummel, of Kansas City.

Three other sisters of Mrs. Robb attended the affair, Mrs. Ed Gramlich, Pilot Grove; Mrs. E. B. Hobelman, St. Louis; and Mrs. Herman Hobelman, Greeley, Kans.; Mr. Robb's brother, Leo Robb, Sedalia, also attended.

Grill Burgers with Fruit Inside

Knead ground beef with some prepared mustard, lemon pepper and garlic salt; shape into burgers, each with a plump wedge of fresh nectarine in the center. Grill or broil as usual.

Strip Tiles Semiannually

Ordinary cleaning does not completely strip a finish on resilient floors and the builtup coats become gummy or give the tiles a yellowish cast. The Better Floors Council recommends these floor coverings be stripped every six months. Commercial stripping solutions are available but you can make your own. The Council's recipe: ½-cup heavy-duty detergent and ½-cup household ammonia to one gallon of warm (not hot) water. Apply to a small area and leave on 3-5 minutes. Scrub thoroughly to remove old wax. Use a stiff brush, fine steel wool or an electric scrubber. Rinse well but do not flood the floor. Dry thoroughly before rewaxing. Do not rewax the floor if it is vinyl asbestos tile. According to the Council, a lovely patina can be maintained by regular buffing.

International Dream School Is Perfect Example

... By BENJAMIN BYCEL ...
... Associated Press Writer ...

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — An Israeli plays next to an Arab on the school soccer team. Their coach is a Russian. A Pakistani girl shares her book with a student from India. An Australian heads the math department and a Spaniard teaches international music to Africans.

Where? At the United Nations International School in New York City.

Staffed by teachers from more than 30 different countries, UNIS was founded in 1947 to provide preschool training to children of the U.N. staff. Today the school has grown into a complete kindergarten-through-secondary school system with more than 1,000 students from 80 different countries, including a number of Americans.

"We are not a microcosm of the world," said Maurice Pezet, the French headmaster of the secondary school. In fact, we are better than the world—we are a dream world. Every time I leave the school it hits me right in the face that the rest of the world isn't that way."

UNIS does seem like a dream world. Students, teachers and administrators from around the world mingle freely in and out of the classroom. In contrast to most American high schools which are currently besieged with problems of drug addiction, protests, racial confrontation and the breakdown of communications, UNIS appears to be an island of educational tranquillity.

"Part of the reason we have been so successful in keeping our school together," said Pezet, "is our flexibility. With so many people from different countries we can't afford to be rigid."

In recent years many of the school's rules have been removed. UNIS students are not made to wear uniforms and boys are allowed to wear their hair long. "I just found that I had better things to do then go around and check hair length," smiled Pezet.

The low student-teacher ratio of 10 to 1, a system of individual tutorials for upperclassmen, and the dedication of the teachers has helped to create a comfortable educational atmosphere.

A special feature of UNIS is its bilingual program, which begins in the second grade. The normal language of instruction is English, but all students learn French as a working second language. Extracurricular instruction also is offered in more than 30 mother tongues, including Hindi, Russian, Chinese, German and Spanish.

International Viewpoint

Ziad Malek of Lebanon, seated in front a large UNIS mural at the entrance to the United Nations International School in New York, watches as classmate Nina Giovannitti of the U.S. heads for an early morning class. With the exception of their cultural backgrounds and language the students of UNIS are not unlike those in any other high school. (AP)

Curriculum planning in a school like UNIS has some special problems. How should the history of the American Revolution be taught—from a British or an American textbook?

There is also the problem that many UNIS teachers stay only for two years and then return to their native country.

The most unique aspect of the school is, of course, the international student body. "So many of us are foreigners here that we have a common bond that keeps us together," said Shantayanan Devarajan, a student from Ceylon. An American student, Diane Weiser, sitting next to him at the lunch table, added, "Even those of us that aren't foreigners feel a great sense of community here."

"This place makes you realize that people are just not that different anywhere," said Silvia Castro from Brazil.

National animosities do not seem to play a part in the life at UNIS. Daniel Koshlatsky, the Russian athletic director of the school, noted he had never once heard "any national name-calling in the many heated debates on the playing field."

"In the outside world, people are afraid to talk to one another," said Gideon Arnon, an Israeli, in explaining his friendship with the Arab students. "But we do it all the time."

Students in the secondary school are preparing not only for the American college boards but also the University of Cambridge examination which many of them will need to gain entrance to foreign universities.

UNIS, along with other international schools, has also established an international diploma which will meet entrance requirements of universities all over the world.

The achievement records of UNIS students has been excellent; nearly 90 per cent of all its graduates go on to college.

UNIS, however is not without its problems. "Our biggest concern is money," said Pezet. "We are constantly faced with the dilemma of having to cut enrollment or raise the tuition." The school has been reluctant to raise the tuition because many of the students come from families with low-paying jobs with the U.N. Secretariat.

In addition to student fees, UNIS is supported by contributions from U.N. members and private sources.

Though the school has never had anything like a student protest or strike there are some rumblings of dissatisfaction.

A number of the "third world" students feel that the school represents a Western form of internationalism. Camilo Perez, from Colombia, called UNIS "a glorified British school with a few Frenchmen thrown in for effect."

"The faculty is not representative of the world," commented Samuel Oyedeji, from Nigeria, one of the two blacks on the faculty. "The school has never made a true commitment to hiring African, Asian and Latin-American teachers."

Director Fights Stereotype

... By WILLIAM GLOVER ...
... AP Drama Writer ...

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Hardy, the hottest stage director around, has an old cowhand's instinctive aversion to getting roped into any neat theatrical corral.

"There's no reason to become sterotyped," asserts Hardy with cool confidence. "I'd rather go back to being an office temporary than to handle a show just because somebody wanted me to do it and it didn't excite me."

Three concurrent hits of widely diverse appeal attest to the merit of his antispecialization credo: Hardy roams the dramatic range.

Broadway's 1970 Tony directing award went to him for "Child's Play," an exercise in Gothic melodrama that intrigued him as an opportunity for "total theatricality and let's forget about its values at other levels."

A few nights after that presentation, Hardy's wildly farcical staging of "What the Butler Saw" opened to reviews that started customers flocking.

Completing the click triumvirate, "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," an offbeat excursion into the live possibilities of comic strip characters, continues to turn a neat profit in its fourth year Off-Broadway.

In London, another earlier Hardy Broadway success, "Play It Again, Sam," attests to his international skill. He also staged all of the other "Charlie Brown" incarnations on view around the land and on tour.

In contrast to early efforts to crash into the Broadway scene, the quiet-spoken, 42-year-old director has more bids now than he can handle or wants to consider.

"I only get a little unnerved when plays offered are totally formless," he says, referring to some of the work being done by avant-garde experimenters. "I like to pick what is worthwhile and well-written."

His next Broadway project is "Bob and Ray—The Two and Only," due next fall, starring Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding, the TV-radio humorists.

Between stage assignments, Hardy has produced—but won't direct—assorted daytime serials for CBS-TV, is supervisor of the network's writer development program and serves as a consultant on other video shows.

From the start of schooling, Hardy was somehow hipped on a theatrical career.

"Even when I was on a ranch punching cows, I was thinking about getting away," he says of those youthful years in the Southwest. Hardy was born near Las Vegas, N.M.—not to be confused with the green felt shrine in Nevada with an opera-singing aunt the sole artistic influence in his heredity.

After college and an Army hitch that kept him stationed in Indianapolis, a teaching job back at New Mexico Highlands University, his alma mater, gave Hardy a chance to return to community theater activities.

A Fulbright fellowship took him in 1954 to Paris for a stay that "profoundly influenced" his professional development. Jean-Louis Barrault and Jean Vilar were trying all sorts of bold staging techniques. He also savored the intellectualism of Gallic critics and the emotional responsiveness of audiences.

"It would be marvelous if spectators here reacted with that excitement," he says. "We're all so bloody polite."

Hardy performed in "J.B." at the Brussels World's Fair, took an advanced degree at Yale Drama School with the intention of settling into a teaching career. En route he stopped off in New York.

"I got here with exactly $10 to my name," he says. "So here I was and here I remained."

Typist chores kept him going until "The Streets of New York," a musical redo of showboat melodrama, earned good reviews and a modest run — "it was ahead of its time, very kinky and involved."

A half-dozen off-Broadway pieces followed, with "Charlie Brown" providing the big break.

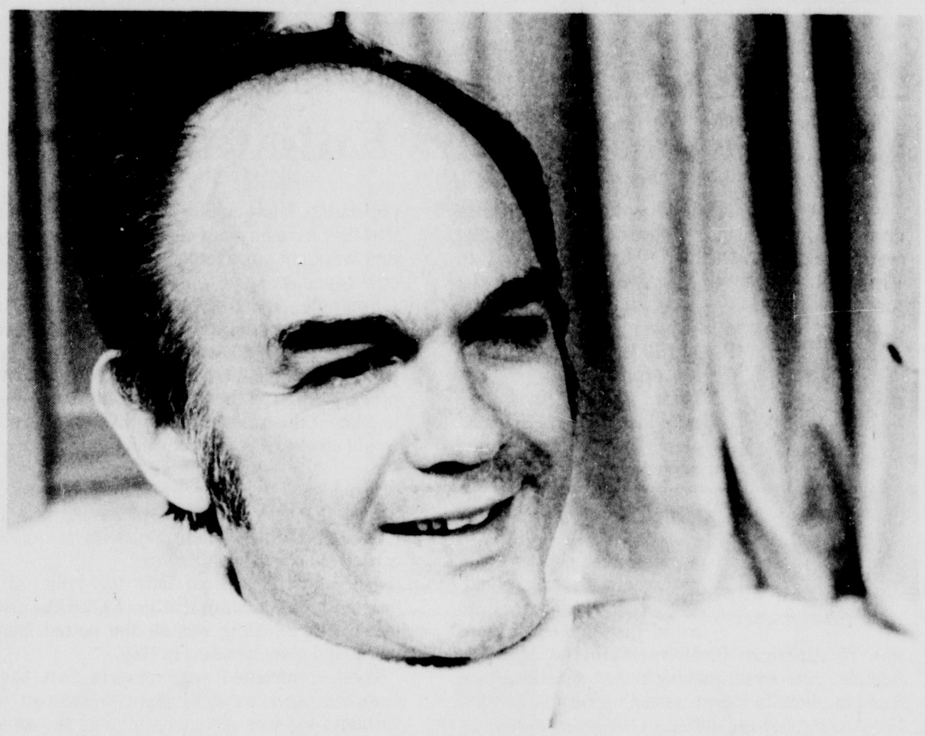
The Natural Look

Make-up is a wonderful invention. It can transform the plainest Jane into the belle of the ball. The key words to remember in using make-up are "subtle" and "natural." There is no point in applying liquid foundation if you have a "make-up mask" instead of a face when you've finished. It's also pointless to apply elaborate eye make-up if you come out looking as if you stepped out of a paint-box. Make sure that your face is a well-blended whole, with nothing looking artificial.



A Hardy Approach

Joseph Hardy, above, the hottest stage director around, approaches theater with an aversion to being stereotyped Three concurrent hits of widely diverse appeal he staged in New York attest to the merit of his anti-specialization credo. (AP)

'Girl Talk' Is Betsy Palmer's Salon

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television—Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Salons had been out of style for a long time when Betsy Palmer was growing up in Chicago, but she always believed, half ruefully, that she would have enjoyed living in Napoleonic France like Madame Recamier.

Thus, when about a year ago Betsy took over the hostess assignment on the popular syndicated "Girl Talk," she telephoned an old friend.

"I've got my salon!" she said.

Television talk shows may indeed be the modern equivalent of another day's gatherings for heavy conversation and light refreshment, even the substitute for the after dinner sessions of Victorian days featuring port wine, cigars and man talk.

"Girl Talk" was launched eight years ago as a vehicle for Virginia Graham, a blonde bundle of vitality with a quick wit, earthy humor and penchant for one-liners. The girl-talk ranged from the frivolous to the sober—the fine art of man-catching to preventive medicine—with the opinions and the conversation coming mainly from the distaff side.

Today, Betsy and her producer, Monte Morgan, believe that the show's whole character and emphasis have changed. Miss Graham left the program in a stormy disagreement with the management. The dispute is still unresolved and ringed in law suits.

Betsy, who had been a frequent guest on the show, was asked to take over, first to, as she puts it, "keep the seat warm for Virginia," and later on a permanent basis.

Morgan picks most of the guests, reading the papers for possible candidates, talking to agents and press agents and scanning newly published books.

Betsy, too, scouts guests. And like all the other talk shows, they both try to find fresh faces, new ideas and avoid as much as possible those eager travelers on the talk circuits who repeat like broken records and are interested only in plugging their latest film, show, record or book.

"Some guests can always be depended upon and are popular," she said, "but we don't want them to be overexposed."

Betsy likes to get her teeth into a good, sober discussion and while she'll go along smilingly with light chatter, she has opinions and expresses them on subjects that range from Vietnam to child care.

"Sometimes we'll have three good guests and then I try to bring them all into the conversation--those are the days when I really hope that some time we can take the show to one hour: a half-hour is really too short," she said.

She is one who really listens to what her guests are saying: "The cameras and the studio audience are out there but I don't pay much attention to them. I sit so I can concentrate on my guests."

Betsy—whose billing evolved in the early 1950s when there was already a Patricia or Pat Palmer on the Actors' Equity roster and she used her middle name—first attracted attention during the days of live TV drama and later as a regular on NBC's "Today" show.

"I learned to listen to (Dave) Garroway on 'Today'," she recalled. "If you listened to him, you could tell where the talk would go. It was his handling that produced the best shows."

She also learned how not to play hostess over years of appearing as a guest. Then, of course, there were those 11 years of listening and deducing on "I've Got a Secret."

"That was great, except people started thinking about me as a personality—dreadful word—and panelist while all the time I thought of myself as an actress. And, of course, I still do. "I've changed a lot, and I think that 'Girl Talk' has changed me. Once I thought that it would be enough to achieve the things I thought I needed--material success, Broadway--as well as other satisfactions. Now I know that was not enough.

"Some day," she said with a wistful smile, "I won't be described as 'smiling' or 'pert.' People are forever reproaching me for not smiling. Well, there are lots of times when I don't feel like smiling. I feel very serious about some things that are no smiling matters."

Add Almonds to Chicken Salad

Combine chunks of chicken, sliced celery and toasted chopped almonds. Season with the new dried cream of mushroom soup; moisten with dairy sour cream. Serve on lettuce and sprinkle leaves with more almonds.

For a supper quickie, put slices of canned luncheon meat together sandwich fashion with filling of hot mashed sweet potatoes. Spread drained canned cling peach halves and the meat with tart jelly and broil until bubbly and heated through.

A little cream cheese blended into cottage cheese makes it richer tasting and different. Add fresh grated orange rind to the mixture and heap in big golden canned cling peach halves. Serve in lettuce cups with a topping of chopped nuts.

How to 'Kick the Habits'

Currently the populace is deeply concerned about youngsters who are cultivating the drug habit, and how do elders go about teaching their progeny how to "kick it."

Education concerning the dangers of using dope is one important step, although it seems reasonable to believe that young people these days pretty well know what they are getting into. Emphasis by parents on persuasion must have the reciprocity of youth's will power to leave drugs alone.

The confirmed tobacco smoker or the chronic boozer knows full well how difficult it is to "kick" those habits. If this is torture to them, what must be the drug user's reaction in self denial?

Just how deep-seated the tobacco habit can become is illustrated by all sorts of methods used to shake loose. Other factors than will power can help. For many who have stopped smoking but are tempted to resume, a change of scene or a break from the daily routine is supposed to keep them jumping the hurdles of abstinence.

Not every ex-smoker can afford it but how far some people will go to "stay on the wagon" is noted in the promotion of a Caribbean cruise this fall.

Would-be ex-smokers will participate in an experiment sponsored by the Institute for New Motivations. This is a unique service dedicated to the proposition that the creation of special environments can help individuals deal with a variety of personal problems. Initial emphasis will be directed to the smoking habit.

Cigarettes will not be available on the ship and all passengers and ship's personnel are pledged not to smoke during the cruises.

Self-help will be stressed, but a number of professionally developed techniques will be available to assist passengers, including lectures, group discussions and self hypnosis. A team of psychiatrists, psychologists and other institute personnel will also be there to lean on.

Think of all this emphasis on "kicking the smoking habit!" A wonderful project if it works. But if it doesn't, the participants have had a lot of fun providing they can afford it.

Would a similar approach to the drug problem work? How about rounding up all the youthful dope users and sending them on a Caribbean cruise if the institute will take on such a project?

However, what about money for expenses? Too much to obtain on the local level? Then how about a federal grant? The project of rehabilitation of drug users would be more realistic than paying to shoot people in Asia.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U.S. Draft Dodgers Enlist for Israel

WASHINGTON — Israel is host to a strange invasion of American volunteers. Many, ironically, are draft dodgers unwilling to fight for the U.S. in Vietnam but raring to fight for Israel against the Arabs.

Jack Anderson

They are signing up in the Israeli army despite an explicit State Department warning that they may lose their U.S. citizenship by serving in the armed forces of another country.

The number of Americans in Israeli uniform is a secret that neither country wants to talk about. The U.S. is anxious to avoid the slightest impression of American involvement in the Mid-East fighting. And Israel, having raised a holler about Russian pilots in Egypt, doesn't wish to advertise that Americans are fighting on the Israeli side.

An estimated 2,000 Americans came to Israel to enlist during the 1967 Six Day War. Probably most of them have now drifted back home, but others have shown up at the recruiting offices.

There are an additional 20,000 U.S. citizens who have taken up residence in Israel. The majority are young enough to be subject to military service under Israeli law.

—Hush-Hush Policy—

In practice, Israel won't draft anyone who makes an issue of his American citizenship, just as the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv shuts its eyes to the violations of those who take up arms for Israel. Both countries would rather avoid any action that might attract attention to the Americans in the Israeli army.

My associate Les Whitten, in a report from Tel Aviv, writes: "The American volunteers arrive here with dreams of dashing Israeli soldiers, wearing berets and carrying Sten guns, against a background of stirring music from 'Exodus.' More often, they wind up on K.P. duty amid the glamor of pots and pans.

"For the Israelis prefer to put the 'Sabras,' as the native-born Israelis are called, on the firing line. The Sabras, who make up 44 per cent of the population, know no other land. The army theory is that they have no place else to call home, therefore, they will fight more ferociously for Israel."

tape 2-sunday m g r c

Footnote: At Sixth Fleet headquarters in Naples, the U.S. Navy has drawn up contingency plans to evacuate the 20,000 American citizens from Israel if their safety should be threatened. The Navy is prepared to send the Marines ashore, if necessary, to protect the Americans. But likely, most of them would elect to stay in Israel and fight.

— Unreported Fees —

Brooklyn's battling black congresswoman, Shirley Chisholm, has failed to tell the House Ethics Committee about thousands of dollars she earned from speaking last year.

The pert, 45-year-old lady legislator, at first, insisted to this column that the $8,000 she declared in her official filing was all she netted from her whirlwind speechmaking in 1969.

Then, confronted with reports that she had accepted speaking engagements almost every weekend for fees as high as $1,500, she amended her answer. The $8,000 constituted only the net fees, minus expenses, from "the big universities," she contended.

Even this total, she conceded, might be closer to $9,000. She estimated that her additional honoraria from smaller institutions might add up to another $3,000 to $4,000.

"When you consider what other Congressmen take in from their law practices, under the table, it just gets me mad," she said snappishly when questioned about the money she withheld from her declaration.

Mrs. Chisholm explained that she had lifted the $8,000 figure from one section of her tax returns. The other fees, she said, were listed elsewhere on her forms. Under the House rules, she should have listed all her fees in her statement to the House Ethics Committee.

It should be added, in fairness, that Mrs. Chisholm has won the respect of her colleagues for her hard work, sharp mind and political courage. Even skeptical conservatives have been impressed with the way she does her legislative homework.

She has carried her full load in the House at the same time that she has made flying trips all over the country to lecture. Incidentally, she has often turned down big fees to speak at small black gatherings for nominal fees or nothing at all.

Footnote: Some Congressmen didn't report any speaking fees at all last year because of a technicality in the wording of the House rules. The language has now been repaired.

— Cambodian Checkerboard —

The latest intelligence reports out of Cambodia confirm the worst fears of President Nixon's critics.

It is now clear that the bulk of the North Vietnamese forces escaped from their sanctuaries and took plenty of ammunition along with them. They immediately dispersed into small, independent units and scattered all over Cambodia.

Thus the President's Cambodian operation has succeeded in turning all of Cambodia into a checkerboard battlefield. Enemy forces, which previously kept scrupulously inside the narrow sanctuary strip, now make military strikes all over Cambodia.

Once the Americans pull out, there will be no military force left capable of preventing a communist takeover of Cambodia. Instead of a narrow strip, the communists may wind up with all Cambodia for a sanctuary.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q) When are companies supposed to start withholding taxes at the lower rates?

A) The new withholding rates become effective the first payday after June 30, 1970. Tables showing the amounts to be withheld will be sent to employers in June.

The new rates will be lower since there will be no withholding for the income tax surcharge which is due to expire June 30, 1970. Also, each exemption will be worth $650 for withholding purposes rather than $600, after that date.

Laws to Observe? Ethical Hang-up

By DAVID POLING

A letter from a reader in Ohio brought a truckload of difficult questions the other day. It is a highly representative document, giving us a clue to the ethical hang-ups being experienced within the contemporary church. The writer says directly:

"Over the past 18 months our pastor has repeatedly stated in sermons, children's sermons, confirmation classes, and in our adult Bible discussion class that we should obey only the laws we ourselves feel in our hearts to be just . . . and feel free to break the rest.

"He never tells us explicitly which laws are just or unjust. Once our adult class asked him point-blank, and he just shrugged, laughed and said,

"'That's the $64 question! Each person must determine that for himself.'

"So, as an experiment, our class teacher had us list which laws we, as adults, felt we were morally free to break as unjust. There were 27 in our class and I tabulated the results as follows: One could and, indeed, should break these under most circumstances:

1—Draft laws	20
2—Laws against property	17
3—Laws against robbery	23
4—Laws against personal injury	7
5—Laws against perjury	27
6—Building and zoning codes	27
7—Littering the streets	15
8—Civil Rights laws	13
9—Open Housing laws	9
10—Drug Abuse laws	21
11—Income tax evasion	26
12—Murder	3

"These are not hoodlums or lawbreakers as such, but upstanding citizens interested enough in church to attend Bible classes. So when even a small group could agree unanimously on only two of 12 laws (the laws against perjury and zoning!) how on earth can each man decide for himself which law is so unjust that Christ would command him to break it?"

Every Christian community has maintained and supported the concept that the individual believer owed allegiance to a higher law—that of loyalty to God and the dictates of conscience. Generally, Christians have been active, diligent members of the society in which they find themselves. This means "law abiding" and devoted followers of the prevailing code of conduct. Christians have agreed that when one breaks the law or goes against accepted norms he must be prepared to pay the consequences of such action. This is not a casual or daily event to be taken lightly, for one may be found in violation of civil and divine law.

Our reader is surprised that her church school class is ready to tear up the strictures of society should the circumstances require it. Are we all so convinced that church members are beyond the temptations, seductions and sins of the general society? Indeed, the church has a towering ideal to follow in the Holy Bible and in the history of the Faith, but that is no guarantee of perfection or sainthood.

Is this why Jesus turned from law to love?

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Take It Slow and Easy Acquiring a Sun Tan

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Acquiring a sun tan is still a popular pastime. If you try to hurry it you may wind up with a severe sunburn. But if you take your time—the fairer your complexion the more time you must allow—your tan will protect you from sunburn. On the credit side, sunlight will prevent rickets in children and, taken in moderation, it will benefit, but not cure, such skin diseases as psoriasis, eczema, acne, pityriasis rosea and varicose ulcers.

Most persons with light skin should not expose any one area to the sun for more than 10 or 15 minutes a day at first. This period may be increased by a third or a fourth each day. The sun's rays are most intense between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. and will have little, if any, effect before 8 a.m. or after 4:30 p.m.

Sun tan preparations and sunscreens, although they do not shut out the ultraviolet rays completely, will allow you to stay in the sun longer than you could safely without them. The label should list at least one of the following agents: red petrolatum, anthranilate, salicylate, cinnamate, pyrone, benzimidazole, carbazole, naphtholsulfonate, quinine disulfate or para aminobenzoic acid.

Some persons have an allergy to sunlight. Recent studies have shown that this is often the result of using certain cosmetics, perfumes that contain oil of bergamot, deodorant soaps and shampoos, some acne remedies, sulfa drugs and certain tranquilizers. If the preparation you are using contains any of these, you must weigh its advantages against the danger of photosensitivity.

Q—In a recent column you recommended nylidrin for hardening of the arteries. I have asked two doctors and they say this drug is not yet available.

A—Nylidrin is the official name for Arlidin. It has been on the market for several years. It requires a doctor's prescription.

Q—I contracted malaria during World War II. My last attack was in 1946. Is it possible for me to have another attack of this disease?

A—An attack of malaria confers no immunity to a subsequent attack. If, however, you have been cured for 24 years you will not get a recurrence unless you are bitten again by an infected anopheline mosquito.

The argument about today's hand undoubtedly was full of sound and fury. For all we know it may still be raging down in Fort Lauderdale where our correspondent wants to know just how the bidding should have gone.

As far as we can gather, North objected strenuously to his partner's rebid of one no-trump with a good five-card suit and no stopper in clubs.

North pointed out correctly that nothing could beat four hearts while as anyone can see the defense ran off five clubs against three no-trump.

We consider this whole thing a real tempest in a teapot. To start with, if clubs divided 4-3 or 6-1 (barring all three honors with the six) three no-trump would be unbeatable and if East held the king of spades instead of West the odds are that four hearts would bite the dust.

Furthermore, we wonder what North would have done if his partner had rebid to two hearts. At this point we know that North claimed he would have jumped to four hearts (we have our correspondent's word for that), but would he have done so at the table or would he have thought to himself "Damn the torpedoes, full steam ahead" and jumped to three no-trump.

He would probably have done very well at that contract. He would probably run off five hearts and three diamonds as a starter and then would lead the jack of spades with no intention of finessing and jeopardizing game and rubber, but it is just possible that East would have discarded a spade somewhere along the way and that West would cover that jack. If that happened, the queen of spades would drop the 10 and North would make all his spades.

All conjecture but unimportant. We believe that almost any expert would have made the same no-trump rebid that South did make.

L'Enfant's Grave

When Pierre Charles L'Enfant, the architect who planned Washington, D.C., died in 1825, he was buried in Maryland. In 1909, his body was disinterred and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Centennial Park

I looked at the park
With its welcome for all
With its many diamonds
Where kids can play ball,
The big shelter house,
The playground with swings
And all of the other
Recreational things.
The little bridges
That cross the small streams
And I smile at the memory of a man with his dreams.
'Twas simply an area
Bought by the city
Mostly with weeds
And not very pretty.
"It's larger than Liberty Park,"
The man said.
Then he told how far
This area spread.
As he talked of his dreams
And things that he planned
I saw nothing there
But a stretch of bare land.
Yet he saw ball diamonds,
Not weeds, but green grass,
Bridges and shelters
That have all come to pass,
He saw many things
That not yet have come true
An outdoor theatre
And a sort of a zoo.
Not exactly a zoo
But that nice wooded space
Would be left for wildlife—
A wonderful place
Where the little wild creatures
Would always be free
To roam in their woods
For the children to see—
In the park would be trees
With shade nice and cool
And here, too, would be
A big swimming pool.
I'm glad that this dreamer
Of dreams I have known
For his dreams were for others
Never his own.
He worked with his hands
And he dreamed with his heart
For the parks and this one
Was his dream from its start.
"A rose garden," he said
"And flowers all about."
But he just didn't live
To carry things out.
I looked at his park
With the children at play
And saw here the vision
That he'd seen that day.

D. C. Current

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — This is open season in the nation's capital. The tourists come in droves by bus, car and plane. It is wonderful that so many Americans want to come to Washington.

Sure, the weather is hot. The cafeterias and restaurants are crowded. The line in front of the White House seems endless. One hears people say, "Can we walk to the Lincoln Memorial?", "Can we get a bus to the Capitol?" The police are available to answer these questions and many others. Local Washingtonians are willing to give what information they can.

Most of the tourists are family visitors. They come in slacks, shorts and other colorful garb. Toddlers run along after mama and papa, older children show their independence by pretending they are not with their parents, but they are mostly a cheerful crowd though they may be weary and footsore.

The numerous parks are a great boon to the tourists. Mrs. Nixon officially opened Expo 70 on the White House lawn which turned into a carnival as she painted her name on a 10-foot balloon.

Across the street White House staffers eat their sandwiches in Lafayette Park while the band plays or folk groups sing their favorite tunes.

The D.C. Department of Recreation held a week-long Outdoor Art Fair which included music and folk dancing and theatrical performances.

The National Symphony Orchestra and the Washington Civic Opera Association gave a free performance of Verdi's La Traviata in Constitution Hall.

The Marine and Air Force Bands alternate their popular concerts between the steps on Capitol Hill and the Lincoln Memorial.

The Smithsonian Resident Puppet Theater draws great corwds for an admission fee. Based on the style of Bunraku Puppet Theater of Japan, their production uses near life-size puppets and the puppeteers manipulate the strings in front of the audience instead of behind the scenes. Grownups as well as children are fascinated by the "Peter and the Wolf," "Snow White" and other popular shows.

—O—

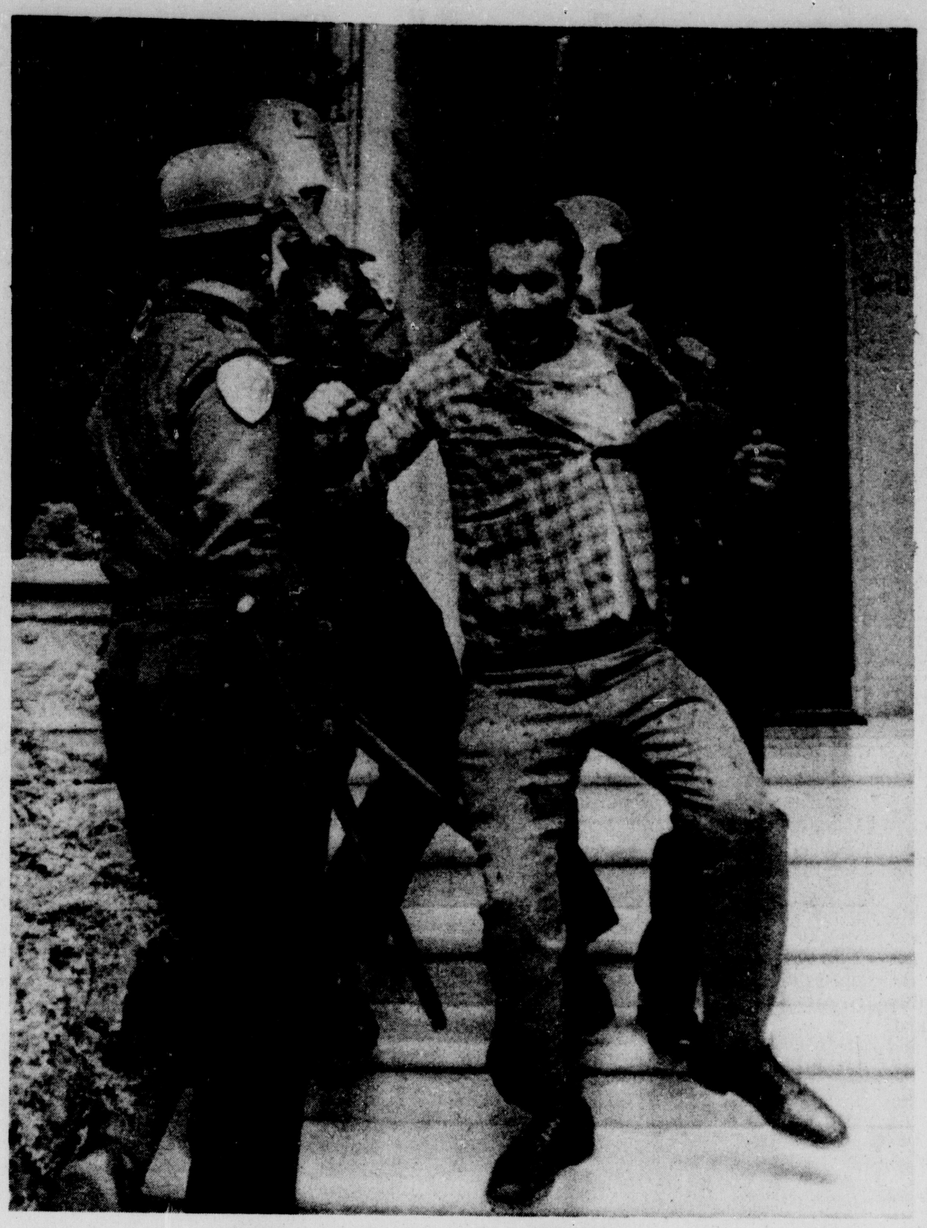
There is much interest in the "Honor America Day" for July 4th, although there is controversy regarding it. The brainchild of the Rev. Billy Graham and comedian Bob Hope, some consider it intends to Defend the Nixon War Policy. That theory is being scotched by the approval of some of the doves on Capitol Hill. Some Washingtonians prefer the traditional fireworks sponsored by the city and the four-year-old 4th of July Smithsonian Festival. It appears that harmony will prevail and a rousing, flag-waving holiday which will be non-partisan and non-controversial will truly honor our great country.

—O—

How generous can we get? The Food and Drug Administration abandoned a cyclamate sweetened drink as harmful to the American public. Now a manufacturer has generously donated 60,000 cases of it to the starving people of Laos. This drink is supposed to make the Laotian rice go down easier. Rep. Charles A. Vanik (D-Ohio) says it is absurd to send a low calorie food to a starving people. The gift probably gives a substantial tax cut to the manufacturer, but it admits the product will only be distributed when approved by local authorities.

Word's Origin

The word budget means a bag or pouch and was applied to the leather bag in which the English chancellor of the exchequer carried his statements of accounts to Parliament. Thus, he "opened his budget" to discover the financial condition of the country.



Restrain Iranian Student

Police remove an Iranian student from the Iranian Consulate in San Francisco Friday after demonstrators invaded the building to protest the regime of the Shah of Iran. A spokesman for the group said the demonstration was also called to protest the selection of the Shah's sister-in-law, Princess Ashraf, to represent Iran at the 25th anniversary ceremony of the United Nations. Tornado Derails Train

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP — A tornado knocked 16 cars of a Soutern Pacific freight train off the track Friday evening, piling some of the wrecked cars three deep.

Engineer F.E. Spair reported by radio that the twister spun across a field before hitting his train in open country 22 miles east of here about 6:10 p.m.

Spair and the other three crewmen on board escaped injury.

A dispatcher, in radio contact with Spair as the storm struck, said the engineer advised, "We've come across a hard wind and it's rocking the train."

After about 15 minutes Spair radioed that 16 of the freight's 129 cars were scattered along the right-of-way.

Railroad officials said there were four cars loaded with explosive chemicals among those off the track, but there was no leakage or fire. They said automatic equipment braked the train and its four engines to a halt moments after the twister hit.

"There was a field of grain sorghum beside the track and the stalks were knocked flat, just like a mower had passed, through the field," Del Rio newsman Charles Cook reported.

The freight train was en route from El Paso to St. Louis.

Emergency crewmen still labored today to reopen the railroad track.

Campaign Practice Code Signed Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Code of Fair Campaign Practices was signed Friday by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in behalf of Republicans and by House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts for Democrats.

The code, drawn up by a 20-year-old citizens' committee, condemns appeals to racial or religious prejudice, use of unfounded allegations, and "scurrilous attacks on any candidate or his personal or family life."

Donald B. Straus, president of the American Arbitration Association, announced an agreement with the citizens' committee to establish a procedure for prompt arbitration of charges of improper campaigning.

Setbacks Blamed On The Elderly

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Everyone over 65 in Missouri opposes school bond elections and that's one reason the issues fail, George Lehr said Friday.

"They vote 'no' to survive, not because they don't like schools," said Lehr, a democratic primary candidate for presiding judge of the Jackson County Court.

Lehr and other candidates said the present tax system is unfair to the elderly.

Their views were presented to a Missouri House subcommittee which is holding hearings on homestead exemption legislation as a solution for the problem.

Lehr agreed the exemption would help. "Our property tax," he said, "is penalizing the low and middle-income home owner. In this county the property tax gives a big advantage to the large shopping cent owner, the large property owner."

"Our large landholders have blocks of land assessed at 3 or 4 per cent of true value, and they speculate on this. People who are assessed at 30 per cent on their homes are building schools and roads and sewers for these speculators."

Dr. Charles Wheeler, present western judge and Lehr's primary opponent, said he was amazed by an assessor's statement that a reassessment would not increase revenue.

"Reassessment would catch the wealthy citizen who is not paying his share and make him pay for it," Wheeler said. "Our tax revenue would increase remarkably."

Drowning Victim

DIAMOND, Mo. (AP)—Charley Heckmaster, 54, of Diamond, was drowned late Friday in about one foot of water in a culvert along a county road about one-half mile north of here.

The man's body was discovered by two unidentified youths about 15 minutes after Heckmaster had been seen in Diamond.

Heckmaster was pronounced dead by Dr. Henry Freund, Newton County coroner. Freund said after an autopsy it was possible Heckmaster had fallen and struck his head on a rock and died while he was unconscious.

Diamond is 15 miles east of Joplin.

Mind Your Money

Variety of Styles In the 'RV' Market

Vacationers are buying RVs like mad. RV, or "Recreational Vehicle," is the official name for motorized bedroom-dining combinations such as travel-trailers, truck-campers and the buslike motor homes.

There are more than 1,000 manufacturers who will sell some half-million RVs this year in every conceivable size and shape. RVs came come with a whole catalogue full of standard and optional equipment such as gas-fired refrigerators, fancy-flush toilets and complete kitchens.

RVs have many kinds of warranties — some good, some useless. Getting an RV serviced when something goes wrong, as one rental agent puts it, "is absolutely horrible...They have more parts than cars and getting a part can take weeks, even months."

RVs range in price from tiny trailers ($900) on up to huge, self-contained motor homes ($16,000). A good, medium-sized trailer (17 foot) costs around $3.000. A great deal of fun can be had with an RV if you go about buying one the right way and you operate it the right way. Here are some tips:

RENT ONE. You should experiment with various types of RVs to see which one best suits your long-term family needs. Pick-up truck campers rent for around $100 a week plus mileage and trailers (15 foot) rent for around $90.

After experimenting, you will pick up names of RV brands plus specifications and types of equipment you might like to have. Usually, the nationally known manufacturers or well-known regional ones are the best bet. You have a better chance coping with the parts-and-service morass.

BUYING ONE. Look around the interior of the unit you might buy. Open drawers and cabinets. Is the workmanship neat or sloppy? Were nails or brads used, or were longer-lasting screws used? Does the dealer have service facilities?

What about equipment: Gas-powered refrigerators tend to stop if you aren't on level ground, especially those smaller than 4 cubic feet. Marine flush toilets are the best if there's a holding tank. Otherwise, recycling chemical toilets made by Monomatic aren't too bad. There's a fold-up, flush toilet called "Port-A-Potty" for use in small RVs.

WARRANTIES. Airstream is the only manufacturer giving a full warranty on its trailers and the equipment inside for one year but they're also the most expensive trailers ($4,800 and up). Most manufacturers just guarantee the bodies or panels of their units, leaving the equipment manufacturers to fend for themselves.

It's a good idea to read the warranties for all major pieces of equipment such as refrigerators, heaters, water systems, toilets, stoves and the like. Ask how and where defects are to be corrected.

SAFETY PROBLEM. The National Highway Safety Bureau recently spot-checked RV weights on highway truck scales and was shocked to find that a great percentage "were dangerously overloaded." An overloaded truck-camper can cause a tire or wheel to fail. A trailer that's overloaded can break your car's suspension.

A local tire dealer can check your tire and wheel load limits. Or you can get a "Recreational Vehicle Kit" from the Tire Industry Safety Council. It contains charts with all tire-load ratings, correct inflation pressures, a heavy-duty pressure gauge and some excellent tips on how to load and drive RVs safely. For the kit, send $3.50 to: Recreation, Box 726, New York, N.Y. 10010.

To check your true travel weight you have to find a local truck scale by inquiring at lumberyards, feed stores or the state police. Be sure all passengers, baggage, water are weighed. Do one axle at a time and divide by tow. If the load on any wheel exceeds the limit, you must reduce the load.

The National Commission on Product Safety investigation revealed that many injuries were caused by "falling or tripping" inside stationary RVs. Most state laws prohibit passengers riding in towed trailers but nothing is said about children or others riding in the upper bunks of truck-campers where a collision or sudden stop could propel them through the top, front windows like missiles.

Proposal To Prepare Conference

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Communist Warsaw Pact governments, in a memorandum handed to Western governments by Hungarian diplomats, have proposed the early preparation of a European East-West security conference, with the United States and Canada also attending.

At such a conference, the document said, an organization could be set up to deal with questions of European security and cooperation, including the mutual reduction of troops stationed on foreign territory.

The memorandum was issued by the Warsaw Pact governments' during a foreign ministers' conference in Budapest June 21-22 and was published today. It said the Warsaw Pact nations noted during recent East-West talks that "the views of the countries concerned have moved closer to each other about the European security conference," which has been proposed by the Soviet Union.

"It is desirable that the interested countries participate directly in every state of the preparation of the European security conference," the memorandum said.

"It is generally understood that the convening of the conference must not be tied to any preliminary conditions.

"A favorable response has been evoked by the Finnish government's initiative to make Helsinki the venue of the conference."

The memorandum proposed these items for inclusion on a conference agenda:

—The Establishment of security in Europe and the renunication of force, or the threat of using force, in relations between the European countries.

Prepares Movie On Drunk Driving

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sheriff Donald W. Stahl hopes the movies he is going to make will reduce the number of drunken driving offenders and increase convictions.

The sheriff, an amateur moviemaker, plans to install a videotape machine in the Mecklenburg County jail and record the actions of persons brought in on drunken driving charges. The picture and voice record will be made available to the courts.

Sedalia In Fourth Place In Tourney

FULTON — After the fourth game of the first round in the Inter-City Golf Tournament, Sedalia is in fourth place of the four-city league, with a team score of 241½.

First place belongs to Jefferson City with a team total of 290½; they are followed by Fulton at 287 and Columbia at 261.

Thursday's match at Fulton found Carlton Young of Fulton shooting a 71 for the medalist honors. Fred Hulse and Dr. Lesley were the runners-up with 72's.

Ralph Walker was the low-shooter for Sedalia with a 74; Dr. Clifford Kateman, Jim Buchanan and George Thompson shot 78's.

Other scores for Thursday's round were: Ned Postels (79), C.C. Delozier (80), Fred Evans (82), Jim Finley (83), Damon Hieronumus (85) and Marvin Mallory (90).

George Thompson led the team with 30½ points; he was followed closely by Ralph Walker, with 30.

Thursday, the teams will begin the second round of play at Columbia.

Brown Will Try For Ring Title

Danny Little Bear, 235-pound Central States wrestling champion, will risk that prize when he steps into the Convention Hall ring Tuesday night opposite Bob Brown, an old nemesis.

The action will top a four-card lineup. Starting time is 8:15.

Little Bear, who has defended the title against virtually every top challenger in the Mid-States, readily agreed to risk it against Brown even though burly Bob only recently returned to this area after an extended tour of Canadian rings.

Brown agreed to make the summer circuit in the Midlands provided he could get an early shot at the crown. It never has mattered to Little Bear which contender he faced and he indicated he was perfectly willing to meet Brown.

Brown, 242, poses a solid threat to Danny's regional supremacy. A stocky, hard-hitting pro, Brown has improved considerably in the last few years and is regarded wherever he wrestles as a dangerous opponent.

Matched in Tuesday's semifinal event are Scandor Akbar and Bob Geigel. Akbar is anxious for a crack at Geigel because he feels the Texan cost him victory in a strap match with Little Bear last week. Geigel, serving as referee, repeatedly warned Akbar for roughing tactics and several times forced him to break holds. Scandor considered it interference.

A tag team match also is scheduled with Natureboy Kirby and Oki Shikina teaming against Rufus R. Jones and the Viking.

Opening the show will be a clash between Kirby and Jones.

Baseball Soph Is On The Move

KANSAS CITY (AP) — First baseman Bob Oliver had just driven in his 44th run of the season for the Kansas City Royals and the excitement within him was showing.

To guys like Ernie Banks and Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Perez and Frank Howard, 44 RBI probably sounds like peanuts, but to Bob Oliver this is achievement, a mark of progress for a major league baseball player now in his sophomore season.

"Boy, what a difference a year makes," Oliver beamed. "What a difference it makes to play regularly. This is a good team, a young team."

The difference Oliver referred to was this: At this time last year Oliver had driven in only 14 runs and had only 4 for the 1969 season in 118 games. His batting average last year was only .254, and now he's hitting over .300.

Oliver believes he is typical of the player on a young club like the Royals, a 1969 American League expansion team struggling to keep from sinking below the Milwaukee Brewers and into last place in the West Division.

"Most of the players who were here last year have shown much improvement," explained Oliver. "This is a good, young, hustling, ambitious team, and in the not too distant future, we're going to be tough to beat."

Oliver started this season without knowing where he would play. Last year he played all outfield positions, at third base and at first base.

"First base is my position," he said, "and I hope to remain there for a long time. . . right here in Kansas City."

Oliver said he was over managed and over coached during his rookie year when Joe Gordon was the manager.

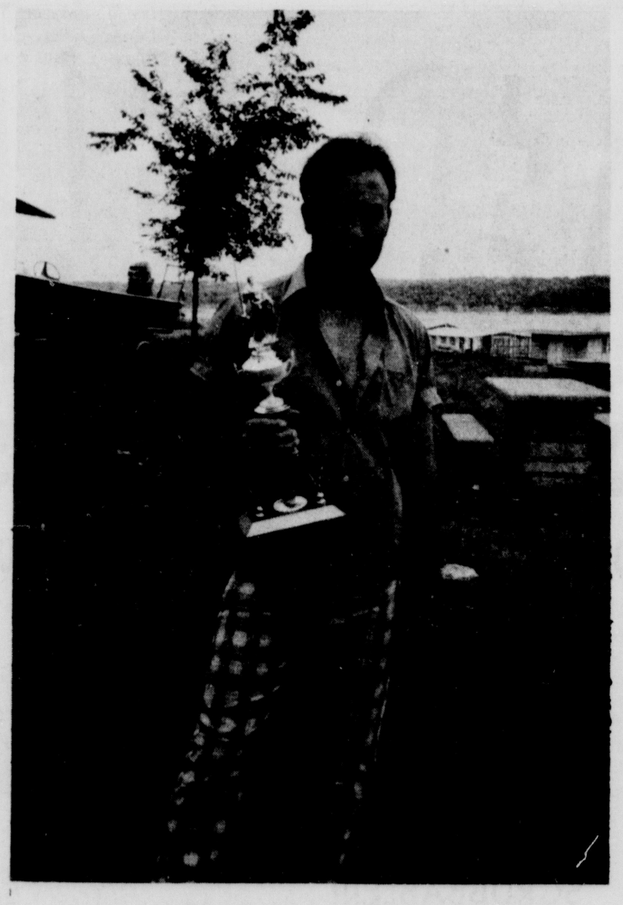
"This year, things were different," he said. "Our managers, Charlie Metro and Bob Lemon, both said to go out there and play ball, take three good cuts and try to make good solid contact. A player can't hit one way for five to six years and then come to the majors and change in five or six months." Lemon succeeded Metro as manager three weeks ago.

Even though Oliver wants to "forget all about last year," that season still produced the biggest thrill he has got out of baseball.

On May 4 against the California Angels, he accomplished the rare feat of collecting six hits in six times at bats in a nine-inning game. He had four singles, a double and a two - run home run.

STARRED FOR EUGENE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Denny Doyle, picked by Manager Frank Lucchesi as the rookie most likely to crack the Phillies' line-up, led the Pacific Coast League in three categories last year. Playing second base for Eugene, Ore., Doyle was tops in hits, total bases and at-bats.



For Largest Fish

Don Simmons, Route 2, Green Ridge, a member of Sedalia Divers, Inc., displays a trophy he won last Sunday for first place for the largest fish speared during a SCUBA competition event. The Aqua Hunters of Wichita, Kansas, were the hosts of the Midwest Diving Council, Inc. sponsored meet held on Lake Bull Shoals. The fish speared by Simmons was a 9 pound 15 ounce Carp. Simmons also ranked third as a Class A or Marksman SCUBA diver for most fish speared during the four hour spearfishing event.

Twins Two Hitter Downs White Sox 9-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Bert Blyleven, Holland-born teen-ager, pitched a two-hitter Saturday and got home run backing from Tony Oliva and Cesar Tovar as the Minnesota Twins trounced the Chicago White Sox 9-1.

Blyleven, a 180-pound right-hander only a year removed from a Garden Grove, Calif., high school, boosted his record to 3-2 after making his major league debut June 5. It was his first complete game.

Tiger Football Camp Commences Today

BOONVILLE — More than 80 junior and senior high school boys from all over Missouri will converge on Kemper Military School and College today for the opening session of the first annual Tiger Football Camp, featuring Dan Devine, director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Missouri.

Practice field, stadium, dormitory and mess hall facilities at Kemper will be used for the week-long camp, according to Ed Macauley, former St. Louis Cardinal's pro basketball great, who has coordinated the plans and arrangements with Coach Ed Dissinger, assistant to Coach Devine.

The boys range from eighth graders including boys who will be high school seniors. They will meet and be instructed by not only members of Missouri's coaching staff, but six guest coaches from the St. Louis Football Cardinals and the world champion Kansas City Chiefs, including John Roland, Roger Wehrli, Jim Hart and Ernie McMillan of the Cardinals and Jerrel Wilson and Willie Lanier of the Chiefs.

Coach Al Onofrio, assistant head coach at MU, will be present each day with a series of training films and lectures as well as being concerned with his speciality, defensive fundamentals and tactics.

The camp coaching staff will also include, Coach Charlie McCue, Kemper College head football coach, and Coach Jerry Grancer of Wymore (Nebraska) High School.

Following Sunday's registration, orientation and explanation of rules covering touch football, which will be played Monday through Thursday evenings in Kemper's Stadium, the Tiger Football Camp will move into high gear Monday and will wind up Saturday noon.

The visiting pro football players are scheduled for specific days and will be concerned with their specialities.

On Tuesday, Jim Hart and Ernie McMillan of the St. Louis Cards, will discuss and demonstrate quarterbacking and offensive tackle, has been a standout lineman for many years.

Wednesday will be highlighted by guest appearances of former Missouri All-American Johnny Roland, now one of the St. Louis Cardinals star running backs, and Willie Lanier of the KC Chiefs. Lanier is rated as one of the best linebackers in pro football.

Thursday's schedule will include appearances by Roger Wehrli, another All-American from Coach Devine's Tigers, who will be concerned with defensive secondary work, and Jerrel Wilson, punter for the KC Chiefs. Wilson averaged 44.4 yards per kick last fall and led the AFL in 1968 with a 45.1 average.

Friday's sessions will be operated by members of Coach Devine's staff. Besides Onofrio and Dissinger, the group will include Assistant Coach Charlie Coudrey, Coach Bob Frala (head freshman coach) and Assistant Coach Vic Rapp.

Each evening outside activities the boys will see a feature football film including 1969 Missouri Highlights (Sunday), Big Eight Highlights (Monday), AFL Highlights (Tuesday), NFL Highlights (Wednesday) and Missouri Gator Bowl film (Thursday).

In place of a film on Friday Coach Prentice Gautt of the Missouri staff will present a talk intitled "What the Fellowship of Christian Athletes has Meant to Me".

There will be numerous other features throughout the daily camp routine including a track meet Friday, achievement tests as well as time allotted to recreation such as swimming in Kemper's pool and golf on Kemper's nine-hole grass greens course.

Calling It Close

Baltimore's Don Buford's slide into home in the first inning of the Orioles-Senators game Friday was so close that umpire Arthur Frants had to get down on all fours to reach his decision. It was a matter of whether the runner ever reached the plate. Frants ruled he did not and called him out. Buford had tried to score from first on Paul Blair's double. Caught in the pile is catcher Paul Cassanova while Washington first baseman Mike Epstein (6) tries to aid in the decision. (UPI)

Bill Utz, who for years has been referred to as the 'flying blacksmith,' won't be able to carry that title too much longer...not because he is going to retire from auto racing, but because he is going to retire as a blacksmith.

In the near future, Utz will be going into the restaurant business on South Highway 65. The new restaurant, which will be appropriately named the Pit Stop, will open adjacent to the Elm Hills Golf Course entrance.

One could only guess how the cafe will be decorated, more than likely he needs an addition to his trophy room and this just may serve the purpose.

Many times items just plain don't get turned in.

Recently Mark Thomason, a righthanded pitcher for the Pepsi-Cola majors team in Little League, pitched the first perfect game of the season against Rotary.

Young Thomason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thomason of 1701 East Seventh Street.

In pitching his perfect game on June 17, he struck out 12 batters.

In Little League, it is not uncommon to have a no-hitter, but a perfect game is a horse of another color.

Congratulations are in order for Woody Carpenter of Clarksburg, Mo., who finally has worked out all the 'red tape' and has gotten the preliminaries of Marshall's Sportsman's Speedway out of the way.

Carpenter has already completed a major portion of the remodeling and building.

The Speedway will open Friday night and will feature sprint cars and supermodified 'b' cars; time trials get underway at 8 p.m.

An interesting note was found on my desk early Friday morning, when I arrived for work.

The note read:

Roy Ford, president of the Girls Khoury League called and said that Missouri State Fairgrounds maintenance foreman Charles Ramseyer, brought the prisoners who have been working on the fairgrounds to see some of the softball games. According to the note, the prisoners were 'perfect gentlemen.' Mr. Ford wanted it to be known that a good thing has been done and that other leagues in Sedalia should not be offended if these men are brought to view some of their games.

There was only one thing that struck me funny, after seeing how helpful this could be in rehabilitating the men in later life. And that was the short note that was tacked onto the end of the information.

It said:

It might be of interest to the readers after the prisoners have gone back to Jefferson City (just in case their behavior changes suddenly).

The June 11 rainout at Municipal Stadium between the Kansas City Royals and the Washington Senators will be made up as part of a twi-night doubleheader at 6 p.m. on Aug. 28. That has been the only postponement in Kansas City this year.

Also, a Saturday afternoon game in Yankee Stadium on Aug. 15 between Kansas City and New York has been added to the Royals' television schedule. Air time for the telecast will be at 12:55 p.m.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel should be given a pat on the back for recently forcefully emphasizing his department's ban on 16 types of pesticides including DDT, whose environmental effects are hazardous or virtually unknown.

The Interior Department, which administers 70 per cent of all federally owned lands, has banned the use of DDT, Aldrin, 245-T, Dieldrin, Endrin, Heptachlor, Landane, Toxaphene, Amitrol, inorganic arsenical compounds, Azodrin, Bidrin, DDD, mercurial compounds, Strobane and Thallium Sulfate. Other chemical pesticides have been placed on a 'restricted' list and can only be used on a small scale when non-chemical techniques have been found inadequate.

New Records Set at Meet

Eight national and 41 Missouri Valley District AAU Junior Olympic records were broken at the outdoor track and field meet at Lawrence, Kan., Saturday.

Paul Klover, who has been in the local sports spotlight recently, broke the Missouri Valley District 440 yard dash record with a time of 50.9 seconds.

Debbie Hicks, Moberly, set two Missouri Valley records and one national record. A high jump of four foot two inches set a national record in the Girls' Bantam Division while times of 7.0 and 13.1 seconds set records for Missouri Valley in the 50 and 100 yard dashes, respectively.

Three local boys qualified to compete in the Regional Championships in Conway, Ark., to be held July 18, Paul Klover qualified for the 220 and 440 yard dash; Russell Hodge, Harrisonville, qualified in the eight-pound shot put, and Ken Briscoe, Warrensburg, qualified in both the high jump and long jump competition.

Listed below are area medal winners at Saturday's meet:

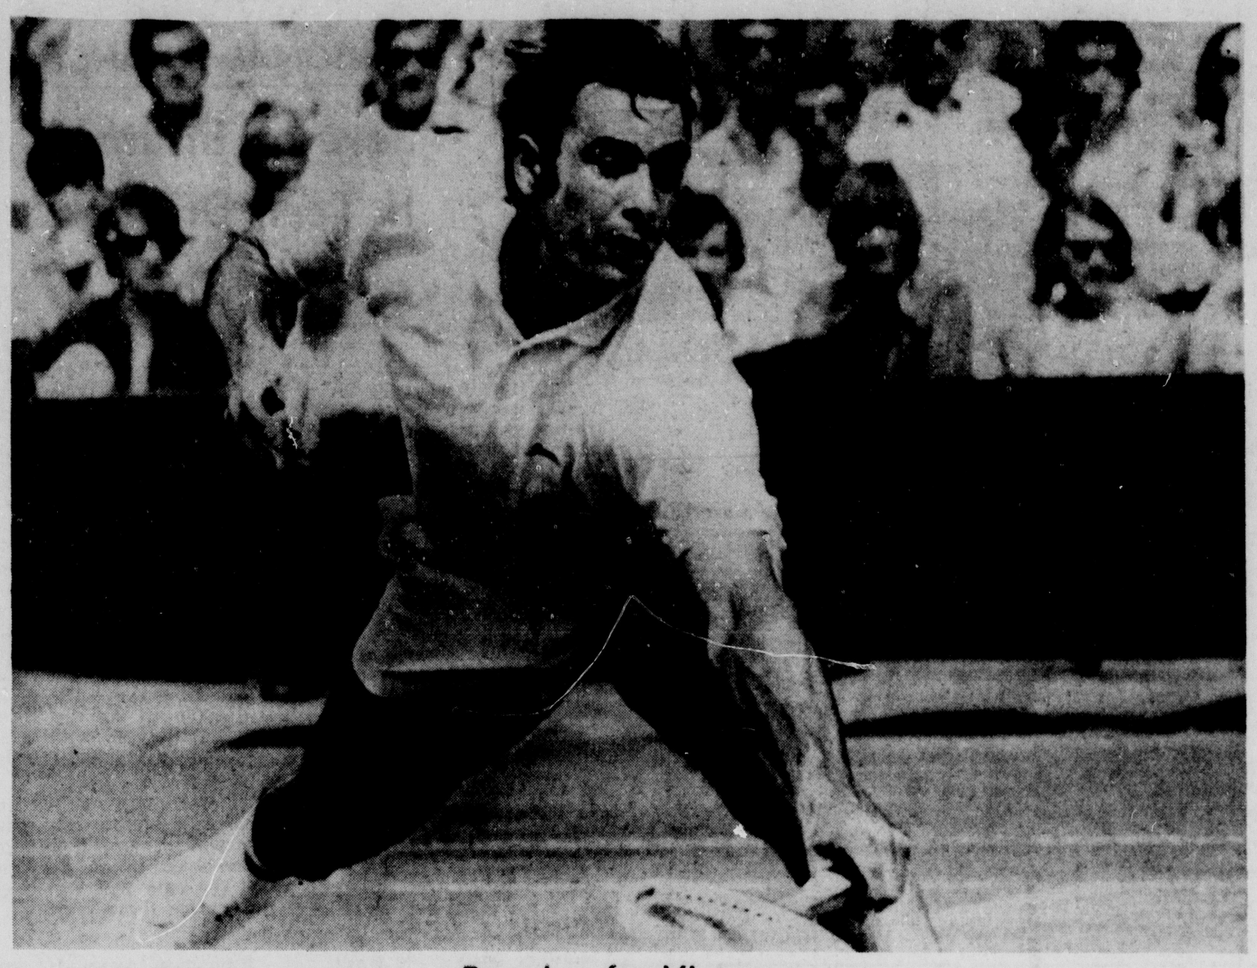
Dr. Pepper vs. Gaslight Inn

The Sedalia Dr. Pepper softball team will meet Gaslight Inn from Boonville in a double header at Housel Park tonight with the first game set for 7 p.m.

Dr. Pepper will be trying to extend their winning streak after defeating Gibson's of Marshall Wednesday night by scores of 7-6 and 2-1.

Neither team has announced their starting lineups for tonight's contest.

It will be the first meeting of the two teams.



Reaches for Victory

Roger Taylor of Great Britain stretches to return a shot by Rod Laver of Australia in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships. Taylor pulled an upset and knocked Laver out of the running for a third straight Wibledon victory. (UPI)

Fools Experts With Upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Roger Taylor, a burly English professional, turned the form books upside down Saturday by knocking Rod Laver of Australia out of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships in one of the biggest surprises of the decade, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

While Laver's bid for a third straight Wimbledon title crumbled, so did American hopes for the men's title on a day of surprises that saw leading U.S. hopes Arthur Ashe and Stan Smith eliminated. That left only Clark Graebner carrying American colors into the quarter-finals.

Graebner, the No. 9 seed from New York, kept alive what hopes the United States has by defeating Ilie Nastase of Romania 6-3, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3. Ashe, from Richmond, Va., and the third seed, bowed to Andres Gimeno, the balding Spanish professional, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2.

And Smith, the U.S. No. 1 from Los Angeles seeded seventh here, lost to battle-scarred Roy Emerson of Australia, a winner in 1964 and 1965 but only a 10th seed this time around, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Laver, meanwhile, offered no excuses for his inability to display the mastery and precision on the tennis courts that had kept him atop the tennis world for 10 years.

"I just didn't play well," said the 31-year-old Australian.

With only Graebner in the last eight, 1970 is the worst U.S. year in the men's bracket here since 1967 when not a single American reached the quarter finals.

The New Yorker plays Taylor in the quarter-finals, which pit Australians Tony Roche and Ken Rosewall and Emerson and John Newcombe against each other. The other match will be between Gimeno and yet another Australian — Bob Carmichael, who has come through to be the only non-ranked player to get this far.

In the last 16 of the women's singles, the United States had a much better day, with Mrs. Billie Jean King, Rosemary Casals and Cecilia Martinez all in the last eight.

But in this bracket too, there were upsets and three seeds were toppled. One was sixth-ranked Julie Heldman, from New York City, who tried to hit her way through the imperturbable Francoise Durr and crumbled under French girl's rock-like baseline 6-2, 6-4.

By way of consolation, however, Cecilia Martinez of San Francisco put out Britain's Virginia Wade, seeded No. 3, who carries a perpetual Wimbledon jinx around the courts here. Miss Martinez won 6-1, 6-4.

Lombardi OK After Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach Vince lombardi of the Washington Redskins was listed in good condition following surgery for removal of an apparently noncancerous tumor from his colon Saturday.

A spokesman said Lombardi would remain in Georgetown University Hospital 10 days and probably would not resume normal activities until late July or early August.

That schedule means the tough disciplinairian would miss a part of the Redskins' summer training camp which opens July 14 at Carlisle, Pa.

Dr. Robert J. Coffey, who headed the six-man team which removed the tumor and a two-foot section of lombardi's colon, said such tumors—calledpolypoids—usually are benign.

Coke Still Unbeaten

Coca Cola remained undefeated in the Junior Babe Ruth League by over-powering Adco 5-0 Friday night. Larry Kreisler, making his initial start of the season on the mound, pitched the four-hit shut out. Danny Grupe and Doug Maple each garnered two hits in the game for the winners. Ronnie Ehlers was the losing pitcher for Adco.

Rotary continued to display the ability to score runs, as they pounded out a convincing 20-8 victory over V.F.W. in the second game of the evening. Mike Arnold and Dennis Cooper both drove in four runs for Rotary. Rick McRoy, the winning pitcher, aided his own cause by smashing out three hits and scoring four runs. Don Vinson took the loss for V.F.W.

These are the standings after three weeks of play:

Coca-Cola	6-0
Rotary	5-1
Adco	4-2
Optimist	4-2
S&M	2-4
Third Nat'l	2-4
V.F.W.	1-5
Machinists	0-6

Best College Coach

LUBBOCK Tex. (AP) — Texas' Darrell Royal has been voted the outstanding college football coach of the 1960s in a poll taken by the ABC networks it was announced Saturday.

Writers and broadcasters from all sections of the country voted.

Royal finished with 599 points to 576 for runnerup Bear Bryant of Alabama. John McKay of the University of Southern California was third with 564 points, followed by Woody Hayes of Ohio State with 502.

Royals Beat Angels 2-0

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lou Pinilla's run-scoring single and a bale-loaded walk to Paul Schaal in the sixth inning gave the Kansas City Royals a 2-0 victory over California Saturday.

Dave Morehead, Tom Burgmeier and Bob Johnson combined to blank the Angels on four hits, including a sixth inning double by Sandy Alomar that stretched his hitting streak to 22 games—longest in the American League since 1961.

Morehead, the starter, had to leave the game after two innings because of a strained muscle in his rib cage. Burgmeier, 2-4, earned the victory by limiting the Angels to three hits from the third through the sixth.

Jones Takes Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Grier Jones, one of the most promising young players on the pro golf tour, slogged in with a two-under-par 68 Saturday and took the lead in the rain-delayed second round of the $150,000 Cleveland Open.

The 24-year old Kansan had a 36-hole score of 134 and a one-stroke lead over young Vietnam veteran Steve Eichstaedt, Tom Weiskopf and Chris Blocker as the first-round leaders drifted back on the soggy, water logged Aurora Country Club Course.

Eichstaedt, a 24-year-old from Miami whose career was interrupted by military service, charged in with a sparkling five-under-par-65 for 136 and a tie for second going into Sunday's 36-hole windup. Friday's play was rained out and the second round postponed until Saturday.

Weiskopf, who hasn't won since 1968 but has played very well in recent weeks, and Blocker, a six-year tour veteran who scored his only victory in the satellite Magnolia Classic earlier this year, both carded 67s.

Larry Hinson, the first-round leader with a 65, settled for a 71 and 136.

Dave Hill and Lee Trevino also took 71's for 137 and were tied at that figure with Bob Goalby, Bob Murphy, Frank Beard, Ken Ellsworth and Jim Langley.

Eichstaedt, who won about $2,000 when he first joined the tour in 1968 was drafted that year, spent 10 months in Vietnam as any Army medic, and returned to the tour only a few months ago. He had not completed a tournament, failing to qualify for one and missing the cut in two others.

But the slim, dark youngster had it going Saturday, running a 25-foot birdie putt on the eighth and coming home in 31.

He ripped irons within three feet on the 11th and 12th holes, canned a 12-footer on the 14th and pitched to within four feet on the final hole. He didn't have a bogey.

Jones, rookie of the year last year and winner of more than $36,000 this season, is gunning for his first victory. He has been in the Top 10 three times this year, including a tie for second at the Kemper.

Mays Not Counting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'm not counting. I just worry about playing ball," says Willie Mays, who has been involved in more countdowns than an astronaut.

The 39-year-old San Francisco Giant center fielder is closing in now on 3,000 hits, a total reached by only nine other players in major league baseball history.

On June 10, Mays hit his 614th big league home run, leaving him 100 short of Babe Ruth's all-time record.

"I think getting 600 home runs, even 500, is tougher than reaching 3,000 hits," Mays said.

"I know I'll get 3,000 hits. But don't ask me about Babe Ruth's 714 homers—I'm not that ambitious. It's all right to have goals when you're younger, but not now. When you have goals, you push yourself to reach them. I can't do that anymore."

But Mays, who joined the New York Giants in 1951, is enjoying a good season.

Through Tuesday's games, Willie had 17 homers and was batting .288. He needed only 13 hits to reach 3,000.

Injuries hampered Mays last season, when he played in only 117 games. He had 114 hits and only 13 homers.

Henry Aaron of the Atlanta Braves reached the 3,000-hit mark May 17 this season.

Ty Cobb tops the exclusive list of players with more than 3,000 hits, with 4,192. Other members of the club are Stan Musial, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Paul Waner and Cap Anson.

But as Mays says, the 600-homer club is more exclusive. He and Ruth are the only members, with Aaron a likely inductee this year.

Cheerleaders Attend Clinic

MARYVILLE, — More than 600 area cheerleaders from Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, and Nebraska schools were enrolled in the annual Northwest Missouri State College Cheerleader Clinic for junior and senior high school girls. The clinic ended Friday.

Under the direction of Miss Bonnie Magill, chairman of the women's physical education department at NWMSC, the cheerleaders were instructed in tumbling, yell leading, footwork routines, new yells, pompom routines and other elements pertaining to cheerleading.

Classes in the various phases were conducted by members of the National Cheerleading Association. The head instructor was Miss Carol Pojezny.

Save on Insurance If Teen Drives Car

By RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT

The youthful driver occupies a status in our society equal to that of Attila the Hun. Hardly anybody has a good word to say for him. Some think he ought to be banned from the road.

The youngsters' roadway reputations might be shrugged off as just another phase if it weren't for their effect on insurance rates. As it is, to be under 25 and behind the wheel is to be subject to staggering premium rates.

An appreciable percentage of this burden is borne not by the youngster himself but by his parents, since it's usually the family car that provides him with wheels.

The economic impact of junior's solo driving is apt to be stunning. Rates on the family car may double when a 17-year-old son slides behind the wheel.

If dad owns a second car and offers it to his son, insurance costs could triple.

A parent's defenses against these high rates are not great. The only cheap solution is to forbid a boy the use of the car at all, an approach that's hardly practical. However, there are a few ways to shave the costs if you can comply:

Driver Training — Some insurance companies will reduce rates if a young driver can offer proof of having completed an accredited driver-education course at school.

Note that simply having taken driving lessons is not enough. It must be a comprehensive, school-sponsored course.

Good-Student Discounts — Having a genius for a son is probably its own reward, but it is also worth money. Your insurer may be willing to reduce premium rates for youngsters who do well in school.

The usual requirement is the maintenance of a "B" average, placement in the top 20 per cent of his class and/or membership on the honor roll or dean's list.

Safe-driving Award—Some insurance companies put great store in a period of accident-free driving. It will take time for a youngster to qualify for safety-based discounts, however. First, he will have to survive three years on the road without an accident or serious traffic violation.

Unfortunately, there's another side of this coin. The rate will increase if the boy is involved in an accident and the rate will stay high for another three years.

Education Away—If your son goes away to school, this fact will often reduce insurance premiums on the family car. The reduction is purely pragmatic. College-committed youngsters usually are home long enough to drive only on vacations, plus an occasional weekend. Therefore, the risk is reduced.

Not all young drivers are males, of course, but they are the ones who suffer most from a poor reputation. Insurance rates on family cars being driven by girls usually rise only half as high as those driven by boys.

There is one bright spot, however. Insurers take a much kinder view of young people, male or female, when they marry. Rates recede on the waves of orange blossoms.

Red Advance Continues

Cambodian troops abandoned two garrison towns and an airstrip Saturday in the face of repeated Communist attacks, turning over a large portion of northeastern Cambodia to Viet Cong and North Vietnamese control, according to military spokesmen. The withdrawal left both Rattanakiri and Stung Treng Provinces under Communist control. (UPI)

Organization Petitions To Reorganize

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc., has filed for a petition to reorganize the company under the federal bankruptcy act.

The petition was heard and granted Friday in the U.S. District of Oklahoma.

The firm, a major operator and builder of nursing homes and child care centers, said it filed the papers because of its inability to raise financing to meet various debts and commitments.

It was the third largest concern to file for reorganization within the last week. The others were the Penn Central Railroad and Dolly Madison Industries, Inc.

Four Seasons was one of the most attractive common stocks on the American Exchange last year, but it plummeted before trading was suspended last April 29.

A company spokesman said the firm's problem was "not one of insolvency, but of liquidity." He did not elaborate.

On Tuesday, Four Seasons Equity Corp., which participates with the nursing home builder-operator in development, announced a loss of about $905,000 in the 10 months ended last April.

Lester Maddox Lifts His Ban On Newspapers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox, saying conflict between government and the press is healthy, has lifted his ban against the sale of two Atlanta newspapers at the state Capitol.

Maddox telephoned the circulation director of the Atlanta Constitution and Atlanta Journal Friday to tell him the papers could return their sales racks to the capitol.

He personally helped remove the racks May 29 after charging the newspapers, Georgia's largest, were unfair in their news columns and untruthful on their editorial pages.

He has been bickering with the papers for some time, but the relationship became more strained when they said editorially the state did not need a special session of the legislature.

Maddox said Friday the newspapers' coverage of the dispute indicated the management was interested in fairness.

DISTRICT SALES REPRESENTATIVE WANTED
Established Territory
Air-Conditioned Car Furnished
Excellent Opportunity For Advancement

We will employ a District Sales Representative for the central Missouri-Kansas area. This is a real opportunity for some man who can successfully call on retail grocery stores, jobber and chain headquarters. Experience will be given every consideration but is not a prerequisite. Applicant should live in the Marshall - Sedalia - Warrensburg area and be willing to travel five days a week.

This is a good paying position with salary and travel-expenses. We are a young company representing several top rated manufacturers, all of whose products are well advertised and accepted. The applicant will take over an established territory as all of our products have good distribution in the area to be serviced by the man we will employ.

The right man will receive training at full salary, will have every opportunity to grow into management of the company. If this is the type of position you are interested in, please write to us immediately, giving a brief resume of yourself and your past work record. We will arrange a personal interview at your convenience. All replies held in the strictest confidence.

Boston Suicide Attempt

A dramatic scene took place on a South Boston tenement rooftop Friday morning. A policeman tried to entice armed robbery suspect Edward Casey down from the roof where he was chased by officers. The suspect threatened to kill himself but was talked into surrendering by a tactful patrolman.

Selective Service Bogged in Red Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts by antiwar groups to bog down the draft with a flood of paperwork apparently is having a relatively serious impact on the Selective Service Ssystem.

National draft headquarters sent a letter Friday to local boards acknowledging the problem of mounting mail and authorizing them to ignore letters from persons with only a passing interest in the draft.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr said in the letter much of the mail is "part of an effort, apparently intended to 'bog down' the Selective Service System in a morass of paperwork."

No estimate of what officials call junk mail has been made, but spokesmen concede its impact. They said one trick of those involved in the campaign is to submit bulky documents, books and other material for filing in a registrant's dossier.

"Local boards need not respond to letters from nonregistrants or other persons who cannot be identified as having more than a general interest in the operation of Selective Service." Tarr wrote state directors.

Selective Service is distributing 100,000 check-an-answer postcards and has another 100,000 if needed. Another 500,000 are to be printed next week.

The postcard carries boxes where local draft officials may check one of three standard replies: A simple acknowledgment that a letter has been received; a notation that it has been filed, or a reference to draft regulations.

Tarr advised state directors to use the postcards "in order to ensure the continuous operation of the system and allow it to fulfill its primary function of meeting calls for manpower . . .

"Care must be taken to see that correspondence raising legitimate specific questions as to the registrant's status is answered in the regular way, even though some delay may be occasioned in responding," the letter said.

The earth's path around the sun deviates from a straight line about one inch in nine seconds of travel or one inch for every 166.5 miles.

Funeral Services For Past Official

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Funeral services will be held in Ironton, Mo., 2 p.m., Sunday for a former state treasurer, C. Eugene Stephens of Jefferson City. He died here Thursday.

Stephens, 80, was the youngest state treasurer ever in Missouri when he was elected in 1924 at the age of 34. He was a Republican and a native o. Adair County.

If you were born before 1911, you can save $25 to $35 or more on your auto insurance!

Our research shows that you, a mature driver, should pay less for auto insurance because your age group is actually safer than younger drivers.

Senior Drivers Auto Insurance, sold only to drivers 60 and over, takes this better driving record into account and gives mature, responsible drivers credit for their prudent driving habits and years of experience.

You also save money because Senior Drivers Auto Insurance is sold direct to you, without any salesman's commission.

You may pay premiums annually, semi-annually, quarterly or even monthly—at no additional charge.

Fast claim action is assured, with direct telephone contact with the Company day and night, weekends and holidays . . . and a national system of local claims representatives.

Of particular interest to drivers 60 and over are the special non-cancellation and renewal guarantee features of the Senior Drivers Auto Insurance policy, these guarantees are very clearly specified in the policy. (NOTE: It would be wise to check your present policy now for rate and cancellation provisions at ages 60, 65 and over.)

FIND OUT HOW MUCH YOU CAN SAVE ON AUTO INSURANCE:

The few minutes it takes you to fill out this simple form could save you $25 to $35 or more every year—a savings you have earned as a mature and prudent driver. Find out absolutely free all about Senior Drivers Auto Insurance . . . and learn the exact cost of the coverage you desire. No salesman will call . . . we have none.

Complete and mail this form now . . . and without any obligation, we will mail you the cost of the coverage you want and the actual insurance policy for your examination and comparison with your present policy. You'll receive this sixty days before your present policy expires. If you have any questions other than cost, call 314-426-3474.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR RONALD ZIEGLER, Presidential Press Secretary

Did President Nixon ever serve in the armed services? If so, when and where?—Jim Valder, Hoven, S.D.

● The President volunteered for service in the United States Navy during World War II and served in the South Pacific Theater, earning two Battle Stars and two commendations. He was discharged in 1946 with the rank of Lieutenant Commander.

FOR TOM SEAVER, New York Mets pitcher

How is a pitcher's E.R.A. computed?—Jan Wheeler, Point Pleasant, N.J.

● An earned-run average is based on the number of earned runs a pitcher allows for every 9 innings that he pitches. To compute this, multiply the number of earned runs times 9 and divide that total by the number of innings pitched. As an example, if a pitcher allows 2 earned runs in 6 innings, multiply 2 times 9 and divide the total of 18 by 6—meaning that the E.R.A. is 3.00.

FOR JUNE JOHNS, author of "King of the Witches"

What is the difference between white witchcraft and black witchcraft?—A. B., Atlantic City, N.J.

● White witchcraft is used only for benevolent purposes, and must not harm even the witch's enemies. Black witchcraft is "evil" and involves harm being done to another person.

FOR HOWARD PYLE, President, National Safety Council

According to your records, what is the most "faulty" part of automobiles?—Del Laiceps, Burien, Wash.

● According to the 1969 National Vehicle Safety Check, headlights were most frequently faulty. They were found defective on 21.6 per cent of all vehicles checked, with rear lights second (13.3 per cent), and windshield washers third (9.7 per cent). Nearly one-fifth of the 850,000 vehicles checked in this program had one or more items in unsafe driving condition.

FOR CASPER WEINBERGER, Federal Trade Commission

Is the Government doing anything about gasoline-station sweepstakes?—J. T. Blackburn, Key West, Fla.

● The Commission is investigating promotional methods involving games of chance and recently issued trade-regulation rules for the food-retailing and gasoline industries. These industries were selected for initial attention because of their importance to the consumer and to the national economy.

FOR LIBERACE

Did you use different pianos for some of your songs on the Liberace Show, or did they dress up the same piano?—Daniel R. Lee, Columbia, Mo.

● I used a total of seven different pianos during the series to suit the different moods of the numbers.

FOR JOHNNY CASH

Please tell me why your wife, June Carter, wasn't on any of your shows during the early part of this year?—Mrs. Ronnie Lethcoe, Culver City, Calif.

● She was happily pregnant.

FOR ANN CORIO, ex-burlesque Queen

What do you think of the new nude plays now so much in fashion?—K. H., W. Medway, Mass.

● My manager wanted me to see the nude production, "Oh! Calcutta!" currently playing in New York, but I will not go. I have no interest in seeing it. I don't see any culture or entertainment value in it. It's strictly for shock effect. People who go and see it must be sick. Who needs that in our society? The permissiveness is bad for our youngsters, and there is enough trouble going on.

Look Greater Longer FAMILY WEEKLY asked top beauty authority "Kenneth" (Battelle) for some tips on how the older woman can look her best.

Beauty authority Kenneth Battelle gives tips for older women.

Among Kenneth's suggestions: 1) "Not more make-up, but less." Also: "No powder—after the first half hour it brings out wrinkles instead of hiding them. Instead, use an oil-base foundation matching skin color exactly. For color, a gel or cream form. In lipsticks, avoid true red—it's old-fashioned and hard-looking. 2) Eyes fade with age; mascara in brown—never black—will pick them up. Avoid 'parrot' colors on crepey lids. Instead, use a skin-tone color like beige, soft grey. Little or no eyeliner. I think eyeliner is going out, and for young people, too. 3) For gray hair—my perfect answer is grow it and do it up. It's more flattering than short, frizzy, blue hair," Kenneth feels. "White streaks will give a softer look. 4) As for clothes, the romantic look—dog collars, ruffles, long full sleeves, which leave aging arms veiled."

Baby Specs One child in four will need glasses by the first grade, maybe even bi-focals. But usually it isn't discovered, according to the American Optical Corp. The child is used to the poor sight—and it doesn't hurt. How, then, is it discovered? If parents have exceptionally poor vision, the pediatrician may be looking for it. Or the retina may not respond to light. There are instruments which determine the necessary correction. And glasses can be made to fit. This nine-month-old from Southbridge, Mass., for instance, is wearing a hand-sculptured bridge section, the nose piece thickening from the top so that it will be secure over the immature nasal area. Early detection and correction are important and will eliminate some future vision problems.

Gift of Blue Love Ballerina Merilee Magnuson, 18, who dances Alice in Wonderland in the traveling company of "Disney on Parade," has acquired many fans and admirers during her career. But the one she'll never forget was a "Backstage Johnny" who appeared with gifts after her opening in Chicago. The young swain also appeared with his mommy and daddy. He was four years old. "He had come to see an earlier performance and announced to his folks that he had fallen deeply in love with me and wanted to buy me a blue automobile to match my blue eyes," Merilee remembers. Was that the gift? A car? "No," smiled the pretty young dancer, "his parents persuaded him to change it to a bouquet of blue carnations."

Merilee Magnuson has four-year-old fan.

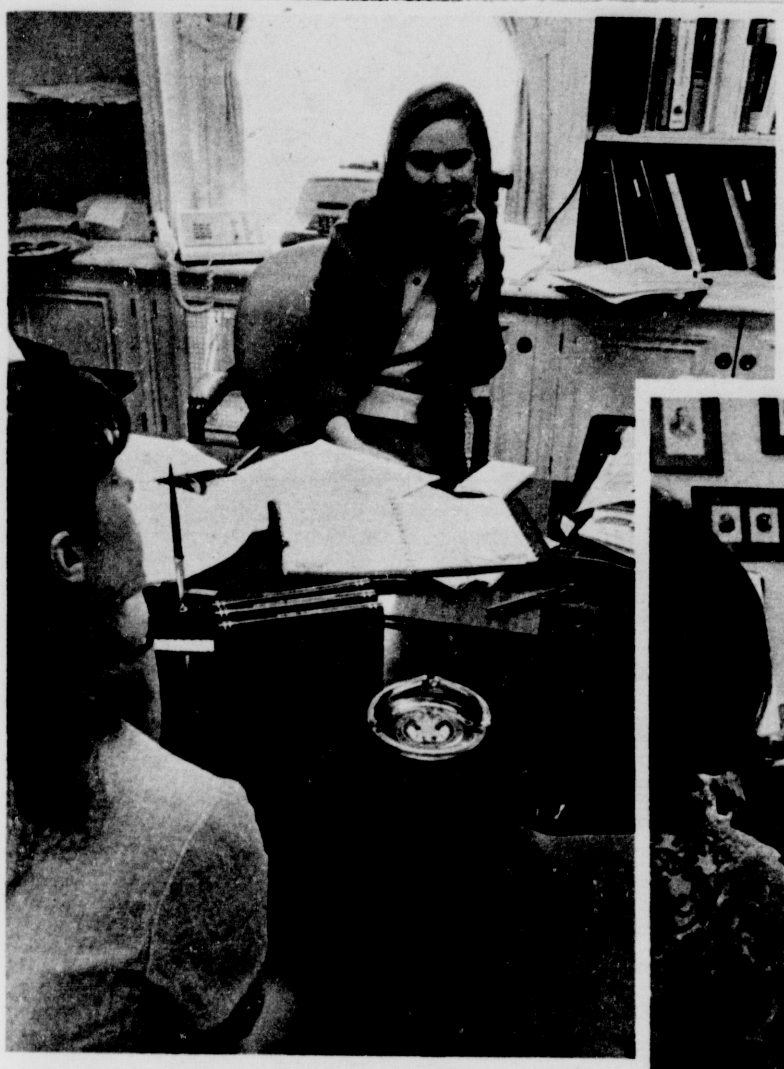
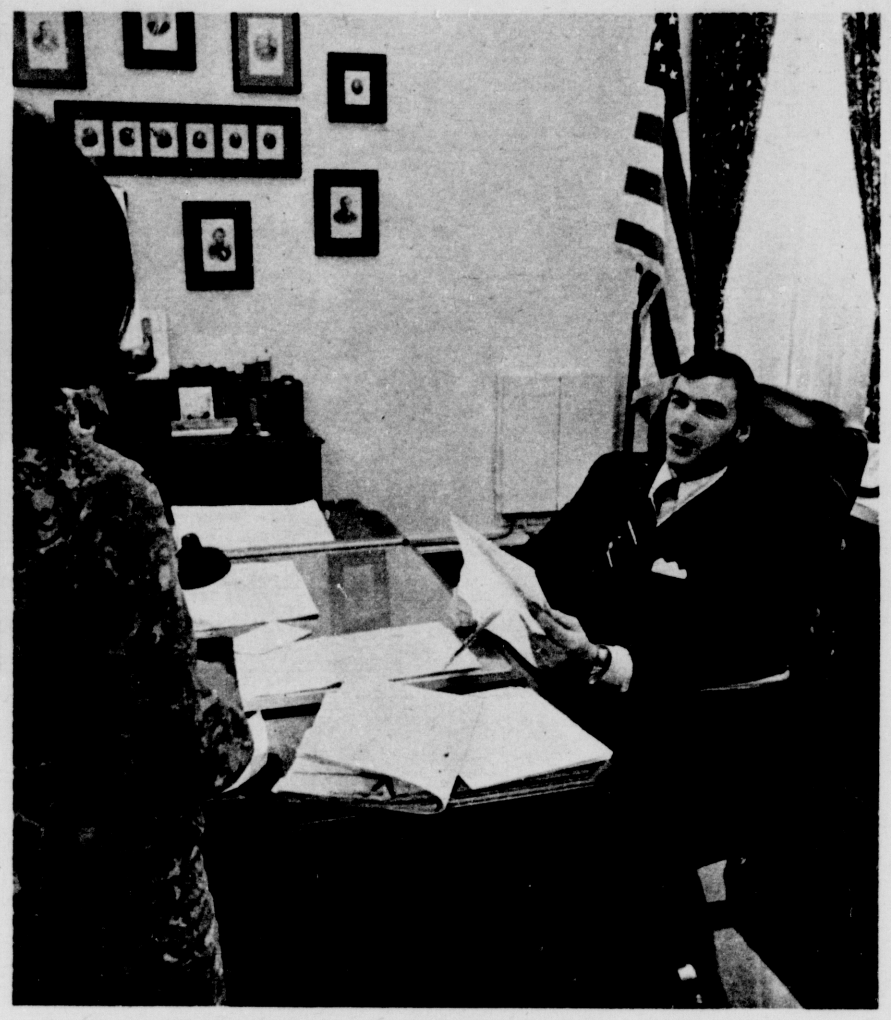
The 'Other Couple' in





Connie Stuart, 31, is Staff Director and Press Secretary to Mrs. Richard Nixon, while husband, Chuck, 32, is multi-dutied Staff Assistant to President Nixon.

At 8:00 o'clock every weekday morning, an official chauffeured limousine delivers a slim, red-headed young woman with a bulging black briefcase to the East Wing of the White House in Washington.

With three doughnuts and a cup of coffee at her desk, Connie Stuart scans the newspapers to launch a hectic 12-hour day. An hour earlier, her husband had arrived, breakfasted in the mess, and promptly started work in another office.

Seldom seen or heard of by the public, Chuck and Connie Stuart hold important "His" and "Her" posts within the White House inner circle. They are so physically attractive that Central Casting might have sent them; in fact, they once modeled as an "All-American" couple for a slick magazine ad.

Unflappable Constance ("Connie") Stuart, 31, smartly groomed, her titian hair hanging on her shoulders, is the $30,000-a-year Staff Director and Press Secretary to Mrs. Richard Nixon. Charles ("Chuck") Stuart, 32, a muscular 6′ 4″, who habitually wears a conservative button-down white shirt and gray suit, is a Staff Assistant to the President. Aside from the Nixons, they are the only married couple with official duties at the White House.

In her multi-faceted job, Connie Stuart is aided by the First Lady's social secretary and others on her staff. The range of her responsibilities is astonishing. She supervises arrangements for social events, such as state dinners. She stages two press briefings a week. Keeps close liaison with the President's staff. Handles luncheons and teas for Mrs. Nixon, including receiving lines, which may extend to more than 500 women. Plans the entertainment for major functions such as the one for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor last April. Makes sure Tricia Nixon will be greeting a group of visiting blind children. And much more.

"During an average day," Connie says, "I am given memos and letters that mount at least three inches high. Much of it goes into my briefcase. I work on the papers in the car, at home in the evenings, and weekends, and again in the car coming back in the morning."

Chuck's $20,000-a-year job is varied in different ways. His immediate boss is H. R. Haldeman, a top assistant to the President for operational management. "He is a General Factotum," says Chuck, "and I am a general factotum under the General Factotum. Since I keep getting different assignments, I've been called a utility outfielder. I'm about the only one I can think of at the White House who tackles such a diversity of projects. I never know what to expect tomorrow." (To which Connie comments, "That's what keeps Charles happy.")

Among these projects, Chuck played a big role in arrangments for the inauguration and for the Cabinet's introduction on television; helped recruit key personnel for the Administration; set up the logistics for the President's trip to Asia last year, and, more recently, for his visits to the Midwest; and served as advance man for two of Mrs. Nixon's major trips to the West Coast and other sections of the country.

A few weeks ago, the President asked Stuart to plan the itinerary for a trip by Julie and David Eisenhower to Japan's Expo '70, and Chuck had to deal with the State Department, U.S. Information Agency, the Japanese Government, and, of course, Mr. Nixon, Julie, and David.

The other afternoon, I sat chattering with both Stuarts (a rare occasion when they were together during the day) in Connie's spacious East Wing office. Besides the yellow walls, there were yellow wall-to-wall carpeting and a lemon-yellow damask settee, a Hunt table used as a desk, and a comfortable chair to relax in. Photographs of the Stuarts covered most of the wall beside the table. Connie sipped from a can of cola, and Chuck puffed at his pipe. Here's how the talk ran:

What, I wanted to know, did they find really exciting about their jobs?

Connie: "It's the contacts with Mrs. Nixon and the President. At first I tried to see Mrs. Nixon at least an hour a day. Now I manage to catch her about five hours a week. Sometimes, though, we're on the phone for half an hour."

Chuck: "That's the single compelling factor, the contact, although I see the President infrequently. It's exciting to know you are making a contribution to the man you believe in. Everyone at the White House reveres the Office of the President. But we are here because we have the utmost respect for Mr. Nixon as a person."

Connie: "With the day-to-day mayhem going on around here, at times it's hard to see our contribution. Our largest reward is that we feel involved, that we are participating."

Chuck: "It's like being an offensive guard on a football team. You don't pass the ball, you don't kick or make a touchdown. But you are part of the team."

What qualities do the Stuarts see in the Nixons that the general public is unaware of?

Connie: "Contrary to what many people believe, Mrs. Nixon is not shy. It's just that she is reserved, the natural reserve of a woman. She does not seek the limelight."

Chuck: "In the public mind this is contrasted with the image of one or two past First Ladies who were strongly publicity-oriented."

Connie: "What impresses me is Mrs. Nixon's honest interest in people, both young and old, and she responds to them warmly in her natural manner."

Chuck: "We've noticed that Mrs. Nixon always takes a back seat to the President, staying behind him whenever he makes a speech. She feels he should have stage center."

Connie: "I'm amazed at her personal strength. In March, I was with her on that grueling five-state, 4,000-mile tour of college volunteer projects. She met with students, moved through crowds shaking hands and accepting gifts, held four press conferences, and was more active than anyone else. The press corps was exhausted. Yet in private sessions with me, Mrs. Nixon never once complained of being tired.

Chuck and Connie Stuart find working for the Nixons an exciting, challenging experience

"On three occasions—at a hotel, an airport, and a school—we were faced with hecklers and picket signs. Mrs. Nixon just ignored them.

Chuck: "I was with the President and Mrs. Nixon on their trip to Asia last year. In Lower Pakistan and in Indian villages, Mrs. Nixon went out in the 120-degree heat. Weary reporters wondered how she stayed so fresh, with not a hair out of place. Mrs. Nixon said she never felt the heat or cold. 'When you have to do these things,' I heard her say, 'you make up your mind not to let them bother you.' "

Connie: "She keeps her cool under any circumstances. I guess it's her remarkable theromstat."

Chuck: "The President, too, has an enormous amount of energy. I saw that in Asia. He also has a fantastic ability to maintain his composure and take command of any situation. For instance, in Thailand, he did not expect to be given a lengthy, seven-minute welcoming toast. The President responded off-the-cuff with an equally long toast. We all listened in awe."

And what did the Stuarts find most annoying about their jobs? In unison, they replied: "Not enough time!"

Chuck: "It's the great demands on our total personal time. We need a 35-hour day."

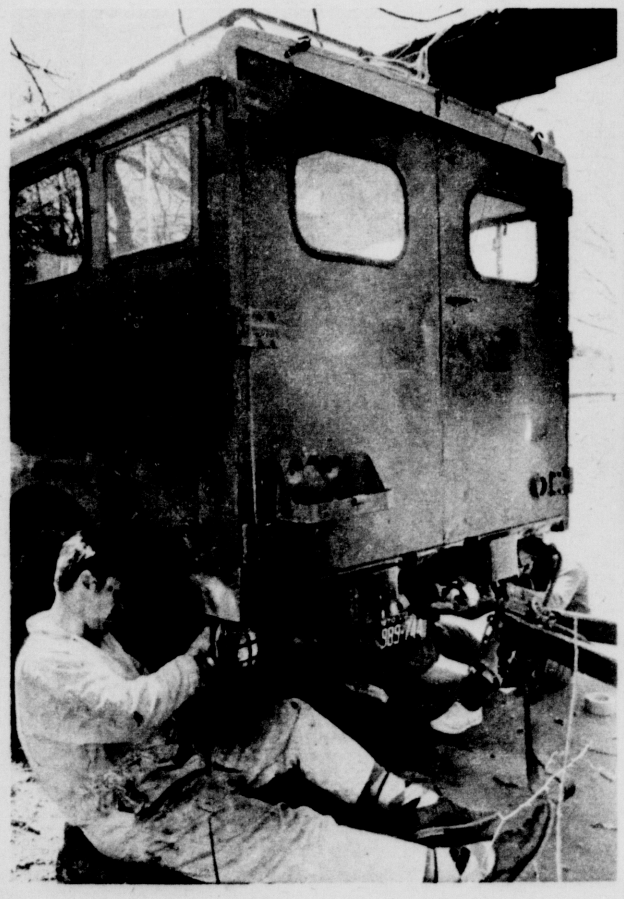
Connie: "I work from 8:00 to 8:00, plus two or three evenings a week. At a White House state dinner, I stay on to help with arrangements for the guests. I don't get any dinner myself; I couldn't keep it down, anyway. At those functions, I usually wear one of my three red wigs. I don't have two hours in any day to have my hair done. But I have to look right, so I send out a wig to the hairdresser."

Chuck: "I also put in 12 hours a day when I'm in Washington, but my kind of work involves a lot of weekend travel."

Connie: "Some problems on this job can be very annoying. At my press briefings, certain women reporters tend to be nasty—or, I should say, aggressive questioners. They badger me for the answer they want and will not take a referral. That's when I recognize another reporter for a different question. I understand that a few reporters have grumbled that I talk to them like a schoolteacher and call them 'ladies.' Well, I think it is nice to be called a lady."

With their long, demanding hours on duty, the Stuarts do not have much leisure time together. "I love my husband very much," says Connie, ruefully, "and I wish I could spend more time with him."

About once a month, they meet for lunch and occasionally have supper together in the White House mess. Three nights a week, Chuck stays late so that he can drive home with her. On arrival, Connie "falls apart," heads for a couch, and sleeps awhile. Chuck, if he hasn't picked up take-away hamburgers or fried chicken on the drive, fixes soup and sandwiches, or whips up a simple dinner. They have no social life.



Chuck Stuart works on 1952 military ambulance converted to serve as hunting vehicle. Coiffed wigs come in handy for busy Connie Stuart.

Home to the Stuarts is a four-bedroom brick colonial house on an acre in Great Falls, Va., 45 minutes from the White House. Almost every room boasts a phone, including one that is Signal Corps-operated for White House calls. The place is full of what Connie calls "Early Auction" massive furniture and Chippendale—some genuine antiques, others "just old." And there's the Stuart cat, "Moustache," who gets fed in the morning. No children.

"I used to make all my own dresses, slipcovers, and curtains," says Connie. "I still do some sewing on weekends. Since I don't have time to find help, we do our own cleaning."

When Connie is tied up with her White House papers—often until after midnight or Sundays—Chuck keeps happy with do-it-yourself house tasks. He paints, builds shelves, recently turned a family room into a panelled library, and installed a 150-year-old carved oak mantel he found through a classified ad.

Connie cooks only on weekends, if at home. In a locker, they have stored 200 pounds of moose meat (from their hunting in Newfoundland last fall), lots of venison and goose from Texas. Connie's favorite dish: moose teriyaki.

Hunting is a Stuart passion. They've already engaged a guide for this fall to hunt for bear and mountain goat in British Columbia. For a wedding anniversary, Chuck presented his wife with a custom-made gun for deer-size game. Their hunting vehicle is a converted 1952 military ambulance, once the property, successively, of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. Chuck cut windows in the sides, then painted and installed upholstery.

An avid collector, he has acquired 42 antique mugs and scores of bayonets, swords, and other edged weapons. Connie had to collect something, too, so she chose the smallest item she could think of: thimbles. They're of gold, wood, bone, silver, enamel, brass, and china. "I'm learning," she says, "that thimbles are a form of art work."

Whether the Stuarts are regarded as All-American or as an "odd couple," their route to the White House was less odd than traditionally American.

Starting out to be an actress, Connie majored in speech and dramatics at the University of Maryland and performed in several radio dramas. Her first full-time jobs, however, were with New York public-relations firms, then with A.T.&T., producing films. In New York, she met Charles Stuart at a "singles club," one of five moonlighting enterprises he operated while employed by a financier. A year after they were married, both plunged into the Nixon campaign, Chuck as an advance man across the country. "We're born Republicans," they'll tell you.

The day after election, Nixon asked Chuck to join the Administration as Staff Assistant to the President. It took Chuck half an hour to decide. When the Stuarts moved to Washington, Connie was hired by the local telephone company, then setting up a TV station. Last October, Connie was tendered her present post. Chuck insists that no one asked his permission to approach Connie. "I felt," he says, "that she might as well do something she gets paid for, rather than mow the lawn."

Connie had known Pat Nixon during the campaign, though "not well." Shortly after the appointment, the First Lady was asked if her choice of a Staff Director oriented to television and publicity meant she was seeking a new image. "No one," Mrs. Nixon replied, "can change my image. I could never change."

A change may become visible in the Stuarts. "There's a tremendous amount of personal growth in our jobs," Chuck remarks. "We are both highly motivated."

As for raising a family, they maintain there is no time to think about it. Married only three years, the Stuarts had agreed to postpone personal plans when they joined the Nixons.

Eventually, after they leave the White House? "We'll need," sighs Connie, smiling, "plenty of rest and recuperation." ◆

By JERRY KLEIN

With the Fourth of July anniversary of our nation's Declaration of Independence just a few days off, it's a good time to test your knowledge of significant developments during the earliest days of the United States.

See how many of the following multiple-choice questions you are able to answer correctly. If you get all 10 right, you're a real "firecracker" when it comes to American history.

1. While this man signed the Declaration of Independence, his son was a traitor to the American cause and was jailed, then deported: (A) John Hancock (B) Benjamin Franklin (C) Edward Rutledge

2. How many states were there in the Union when George Washington first became President? (A) thirteen (B) eleven (C) none

3. A Yankee Doodle was: (A) a group of soldiers in the Revolutionary Army (B) a variety of New England poultry (C) a musical instrument

4. Which state was a kingdom? (A) Hawaii (B) Louisiana (C) Florida

5. A signer of the Declaration of Independence, George Wythe, died when: (A) poisoned by a relative (B) hung by the British (C) shot by his wife

6. The 50th anniversary of the original 4th of July brought: (A) final ratification of the peace treaty with Great Britain (B) death of two former Presidents (C) start of the Civil War

7. Which state lies farthest west? (A) California (B) Hawaii (C) Alaska

8. The first President born in the United States was: (A) Martin Van Buren (B) George Washington (C) Andrew Jackson

9. "Uncle Sam" is a nickname that: (A) is completely imaginary (B) was given to Samuel Adams (C) was given to a real businessman

10. In the war against the French and Indians, a British Redcoat leader was: (A) Alexander Hamilton (B) George Washington (C) Nathan Hale

Answers

1. (B) Young William Franklin's opposition to American Independence alienated him from his father, who disinherited him.

2. (B) Not until after Washington's Inauguration as Chief Executive did North Carolina and Rhode Island join the rest of the thirteen original United States.

3. (A) Captain Thomas Fitch of Norwalk, Conn., led a group of militiamen, who, for decoration, wore chicken feathers in their hats, making them look foolish. In the language of the day, "doodle" was a derisive term.

4. (A) Hawaii was a kingdom for many years before becoming a U. S. territory and then a state.

5. (A) The Virginia jurist and teacher is believed to have been done in by an unprincipled nephew who wanted his money.

6. (B) Both John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died on July 4, 1826.

7. (C) The Aleutian island chain of Alaska extends considerably farther west than California or Hawaii.

8. (A) The United States came into existence in 1776 and Van Buren was born in 1782.

9. (C) A Troy, New York, meatpacker named Sam Wilson sold provisions to the Government during the War of 1812 that were put in barrels stamped U. S. The legend grew that these initials stood not for United States but for Uncle Sam.

10. (B) As a young British officer, Washington learned much that he put to good purpose in defeating the Redcoats in the Revolution. ◆

End the Problem of Dry Skin

Unless you take particular care, low humidity, both indoors and out can easily rob your complexion of the precious moist oils quicker than the oil ducts of the skin can replace it, thus resulting in dry skin and the formation of wrinkles.

A little extra attention should be taken at this time of year by smoothing Oil of Olay over the face and neck daily before applying make-up. Oil of Olay is recommended because of its special properties that help nature to maintain the natural oil and moisture balance of the skin.

Beauty, the glow of a healthy complexion and protection of your skin from dryness are yours all year 'round when you use this unique tropical oil regularly. Skin beauty specialists are also recommending that Oil of Olay should be smoothed over the face last thing at night before retiring to give your skin the added benefit of nighttime care.

Pickle Delights

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ That familiar jar of favorite pickles may be a part of your July 4th festive fare—but for something different, also put pickles into meat loaf, quick bread, salad, or other dishes.

Dill Surprise Meat Loaf

- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon Accent
- ¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
- ½ teaspoon ground marjoram
- 3 slices white bread, torn in pieces
- 1½ lbs. round steak, ground twice
- ¾ cup chopped onion (1 medium-sized onion)
- 3 dill pickles
- ½ cup bottled hamburger relish
- Canned pork and beans

1. Beat egg slightly in a bowl. Add milk, Worcestershire, and a blend of salt, Accent, pepper, and marjoram. Mix in the bread.

2. Put meat and onion into a large bowl. Cut through meat using a wooden spoon. Add liquid mixture and mix lightly and thoroughly.

3. Remove one half to a shallow baking pan and lightly shape into a rectangle, about 10x4½ in. Put dill pickles end to end along center of meat. Shape remaining meat over pickles, rounding the top.

4. Bake in a 350°F. oven 45 min.

5. Meanwhile, turn contents of 2 or 3 cans pork and beans into a casserole and heat in oven along with meat loaf during the final 25 min. of cooking.

6. Remove meat loaf after 45 min. and spread hamburger relish evenly over entire top surface. Return meat loaf to oven for 15 min.

7. If desired, transfer meat loaf to a cutting board and slice. Serve with the pork-and-bean casserole, dill pickles, and cool crisp radishes.

About 6 servings

Molded Lime-Pickle Salad

- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- ½ cup cold water
- ½ cup sweet pickle liquid
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ¾ cup sliced sweet gherkins
- ⅔ cup shredded cabbage
- ½ cup shredded carrot
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup chopped pimiento

1. Pour the boiling water over gelatin in a bowl; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add cold water and pickle liquid and mix well.

2. Chill gelatin until slightly thickened, stirring occasionally. Add mayonnaise and beat with a hand rotary or electric beater until mixture is fluffy. Stir in the remaining ingredients and turn into a 1-qt. fancy mold. Chill until firm.

3. To serve, unmold onto a chilled serving platter, garnish with sprigs of parsley or watercress, and, if desired, surround mold with assorted ready-to-serve sausage or luncheon meat slices. 6 to 8 servings

Pickle-Baked Bean Sandwich Filling

- 1 can (14 to 17 oz.) pork and beans with tomato sauce
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- ⅔ cup chopped sweet pickles
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- ¼ cup prepared bacon-like pieces (a soy protein product)

1. Mix all ingredients.

2. Serve hot or cold over toasted buttered buns. Or sandwich between slices of white, rye, or whole wheat bread. About 3 cups filling

This meat loaf with its dill pickle center and topping of hamburger relish is equally delicious whether it is served hot or cold.

Peach 'n' Pickle Skillet Supper

- ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- ¼ cup sweet pickle liquid
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 to 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire
- 1 can (12 oz.) luncheon meat
- 1 can (16 oz.) sliced peaches, drained
- ½ cup thin sweet pickle slices

1. Mix brown sugar, mustard, and salt together in a large skillet. Add tomato sauce, pickle liquid, lemon juice, horseradish, and Worcestershire; blend well. Bring to boiling. Cover and simmer 5 min.

2. Cut luncheon meat into ¼-in. slices and put into the sauce. Turn the sliced peaches and pickles over meat. Spoon sauce over all. Cover and simmer until thoroughly heated.

About 4 servings

Pickled Biscuit Roll

- 4 cups all-purpose buttermilk biscuit mix
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup drained sweet pickle relish

1. Using the biscuit mix and water, prepare biscuit dough, following directions on package. Divide dough in half. Roll one half into a rectangle, about 14x11 in. Spread dough evenly with ½ cup of the relish. Roll up lengthwise beginning at one end, press long edge to seal, and put, sealed edge down, to one side of a large ungreased baking sheet. Repeat procedure with remaining dough and relish.

2. Bake at 450°F. 15 min., or until lightly browned.

3. Remove from oven to wire rack and cool bread on baking sheet about 10 min. Immediately transfer to a cutting board, cut diagonally into ¾-in. slices, and serve warm. If desired, accompany with a bowl of Creamy Vegetable-Cheese Spread.

2 biscuit rolls

Creamy Vegetable-Cheese Spread

Put 8 oz. (1 pkg.) cream cheese, softened, into a bowl. Mix in 1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon seasoned pepper, and 2 tablespoons milk. When mixture is smooth, stir in ½ cup finely shredded carrot, ⅓ cup chopped green pepper, and ¼ cup thinly sliced green onion with tops.

About 1½ cups spread

How lovely the garden on our right.
The lawn is velvet, the flowers are bright.
And to our left the verdure spreads
Pristine around the annual beds.

So why is our garden so sad, alas,
Bereft of blossoms, with trampled grass?
The reason is simple and all too clear:
The neighbors' children are playing here.

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

A suburbanite, disgusted at the high cost of vegetables, decided to do something about it. He told his grocer, "I'm going to start a garden this year. Pretty soon I won't be complaining about your high prices any more."

"That's right," said the experienced grocer. "And pretty soon you'll be wondering how I can afford to sell vegetables so cheap."

Hiring relatives is called nepotism. What the relatives do is called napotism. —Frank Tyger

Going over last month's canceled checks, a husband suddenly demanded of his wife, "What did you pay the doctor $10 for?"

"He painted my throat," she replied.

"Well," grumbled the husband, "I guess it's a good thing he didn't wallpaper it." —Lane Olinghouse

One thing we know about the speed of light—it gets here early in the morning. —Lucille J. Goodyear

The house for sale at the seashore was advertised with these words: "Where the turf meets the surf."

A passer-by remarked, "They should have said: 'Where the debris meets the sea.'" —Dorothea Kent

Cookout Lookout

Because we lit the charcoal late,
We served our chicken semi-fried,
And placed beside it on each plate,
Potatoes black, but raw inside.
And now that all the food is gone,
And guests are long-departed souls,
My hostess eye alights upon
A glowing bed of perfect coals.

JOHN WAYNE: The 'Oscar's' Sweet Aftermath

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

When John Wayne flew back from Hollywood to Tucson, Ariz., to continue filming of "Rio Lobo" after picking up his Oscar for Best Actor for his role in "True Grit," he couldn't figure out what was happening on the set.

It didn't make any sense to Wayne when he walked down the old Tucson street that everybody's back was turned to him. At least not until, at a given signal, close to 200 of his coworkers suddenly turned to face him—each wearing a patch over one eye. "It was the damnedest thing I ever saw!" "Duke" said when I met him on location three days later. "Even the horses were wearing eye patches!" This was, of course, in tribute to his role as the one-eyed Rooster Cogburn, for which he won the award.

That Wayne would get a nomination was a foregone conclusion. His performance in "True Grit" was one of the best of his career. "Rooster was a mean old devil," he said, "and that's me."

Duke admitted that he didn't think he'd get nominated this year, and that even if he should, he didn't have a chance of winning. "But once I was nominated, I sure as hell wanted to win!" he told me.

Few actors I know ever received more congratulations from a wider section of the American public than Wayne. He himself opened more than 200 telegrams the morning after the awards. His wife Pilar opend telegrams for two-and-a-half hours at home. And these were only the telegrams! Congratulatory letters were still arriving weeks later.

For Duke, the most exciting congratulations came from President Nixon, who had attempted several times to get hold of him on location. When they were finally connected, the President said, "The whole family watched the awards, and I just want to tell you I am proud of you—on the screen and off."

At 63, John Wayne (who was born Marion Michael Morrison, in Winterset, Iowa) is really sitting on top of the world. He has the coveted award on his mantel. Except for Paul Newman and Steve McQueen, he's the only actor whose name still assures box-office receipts and who can demand, even in these difficult times, close to a million dollars a picture.

He has no intention of retiring, although he thinks the industry needs a lot of improving. "The old days of the responsible movie makers were better. It's too bad that to a lot of producers today it doesn't seem to matter whether or not a script is good or bad as long as it's pornographic and, they think it is going to sell tickets. I don't think this trend is going to last. I sure hope it isn't."

Whatever trend Hollywood takes, it would just seem impossible to imagine the movie colony without John Wayne. And now it looks like he's going to be busier than ever. ◆

LOSE UP TO 3¼" OFF YOUR WAIST WITH SLIM-GARD IN 14 DAYS OR IT COST YOU NOTHING!

Joe Weider "INCHES OFF" SLIM-GARD The Instant Waist Slimmer

NOW. . . an entirely new science weapon against ugly fat, THE SLIM-GARD PLAN, scientifically tested in a leading University to take off up to 17 lbs. in 14 days of your fat . . . lose up to 3¼" off your pot belly, waist and hips . . . both in the same 14 days! You're guaranteed an attractive waistline, a more exciting you in just 2 weeks, or it costs you nothing!

Thousands of formerly fat and flabby run-down women have reported these sensational results over the past few weeks.

CONFESSIONS OF A FORMER FAT SLOB

by Evangeline Cloutier

You may find it hard to believe, but these are two unretouched photos of me taken just a few weeks apart. Even my friends, who I hadn't seen in months, hardly recognized the new slimmer me. Fat does terrible things to a woman. I looked and felt absolutely awful . . . I couldn't wear the right clothes . . . but that's all changed now. Today, I feel pounds lighter and 20 years younger. My husband even says I'm sexier.

How did I lose so much weight and slim down in just a matter of days? No tricks or gimmicks. Just a sensible 3-part plan called the "Slim-Gard" Slimmers Formula. It absolutely works where nothing else worked for me before. And believe me, I've tried everything. Vibrators, electronic machines, rubber, sauna, and weighted belts, pills, crash diets. Even the government says that these devices by themselves are practically useless for slimming and shaping. Nothing did the trick for me until "Slim-Gard" Slimmers Formula.

I ATTACKED MY FAT PROBLEM, THAT BROUGHT ME SO MUCH MISERY, WITH THIS SIMPLE 1-2-3 EFFORTLESS "SLIM-GARD" plan . . .

1 I wore "Slim-Gard" about 15 minutes daily and this helped me slim inches off my flabby belly and hips. I didn't even know I had it on — nothing showed except the inches that disappeared.

2 I "drank away overall fat" with my silent partner, "THE SLIMMERS SHAKE!" I used this protein and vitamin-mineral enriched drink once, sometimes twice daily, to help me retrain my appetite and keep my lost weight — lost!

3 I did the "Slimmers Routine", just 15 minutes a day, to make sure that the weight I lost was lost in the right places. It helped me reshape my figure and my entire future.

In just a few weeks on this plan, in the privacy of my own home, I emerged a new person, reshaped, vital, showing an overall fat loss of 31 pounds and a 7¼" take-off from my waist.

ARE YOU one of the 40 million Americans whose lives are blighted by fat? Or are you one of the 65 million Americans who just want to lose a few inches fast? If you are, why not join me and thousands of others by following this simple "Slim-Gard" University tested plan, it may work for you where "gimmicks" failed. The most beautiful part of it all is that it's guaranteed to work for you or it doesn't cost you a penny.

A few weeks ago, Evangeline Cloutier weighed a fat 160 lbs. and moved as slowly as an elderly woman. "When I sat down," she said, "it was truly hard to rise . . . so I constantly sat!" "Then The Slim-Gard Plan came into my life . . . and now 31 pounds later . . . I feel renewed, reborn, and really alive!"

DON'T WAIT . . . make the SLIM-GARD PLAN yours! IT CAN HAPPEN TO YOU TOO!

1 THE "SLIM GARD"

The Instant Slimmer — Trims inches off your waist, hips and lower back.

Slip on Slim-Gard, then all you do is take it easy. Because while you're just relaxing, watching TV, working around the home or even eating, your waist, hips and lower back are getting an effortless massaging effect that takes inches off your body in all the right places. Without your even knowing it! Until you look at your tape measure and slip into a smaller size dress. Slim Gard hugs your body gently and firmly, keeping warm air in — cool air out — trimming inches away the lazy way. Slim Gard and the Slimmers Formula —work together most effectively for the fat gal or the slender Miss. Instructions are included for the woman who wants to quickly lose 20 to 30 pounds . . . and for the slender gal who wants to lose only a few inches off her waist without losing weight. The Slimmers Formula with Slim Gard will help you stay slim and trim for the rest of your life. Remember, you're guaranteed results in just 14 days or your money back.

Building a natural Muscle Girdle that holds in your waist for life is easy, when you buy and use

SLIM GARD (Made to last for years) and The Slimmer's Routine. Only $11.95

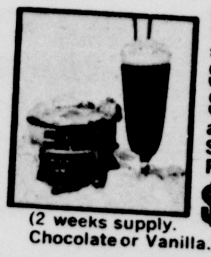
Comes in Small Medium and Large sizes.

2 "SLIMMER" SHAKE

Helps You Lose Up to a Pound-A-Day — 14 Pounds in 14 Days — Without Losing Your Strength and Vigor.

If you're 10 to 75 pounds overweight and want to lose as much as a pound a day, Part 2 of the university tested famous Slimmers Formula is the easiest and most delicious way to do it. It's called the Slimmer Shake — a scrumptious, protein-enriched milk-shake-flavored drink. It supplies nutrients to your body while it helps slenderize you. Even a Miss Chubby who wouldn't lift a finger to exercise can lose up to a pound a day, 14 pounds in 14 days—just drinking the Slimmer Shake.



For fast overall weight losses you should order SLIMMER SHAKE and The Slimmer's Routine. Only $11.98

I GUARANTEE YOU A WAIST LOSS OF UP TO 3.25" —A WEIGHT LOSS OF UP TO 17 POUNDS—IN THE NEXT 14 DAYS—OR IT COSTS YOU NOTHING!—FAIR?

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

My entirely New "SCIENCE WEAPON" and the SLIMMER'S Formula really works! That's why I can guarantee those results. I have tested it over 2 years with astonishing results and just recently a CONTROLLED TEST WAS CONDUCTED AT A LEADING UNIVERSITY AND AS MENTIONED BEFORE, THE STUDENTS REPORTED WAIST LOSSES OF UP TO 3.25 INCHES AND OVERALL FAT LOSSES OF UP TO 17 POUNDS—IN JUST 14 DAYS.

"You Can't be Serious," said my husband

MINK OIL? A BEAUTY AID?

—He didn't know the complexion secret that I discovered.

You'd never guess my age if you met me in person. That's because my skin never "tells on me". I discovered an astonishing beauty secret in my own back yard. I think most women will be excited to know how it happened.

This is my story:

My husband owns and manages a mink farm where we live. Yet I taught him something that he, one of America's leading mink experts, had never realized.

And that is this: locked within the oil glands of this costly small creature is a complexion beauty secret more precious than even the beautiful coats that come from it.

Almost without exception, men who handle raw mink pelts have hands that are "young". Some of our employees have been with us 25 years and more. A great many are approaching retirement. Yet there is hardly a one of them whose hands are not soft, smooth, unwrinkled.

None of them had those signs of aging—the thin, watery, tissue-y skin that is the usual sign of growing old.

I came to the conclusion that some substance in the body or skin of mink was being transferred to their hands during the processing procedures. Nothing else could account for their skin staying young while they grew old otherwise.

Then I decided if it was so good for hands, it must be equally good on face and throat—areas where most women first note the resentful signs of the years.

So I managed to extract a small quantity of the mink skin oil and enlisted a friend who is a chemist. He compounded the oil into a balm base and I used it on my face, throat and hands for a couple of weeks.

Imagine my delight and amazement when my skin responded as I simply wouldn't have dreamed possible. Yes, my complexion became smooth, clear and vital. I felt like a young girl again—I really think I actually felt better all over to have recaptured this one important element of youth.

In just a few short weeks I knew I had really uncovered a seeming miracle. Telltale skin-aging gradually disappeared leaving my complexion young, vibrant, glowing-looking and with that freshness every woman wants.

So, I am surprised to find myself in the beauty business—directing the production of my precious complexion aid and offering it to women for the first time . . . so that every woman can know first-hand the excitement of skin that stays young at any age . . . Thanks to Mink Oil.

Yes, the secret I discovered from the mink workers is now yours. The precious mink oil that keeps their skin young is the basic wonder-worker in my fabulous beauty-aid—EMLIN® Essential Creme.

You can find out for yourself how amazingly effective it is. Like enjoying an expensive beauty treatment in a posh salon—but you do it in the privacy of your own home, without muss or fuss. And you don't risk a single penny to make the discovery that took me years to uncover.

For . . . the fantastic results that my friends and I have enjoyed must be duplicated for you or I'll gladly refund your purchase price. I am so positive EMLIN® will work for you as it is doing for thousands of other grateful women, young and old, that if you are not totally delighted, all you have to do is tell me so and I'll send you my personal check for your purchase price—and I'll even add to that the cost of the postage you've spent in ordering and writing me.

Order your first supply of EMLIN® today. Send $5 cash, check or M.O. for 40 day supply. In no time, be on your way back to youthful-looking attractiveness.

Now...Plastic Cream Revolutionizes Denture Wearing

For the first time, science now offers a unique plastic cream that holds false teeth—both "uppers" and "lowers"—as they've never been held before. It forms an elastic membrane that actually holds dentures to mouth and gum surfaces!

It's FIXODENT—a revolutionary discovery for daily home use. So different it's protected by U.S. Patent #3,003,988.

FIXODENT not only holds dentures firmer, but it holds them more comfortably, too. It's so elastic you may bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally. You may even eat and enjoy apples, steak, and corn-on-the-cob again.

The special pencil-point dispenser lets you put FIXODENT exactly where it's needed. Resists oozing over and gagging.

Just one application may last round-the-clock. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get easy-to-use FIXODENT Denture Adhesive Cream at all drug counters.

CAMPUS CLATTER

DOOLITTLE COLLEGE UNION

WE'VE BEEN WAITING TWENTY MINUTES! WHAT'S WRONG, SHARK? ...OH, SICK!

YOU'RE TOO SICK TO TAKE US SWIMMING, SHARK? IS THIS A COP-OUT?

WE NEED HIS WHEELS!

HE PROMISED!

SICKER THAN A DOG? GOTTA STAY IN BED, EH? ...SURE, WE UNDERSTAND!

HE WAS PROBABLY UP ALL NIGHT PLAYING POKER! THIS CALLS FOR A LITTLE APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY!

YOU JUST TAKE IT EASY, BUDDY! NO, WE DON'T MIND!

CINDY WON'T HAVE TO SQUEEZE INTO HER NEW BIKINI!

YEAH NEW BIKINI... SHE'S AFRAID IT'S NOT SHRINK-PROOF!

IS IT BRIEF? WELL, I DON'T KNOW IF IT'S THE WORLD'S BRIEFEST...

BUT IT'S THE FIRST TIME I'VE SEEN ONE DELIVERED BY MAIL...

...IN A LITTLE, OL' WHITE BUSINESS ENVELOPE!!

JIMMY'S WORLD

DESPITE INFLATION, PEOPLE ARE LIVING BETTER — FOUR OUT OF FIVE FAMILIES HAVE BLACK-AND-WHITE TV SETS AND ONE IN THREE OWNS A COLOR TV.

FOUR OUT OF FIVE HOUSEHOLDS OWN CARS AND ONE OF THREE HAS TWO OR MORE CARS.

TWO OF EVERY THREE AMERICAN FAMILIES OWN HOMES — ONE IN EVERY 11 HOMES HAS ITS OWN POOL.

THE BOOM IN LEISURE SPENDING TOTALED MORE THAN 80 BILLION DOLLARS LAST YEAR...

IT'S NO USE — NOTHING YOU CAN SAY WILL STOP ME FROM WORRYING ABOUT A RECESSION!!

EEK & MEEK

by Howie Schneider

...AND ON THE LOCAL FRONT I WAS WONDERING WHAT EFFECT THE NEW POLLUTION CONTROLS WOULD HAVE ON THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE PICTURE!

DEAR POLLY—Grocery bags can be held upright in the car by slipping a long loop of heavy elastic over the back of the front seat.—CINDY

DEAR POLLY—When my fingertip terry towels start to wear thin I put two together and, using the zig-zag stitch, sew all around the edges.—ANN

DEAR POLLY—Use your ice cream dipper to form uniform servings of salad for those lettuce cups. This is helpful particularly when serving a large crowd at a church or club dinner.—MRS. E. D.

[redacted]

DEAR POLLY—Did you ever hear of a round washcloth? They're great. They fit the hand, and there are no corners to drip. They're easy to make in any size and color. Bind the circle of terry cloth with a bias strip of fabric or tape. I am 80, and if you like this idea it will be my first time to win anything. Am including a sample in my letter. (Polly's note—Thank you. I find this unusual washcloth very pretty and practical, too.)—MRS. J. M.

DEAR POLLY—My son had quite a few textbooks that he wanted to keep. I picked up three apple crates at a market, bought six yards of a pretty adhesive-backed paper, covered each crate separately, and stacked them to make a bookcase. Should we ever move, the books are already packed.—MRS. L. A. L.

DEAR POLLY—When you read a Polly's Pointer that satisfies a need—cut it right out and tape it where it will be a reminder at the right time.—MRS. E. J. N.

DEAR POLLY—My sister and I put a number on the door of each of the rooms we are supposed to clean, place duplicate slips in a jar, and draw for the rooms we will each clean.—P. L. S.

DEAR POLLY—When cutting out a large number of quilt pieces, it's a great help to put about 10 blocks on a long florists' pin (with a head), then add a piece of paper that sticks out at one side, then another 10 blocks, and so on, until the pin is full. The blocks are easy to count just by counting the papers.—M. M. R.

DEAR POLLY—When practicing a number of musical selections, one tends to grow stale or careless because of the monotonous repetition. Reversing the order in which the pieces are practiced now and then helps to give all your efforts equal polish.—SALLY

DEAR POLLY—To make an ice pack for small children when they fall and get a bump, wet a washcloth, put it in the freezer and freeze and then put it in a plastic bag and apply to the bump. —EDNA
